Creating a Personal Mandala

The purpose of this activity is for you to introduce yourself to your teacher. You will represent yourself in the form of a personal mandala. The word mandala originated from Sanskrit word for circle. A mandala can be described as any circular geometric design that contains symbols of a person’s inner self, guiding principles, and overall ideas about the world. The significance of objects within a mandala are conveyed by shape, size, and color; they can be abstract designs or specific drawings of people, places, and ideas that are central to a person’s life.

For this assignment, you will construct and illustrate a mandala that reflects your personalities about the world. The following example gives you categories in which to organize your mandala. Dividing the mandala into categories encourages you to examine your many sides, opposing traits, strengths, and weaknesses.

Your Mandala will have a center and four slices:

CENTER: Self – represent yourself any way you like. Symbols, quotes, words, drawing, etc.
1. Passions
2. Role models
3. Future (hopes/goals)
4. For the last slice, we would like you select one of the traits of a Walnutwood Pathfinder that can also define you and to represent it in your mandala.

WHY DO PEOPLE CYBERBULLY?

Cyberbullies are often motivated by anger, revenge or frustration. Sometimes they cyberbully for entertainment or because they are bored and have too much time on their hands. Many do it for laughs or to get a reaction. Some do it by accident, and either send a message to the wrong recipient or just didn’t stop and think before they sent their negative message.

CYBERBULLYING CAN TAKE MANY DIFFERENT FORMS

THERE ARE MANY WAYS YOU CAN PREVENT CYBERBULLYING:

- Tell friends to stop cyberbullying.
- Report cyberbullying to a trusted adult.
- Refuse to pass along cyberbullying messages.
- Speak with other student, as well as teachers and school administrators, about developing rules against cyberbullying.
- Share anti-cyberbullying messages with friends

Who Can Help?

- School Counselor
- Teacher

Cyberbullying Scenarios

Remember that civil deals with property rights, personal dignity and freedom from personal injury. Civil penalties consist of fines and limitations on behaviour. Criminal law makes certain behaviours illegal and punishable by fines and/or imprisonment. (For example, if you don't get your faulty brakes fixed and you hit another car, that will likely fall under civil law. If you ram another car on purpose, that will fall under criminal law.)

Now read each of the scenarios below, and rate the seriousness of each one from 1 to 5, where:

1 = Totally acceptable and appropriate
2 = Possibly wrong, but no action needs to be taken
3 = Wrong, and school authorities or Internet service providers should take action
4 = Wrong, and civil action could be taken by the target or the target's parents
5 = Wrong, and criminal charges should be pressed
1. A student posts a negative review of a concert given by another student’s band. The review focuses on the band members’ skill as musicians and the quality of their music.

2. A student tweets that one of the teachers at his school is unqualified to teach. The teacher’s name is not used, but he is clearly recognizable to anyone who knows him.

3. A teacher discovers a website that is intended to mock a student in her class and will likely lead to the student being harassed at school. The site was not created at school and is not hosted on school computers (though it can be accessed from them).

4. A student uploads to YouTube a video of his band performing a song that makes fun of teachers. No specific teacher is named or is identifiable from the song.

5. A student writes a letter to the school administration stating that a teacher has used improper discipline in class.

6. A student creates a fake Facebook profile in the name of another student in the class. The other student is Middle Eastern and the profile contains photos of him doctored to look like Osama Bin Laden and statements, supposedly made by him, supporting terrorism.

7. A student finds that photos of her, which were taken by her (now ex-) boyfriend have been shared publicly on Instagram. Then they were copied and reproduced in many more places, including photo-sharing sites. Her ex-boyfriend says that he is not responsible for what was done with the photos after he uploaded them.

8. A student writes a private email to his girlfriend accusing her of cheating on him.

9. A teacher asks students in her class to help write holiday greetings in a variety of languages for the school’s website. Without the teacher’s knowledge, one of the students’ contributions is a false and insulting statement against another teacher.

10. A student posts a picture of her boyfriend on her Instagram account with the hashtag #cheatingslime.

11. A student discovers that other students in his class have created an online poll in which students are invited to vote on which students in the class should be beaten up.

12. A student creates a website in which she criticizes school policies and suggests that several teachers, whom she names, are overly strict in their discipline.

13. A student creates a Facebook group in which he states that one of his teachers is a space alien who is scheming to abduct students and take them to her home planet.

14. A student sends frequent emails to his ex-girlfriend. When she asks him to stop, he sends more emails, many of which contain abusive language.

15. A teacher discovers that students are being pressured by a popular student to remove an unpopular student from their Facebook “friends” lists.
Review these pairs of related scenarios and explain what makes some scenarios more or less acceptable than others.

Scenarios 2 and 4:

Scenarios 5 and 13:

Scenarios 8 and 10:
Three Words: Responsibility. Authority. Accountability.

Responsibility. Authority. Accountability. Success ultimately comes down to three words. I like to harp on these three words when I meet with new students. In order to succeed, each individual must take total responsibility for his or her own life. You must graciously accept credit when it is due, and more importantly, you must be the first to stand up and take the blame when you have made a mistake.

If you get an “A+” on a term paper, it’s because you did the necessary work, not because you got lucky. If you’re late for class, it’s your fault, not because you got stuck waiting at a railroad crossing (you should have left earlier). People who adopt this belief are almost always more successful than those who make excuses.

Every individual has responsibility for himself or herself. Nobody else can or should make decisions for you. Fortunately, each of us has the authority to carry out that responsibility. Nobody has the right to take away the power you have over your own life. Finally, we are accountable for the decisions we make – good or bad. You live with the consequences of your decision-making and actions.

While responsibility, authority, and accountability come with a burden, they are also liberating. Success begins and ends with you. People who abide by these three words enjoy more success and lead richer lives.

No Passivity Allowed

Students must take the initiative to make things happen. Successful people live active rather than passive lives. To persist in school, you must deliberately make things happen. Those students who sit at home waiting for something to happen tend to turn into professionals who sit in their offices wondering why other people are so much more successful.

If you have a question or need help, contact your teacher immediately. This is what an active learner does.

Get Involved

It may sound counter intuitive, but one of the best ways to succeed academically is to get involved outside the classroom. When in independent study, you can easily find yourself isolated and surround only by adults. You need to stay engaged outside of school. Get a job. Create your own challenge. Take a concurrent class at your old school. Take a college class. Volunteer your time. Make scheduled time with your friends so you don’t lose touch. Join a community club. Play a sport. ANYTHING. Stay engaged!

Time Management

While earning good grades takes hard work, you don’t want to be studying 24-7. Your high school experience should be one of the most fun and memorable times of your life. You can enjoy the best of your academic and social lives if you are a good time manager.

As in the professional world, time management habits are one of the single most significant factors that separate the successful from the not-so-successful. If a student is lacking in time management, there are several on-line resources that provide tips, advice and exercises.

My first suggestion would be to get a planner; whether it is a physical planner or one on your phone. Get one that works for you and stick to it. Having a schedule makes each day easier.

Question: How do you feel about what this article is saying? Do you agree or disagree? Respond in 3-6 sentences.

6. Committing an Act of Academic Dishonesty [Ed Code §48900(k) and BP5131.9]

Explanation:
Academic dishonesty includes lying, cheating in various forms, and plagiarism. Such activities may be done individually or in cooperation with others.

Consequences:
Minimum: Failing grade on assignment, and parent notification.
Maximum: Five-day suspension, failing grade in course, and recommendation for expulsion.

Academic Honesty: The Governing Board believes that academic honesty and personal integrity are fundamental components of a student’s education and character development. The Board expects that students will not cheat, lie, plagiarize or commit other acts of academic dishonesty. Students, parents/guardians, staff and administrators shall be responsible for creating and maintaining a positive school climate that encourages honesty. Students found to have committed an act of academic dishonesty shall be subject to disciplinary action which is appropriate for the violation of this policy. Such action will range from parent notification to suspension.

Note from the Counselor: Students, please remember that acts of academic dishonesty, including plagiarism, can be reported by the school to colleges and universities.

Student Statement
Based on the plagiarism activity and the policies of FCUSD and WHS, I understand what acts of academic dishonesty are and what types of consequence it can lead to.

Welcome to Walnutwood! We are looking forward to helping you reach your academic goals this year. If you, your parent, or your guardian has any questions, you may contact us at one of the phone numbers listed on the bottom of each assignment sheet. You may also email teachers via email which can be found on our website and the bottom of each assignment sheet. The most efficient way to contact teacher is email.

Appointment Guidelines
You have been scheduled a day and a time to come to Walnutwood. This 45-minute block has been reserved for you, so it is important that you are on time. By not coming to your appointment or arriving late, you are losing your time. Remember, if a test takes you longer than your 45 minutes, you can continue taking it after your appointment.

You should make every effort to keep your appointment, but if you absolutely cannot, only your parent or guardian can call. He or she should call BEFORE your missed appointment to explain why you cannot make it.

Remember that transportation problems are not a valid excuse for missing your appointment. Also, please do not schedule doctor or dentist appointments during our 45-minute appointment. After the teacher has spoken to your parent or guardian about your absence, you are not excused from your homework. So instead of needing to complete your homework for one week, you would need to do 2 weeks’ worth of homework.

If you fail to attend appointments or fail to complete your homework, you risk being placed on Academic Probation.

Understanding Attendance
While coming to your weekly appointment is crucial to your academic success, it is not what drives how attendance is calculated. Since WHS is an independent study high school, attendance is calculated by homework completion. If a student is assigned two courses, they must complete BOTH in order to received 5 days’ worth of positive attendance. Anything less results in days in the student being marked absent.

WHS Necessities
You will need to have a homework binder with dividers that you bring with you each week. Before your appointment time, please make sure the following items are in your binder: This information packet, completed homework that is stapled with your name clearly labeled, Yellow Assignment Sheet, and a Pencil.

Homework Standards
All of your assignments should reflect your best work possible. Success at school will depend on the time you put into your homework and studying. Credits are earned by successfully passing the required tests for each class. If you do not pass a test, be aware that you must redo all the homework for that particular test; therefore, it is very important that you study for each test. Just completing the homework may not sufficiently prepare you for the test.

If your homework is incomplete for any reason, you will not be allowed to take a test until your work is acceptable. Please do not become discouraged if you need to redo or rewrite an assignment. It is all part of the process to become a more effective learner.

Questions, Questions, Questions
If you have any questions or confusion regarding an assignment, please contact your teacher immediately by email or phone. Do NOT wait until your appointment time to get answers. It is too late then! Remember that your homework is to be complete when you come for your appointment. Not understanding an assignment is not an excuse for incomplete work.
Walnutwood Work Permit Guidelines

Students under the age of 18 must possess a valid work permit when employed. Applications are available at the Rancho Cordova office, on our website, or from their teacher. The application must be filled out by your current employer and signed by your parent or guardian before the work permit will be issued. In addition, the student’s teacher or counselor will also need to verify 2.0 GPA, satisfactory citizenship, and regular attendance (see below). Bring the completed application to the Rancho Cordova front desk for processing.

Please allow 24-48 hours for processing.

Due to the fact the student must sign the actual work permit, the student must be the one who picks up the work permit.

Work permits are allowed only to students who have regular attendance, maintain a 2.0 GPA, and satisfactory citizenship. Students with poor citizenship, attendance, and GPA may have their work permit revoked.

Walnutwood Dance Bid Guidelines

Students are often invited to dances at other schools that require permission from Walnutwood. Students MUST bring the dance bid to main campus in Rancho Cordova to be evaluated by the principal. In order for the principal to adequately assess the bid, it must be completely filled out and signed by all other parties before approval. In addition, the student’s teacher or counselor will also need to verify homework completion rate, satisfactory citizenship, and regular attendance.

Please allow 24-48 hours for processing.
