Table of Contents iii
SUBJECTS AND PREDICATES

1. The simple subject is the key noun or pronoun that tells what the sentence is about. A compound subject is made up of two or more simple subjects that are joined by a conjunction and have the same verb.

   The lantern glows. Moths and bugs fly nearby.

2. The simple predicate is the verb or verb phrase that expresses the essential thought about the subject of the sentence. A compound predicate is made up of two or more verbs or verb phrases that are joined by a conjunction and have the same subject.

   Rachel jogged down the hill.
   Pete stretched and exercised for an hour.

3. The complete subject consists of the simple subject and all the words that modify it.

   Golden curly hair framed the child's face.
   The soft glow of sunset made her happy.

4. The complete predicate consists of the simple predicate and all the words that modify it or complete its meaning.

   Lindy ate a delicious muffin for breakfast.
   The apple muffin also contained raisins.

5. Usually the subject comes before the predicate in a sentence. In inverted sentences, all or part of the predicate precedes the subject.

   (You) Wait for me at the corner. (request)
   Through the toys raced the children. (inverted)
   Is the teacher feeling better? (question)
   There are seats in the first row.

PARTS OF SPEECH

Nouns

1. A singular noun is a word that names one person, place, thing, or idea.

   aunt | meadow | pencil | friendship

   A plural noun names more than one person, place, thing, or idea.

   aunts | meadows | pencils | friendships

2. To help you determine whether a word in a sentence is a noun, try adding it to the following sentences. Nouns will fit in at least one of these sentences:

   He said something about _______. I know something about a(n) _______.
   He said something about aunts. I know something about a meadow.

3. A common noun names a general class of people, places, things, or ideas.

   sailor | city | holiday | music

   A proper noun specifies a particular person, place, thing, event, or idea. Proper nouns are always capitalized.

   Captain Ahab | Rome | Memorial Day | Treasure Island
4. A concrete noun names an object that occupies space or that can be recognized by any of the senses.
leaf melody desk aroma

An abstract noun names an idea, a quality, or a characteristic.
loyalty honesty democracy friendship

5. A collective noun names a group. When the collective noun refers to the group as a whole, it is singular. When it refers to the individual group members, the collective noun is plural.
The family eats dinner together every night. (singular)
The council vote as they wish on the pay increase. (plural)

6. A possessive noun shows possession, ownership, or the relationship between two nouns.
Monica’s book the rabbit’s ears the hamster’s cage

Verbs

1. A verb is a word that expresses action or a state of being and is necessary to make a statement. A verb will fit one or more of these sentences:
   He _______. We _______. She _______ it.
   He knows. We walk. She sees it.

2. An action verb tells what someone or something does. The two types of action verbs are transitive and intransitive. A transitive verb is followed by a word or words—called the direct object—that answer the question what? or whom? An intransitive verb is not followed by a word that answers what? or whom?
   Transitive: The tourists saw the ruins. The janitor washed the window.
   Intransitive: Owls hooted during the night. The children played noisily.

3. An indirect object receives what the direct object names.
   Marcy sent her brother a present.

4. A linking verb links, or joins, the subject of a sentence with an adjective or a noun.
   The trucks were red. (adjective)
   She became an excellent swimmer. (noun)

5. A verb phrase consists of a main verb and all its auxiliary, or helping, verbs.
   We had been told of his arrival.
   They are listening to a symphony.

6. Verbs have four principal parts or forms: base, past, present participle, and past participle. Form the past and past participle by adding -ed to the base.
   Base: I talk.
   Present Participle: I am talking.
   Past: I talked.
   Past Participle: I have talked.
7. Irregular verbs form the past and past participle in other ways.

8. The principal parts are used to form six verb tenses. The tense of a verb expresses time.

Simple Tenses

- Present Tense: She speaks. (present or habitual action)
- Past Tense: She spoke. (action completed in the past)
- Future Tense: She will speak. (action to be done in the future)

Perfect Tenses

- Present Perfect Tense: She has spoken. (action just done or still in effect)
- Past Perfect Tense: She had spoken. (action completed before some other past action)
- Future Perfect Tense: She will have spoken. (action to be completed before some future time)
9. Progressive forms of verbs are made up of a form of be and a present participle and express a continuing action. Emphatic forms are made up of a form of do and a base form and add emphasis or ask questions.

    Progressive: Marla is babysitting. The toddlers have been napping for an hour.
    Emphatic: They do prefer beef to pork.
    We did ask for a quiet table.

10. The voice of a verb shows whether the subject performs the action or receives the action of the verb. A sentence is in the active voice when the subject performs the action. A sentence is in the passive voice when the subject receives the action of the verb.

    The robin ate the worm. (active)
    The worm was eaten by the robin. (passive)

Pronouns

1. A pronoun takes the place of a noun, a group of words acting as a noun, or another pronoun.

2. A personal pronoun refers to a specific person or thing. First-person personal pronouns refer to the speaker, second-person pronouns refer to the one spoken to, and third-person pronouns refer to the one spoken about.

   - Singular
     - First Person: I, me, my, mine
     - Second Person: you, your, yours
     - Third Person: he, she, it, him, her, his, hers, its
   - Plural
     - First Person: we, us, our, ours
     - Second Person: your, your, yours
     - Third Person: they, them, their, theirs

3. A reflexive pronoun refers to the subject of the sentence. An intensive pronoun adds emphasis to a noun or another pronoun. A demonstrative pronoun points out specific persons, places, things, or ideas.

    Reflexive: Nikki prepares himself for the day-long hike.
    Intensive: Nikki himself prepares for the day-long hike.
    Demonstrative: That was a good movie! These are the files you wanted.

4. An interrogative pronoun is used to form questions. A relative pronoun is used to introduce a subordinate clause. An indefinite pronoun refers to persons, places, or things in a more general way than a personal pronoun does.

    Interrogative: Whose are these? Which did you prefer?
    Relative: The bread that we tasted was whole wheat.
    Indefinite: Someone has already told them. Everyone agrees on the answer.

5. Use the subject form of a personal pronoun used as a subject or when it follows a linking verb.

    He writes stories. Are they ready? It is I. (after linking verb)

6. Use the object form of a personal pronoun when it is an object.

    Mrs. Cleary called us. (direct object) Stephen offered us a ride. (indirect object)
    Sara will go with us. (object of preposition)

7. Use a possessive pronoun to replace a possessive noun. Never use an apostrophe in a possessive personal pronoun.

    Their science experiment is just like ours.
8. When a pronoun is followed by an appositive, use the subject pronoun if the appositive is the subject. Use the object pronoun if the appositive is an object. To test whether the pronoun is correct, read the sentence without the appositive.

We eighth-graders would like to thank you.
The success of us geometry students is due to Ms. Marcia.

9. In incomplete comparisons, choose the pronoun that you would use if the missing words were fully expressed.
Harris can play scales faster than I (can).
It is worth more to you than (it is to) me.

10. In questions use who for subjects and whom for objects.
Who wants another story?
Whom will the class choose as treasurer?

In subordinate clauses use who and whoever as subjects after linking verbs, and use whom and whomever as objects.
These souvenirs are for whoever wants to pay the price.
The manager will train whomever the president hires.

11. An antecedent is the word or group of words to which a pronoun refers or that a pronoun replaces. All pronouns must agree with their antecedents in number, gender, and person.
Marco’s sister spent her vacation in San Diego.
The huge old trees held their own against the storm.

12. Make sure that the antecedent of a pronoun is clearly stated.
UNLCLEAR: Mrs. Cardonal baked cookies with her daughters, hoping to sell them at the bake sale.
CLEAR: Mrs. Cardonal baked cookies with her daughters, hoping to sell the cookies at the bake sale.
UNLCLEAR: If you don’t tie the balloon to the stroller, it will blow away.
CLEAR: If you don’t tie the balloon to the stroller, the balloon will blow away.

Adjectives

1. An adjective modifies, or describes, a noun or pronoun by providing more information or giving a specific detail.
The smooth surface of the lake gleamed.
Frosty trees glistened in the sun.

2. Most adjectives will fit this sentence:
The _________ one seems very _________.
The handmade one seems very colorful.

3. Articles are the adjectives a, an, and the. Articles do not meet the preceding test for adjectives.

4. A proper adjective is formed from a proper noun and begins with a capital letter.
Tricia admired the Scottish sweaters.
Our Mexican vacation was memorable.
5. The comparative form of an adjective compares two things or people. The superlative form compares more than two things or people. Form the comparative by adding -er or combining with more or less. Form the superlative by adding -est or combining with most or least.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>POSITIVE</th>

</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>slow</td>
<td>slower</td>
<td>slowest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>charming</td>
<td>more charming</td>
<td>most charming</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

6. Some adjectives have irregular comparative forms.

POSITIVE: good, well bad far many, much little COMPARATIVE: better worse farther more less
SUPERLATIVE: best worst farthest most least

Adverbs

1. An adverb modifies a verb, an adjective, or another adverb. Adverbs tell how, where, when, or to what extent.

The cat walked quietly. (how)
She seldom misses a deadline. (when)
The player moved forward. (where)
The band was almost late. (to what extent)

2. Many adverbs fit these sentences:

She thinks _____. She thinks _____ fast. She _____ thinks fast.
She thinks quickly. She thinks unusually fast. She seldom thinks fast.

3. The comparative form of an adverb compares two actions. The superlative form compares more than two actions. For shorter adverbs add -er or -est to form the comparative or superlative. For most adverbs, add more or most or less or least to form the comparative or superlative.

We walked faster than before.
They listened most carefully to the final speaker.

4. Avoid double negatives, which are two negative words in the same clause.

INCORRECT: I have not seen no stray cats.
CORRECT: I have not seen any stray cats.

Prepositions, Conjunctions, and Interjections

1. A preposition shows the relationship of a noun or a pronoun to some other word. A compound preposition is made up of more than one word.

The trees near our house provide plenty of shade.
The schools were closed because of snow.

2. Common prepositions include these: about, above, according to, across, after, against, along, among, around, as, at, because of, before, behind, below, beneath, beside, besides, between, beyond, but, by, concerning, down, during, except, for, from, in, inside, in spite of, into, like, near, of, off, on, out, outside, over, past, round, since, through, till, to, toward, under, underneath, until, up, upon, with, within, without.
3. A conjunction is a word that joins single words or groups of words. A coordinating conjunction joins words or groups of words that have equal grammatical weight. Correlative conjunctions work in pairs to join words and groups of words of equal weight. A subordinating conjunction joins two clauses in such a way as to make one grammatically dependent on the other.

I want to visit the art gallery and the museum. (coordinating)

Both left and right turns were impossible in the traffic. (correlative)

We go to the park whenever Mom lets us. (subordinating)

4. A conjunctive adverb clarifies a relationship.

Frank loved the old maple tree; nevertheless, he disliked raking its leaves.

5. An interjection is an unrelated word or phrase that expresses emotion or strong feeling.

Look, there are two cardinals at the feeder. Good grief! Are you kidding?

CLAUSES AND COMPLEX SENTENCES

1. A clause is a group of words that has a subject and a predicate and is used as a sentence or a part of a sentence. There are two types of clauses: main and subordinate. A main clause has a subject and a predicate and can stand alone as a sentence. A subordinate clause has a subject and a predicate, but it cannot stand alone as a sentence.

She became a vegetarian because she loves animals.

2. There are three types of subordinate clauses: adjective, adverb, and noun.

   a. An adjective clause is a subordinate clause that modifies a noun or pronoun.

      The wrens that built a nest in the backyard are now raising their young.

   b. An adverb clause is a subordinate clause that often modifies the verb in the main clause of the sentence. It tells when, where, how, why, or under what conditions.

      Before they got out, the goats broke the fence in several places.

   c. A noun clause is a subordinate clause used as a noun.

      Whatever we do will have to please everyone. (subject)

      The prize goes to whoever can keep the squirrels away from the feeder. (object of preposition)
3. Main and subordinate clauses can form several types of sentences. A simple sentence has only one main clause and no subordinate clauses. A compound sentence has two or more main clauses. A complex sentence has at least one main clause and one or more subordinate clauses.

   - Simple: The apples fell off the tree.
   - Compound: The dancers bowed, and the audience clapped.
   - Complex: Because they turn to face the sun, these flowers are called sunflowers.

4. A sentence that makes a statement is classified as a declarative sentence.
   - My dad’s favorite horses are buckskins.

An imperative sentence gives a command or makes a request.
- Please close the door on your way out.

An interrogative sentence asks a question.
- When will the mail carrier arrive?

An exclamatory sentence expresses strong emotion.
- Watch out!
- What a view that is!

Phrases

1. A phrase is a group of words that acts in a sentence as a single part of speech.

2. A prepositional phrase is a group of words that begins with a preposition and ends with a noun or pronoun, which is called the object of the preposition. A prepositional phrase can act as an adjective or an adverb.
   - The house on the hill is white. (modifies the noun house)
   - Everyone in the house heard the storm. (modifies the pronoun everyone)
   - The geese flew toward warmer weather. (modifies the verb flew)

3. An appositive is a noun or pronoun that is placed next to another noun or pronoun to identify it or give more information about it. An appositive phrase is an appositive plus its modifiers.
   - Our sister Myra is home from college. Her college, Purdue University, is in Indiana.

4. A verbal is a verb form that functions in a sentence as a noun, an adjective, or an adverb. A verbal phrase is a verbal and other words that complete its meaning.
   - A participle is a verbal that functions as an adjective. Present participles end in -ing. Past participles usually end in -ed.
     - The squeaking floor board gave me away. The twisted tree was ancient.
   - A participial phrase contains a participle and other words that complete its meaning.
     - Moving quickly across the room, the baby crawled toward her mother.
c. A gerund is a verbal that ends in -ing. It is used in the same way a noun is used.
   Sailing is a traditional vacation activity for the Andersons.

d. A gerund phrase is a gerund plus any complements or modifiers.
   Walking to school is common for many school children.

e. An infinitive is a verbal formed from the word to and the base form of a verb. It is often used as a noun. Because an infinitive acts as a noun, it may be the subject of a sentence or the direct object of an action verb.
   To sing can be uplifting. (infinitive as subject)
   Babies first learn to babble. (infinitive as direct object)

f. An infinitive phrase contains an infinitive plus any complements or modifiers.
   The flight attendants prepared to feed the hungry passengers.

SUBJECT-VERB AGREEMENT

1. A verb must agree with its subject in person and number.
   The kangaroo jumps. (singular)
   The kangaroos jump. (plural)
   She is leaping. (singular)
   They are leaping. (plural)

2. In inverted sentences the subject follows the verb. The sentence may begin with a prepositional phrase, the word there or here, or a form of do.
   Into the pond dove the children.
   Does a bird have a sense of smell?
   There is a squeak in that third stair.

3. Do not mistake a word in a prepositional phrase for the subject.

   j. After the salutation and close of a friendly letter and after the close of a business letter
      Dear Dad, Cordially, Yours,

5. Use a semicolon in the following situations:
   a. To join main clauses not joined by a coordinating conjunction
      The house looks dark; perhaps we should have called first.
   b. To separate two main clauses joined by a coordinating conjunction when such clauses already contain several commas
      After a week of rain, the farmers around Ames, Iowa, waited hopefully; but the rain, unfortunately, had come too late.
   c. To separate main clauses joined by a conjunctive adverb or by for example or that is Jen was determined to win the race; nonetheless, she knew that it took more than determination to succeed.
6. Use a colon to introduce a list of items that ends a sentence.
   Bring the following tools: hammer, speed square, and drill.

7. Use a colon to separate the hour and the minute in time measurements and after business letter salutations.
   12:42 A.M.  Dear Sir:  Dear Ms. O’Connor:

8. Use quotation marks to enclose a direct quotation. When a quotation is interrupted, use two sets of quotation marks. Use single quotation marks for a quotation within a quotation.
   “Are you sure,” asked my mother, “that you had your keys when you left home?”
   “Chief Seattle’s speech begins, ‘My words are like the stars that never change,’” stated the history teacher.

9. Always place commas and periods inside closing quotation marks. Place colons and semicolons outside closing quotation marks. Place question marks and exclamation points inside closing quotation marks only when those marks are part of the quotation.
   “Giraffes,” said Ms. Wharton, “spend long hours each day foraging.”
   You must read “The Story of an Hour”; it is a wonderful short story.
   He called out, “Is anyone home?”
   Are you sure she said, “Go home without me”?

10. Use quotation marks to indicate titles of short stories, poems, essays, songs, and magazine or newspaper articles.

VOCABULARY AND SPELLING

1. Clues to the meaning of an unfamiliar word can be found in its context. Context clues include definition, the meaning stated; example, the meaning explained through one familiar case; comparison, similarity to a familiar word; contrast, opposite of a familiar word; and cause and effect, a reason and its results.

2. The meaning of a word can be obtained from its base word, its prefix, or its suffix.
  telegram  tele = distant dentate dent = tooth subartic  sub = below  marvelous -ous = full of

3. The i comes before the e, except when both letters follow a c or when both letters are pronounced together as an ɑ sound. However, many exceptions exist to this rule.
yield (i before e) receive (ei after c) weigh (ɑ sound) height (exception)

4. An unstressed vowel is a vowel sound that is not emphasized when the word is pronounced. Determine how to spell this sound by comparing it to a known word. informant (compare to information) hospital (compare to hospitality)

5. When joining a prefix that ends in the same letter as the word, keep both consonants.
illegible disservice

6. When adding a suffix to a word ending in a consonant + y, change the y to i unless the prefix begins with an i. If the word ends in a vowel + y, keep the y.
tried played spraying

7. Double the final consonant before adding a suffix that begins with a vowel to a word that ends in a single consonant preceded by a single vowel if the accent is on the root’s last syllable.
popping transferred unforgettable

8. When adding a suffix that begins with a consonant to a word that ends in silent e, generally keep the e. If the suffix begins with a vowel or y, generally drop the e. If the suffix begins with a or o and the word ends in ce or ge, keep the e. If the suffix begins with a vowel and the word ends in ee or oe, keep the e.
stately noisy courageous agreeable
9. When adding -ly to a word that ends in a single l, keep the l. If it ends in a double l, drop one l. If it ends in a consonant + le, drop the le.

meal, mealy full, fully incredible, incredibility

10. When forming compound words, maintain the spelling of both words.

backpack honeybee

11. Most nouns form their plurals by adding -s. However, nouns that end in -ch, -s, -sh, -x, or -z form plurals by adding -es. If the noun ends in a consonant + y, change y to i and add -es. If the noun ends in -lf, change f to v and add -es. If the noun ends in -fe, change f to v and add -s.

marks leaches rashes foxes flies elves lives

12. To form the plural of proper names and one-word compound nouns, follow the general rules for plurals. To form the plural of hyphenated compound nouns or compound nouns of more than one word, make the most important word plural.

Williams Diazes housekeepers sisters-in-law editors-in-chief

13. Some nouns have the same singular and plural forms.

Composition
Writing Themes and Paragraphs

1. Use prewriting to find ideas to write about. One form of prewriting, freewriting, starts with a subject or topic and branches off into related ideas. Another way to find a topic is to ask and answer questions about your starting subject, helping you to gain a deeper understanding of your chosen topic. Also part of the prewriting stage is determining who your readers or audience will be and deciding your purpose for writing. Your purpose—writing to persuade, to explain, to describe, or to narrate—is partially shaped by who your audience will be.

2. To complete your first draft, organize your prewriting into an introduction, body, and conclusion. Concentrate on unity and coherence of the overall piece. Experiment with different paragraph orders: chronological order places events in the order in which they happened; spatial order places objects in the order in which they appear; and compare/contrast order shows similarities and differences in objects or events.

3. Revise your composition if necessary. Read through your draft, looking for places to improve content and structure. Remember that varying your sentence patterns and lengths will make your writing easier and more enjoyable to read.
4. In the editing stage, check your grammar, spelling, and punctuation. Focus on expressing your ideas clearly and concisely.

5. Finally, prepare your writing for presentation. Sharing your composition, or ideas, with others may take many forms: printed, oral, or graphic.

Outlining

1. The two common forms of outlines are sentence outlines and topic outlines. Choose one type of outline and keep it uniform throughout.

2. A period follows the number or letter of each division. Each point in a sentence outline ends with a period; the points in a topic outline do not.

3. Each point begins with a capital letter.

4. A point may have no fewer than two subpoints.

SENTENCE OUTLINE

I. This is the main point.
   A. This is a subpoint of I.
      1. This is a detail of A.
         a. This is a detail of 1.
         b. This is a detail of 1.
      2. This is a detail of A.
   B. This is a subpoint of I.
II. This is another main point.

TOPIC OUTLINE

I. Main point
   A. Subpoint of I
      1. Detail of A
         a. Detail of 1
         b. Detail of 1
      2. Detail of A
   B. Subpoint of I
II. Main point

Writing Letters

1. Personal letters are usually handwritten in indented form (first line of paragraphs, each line of the heading and inside address, and the signature are indented). Business letters are usually typewritten in block or semiblock form. Block form contains no indents; semiblock form indents only the first line of each paragraph.

2. The five parts of a personal letter are the heading (the writer’s address and the date), salutation (greeting), body (message), complimentary close (such as “Yours truly,“), and signature (the writer’s name). Business letters have the same parts and also include an inside address (the recipient’s address).
3. Reveal your personality and imagination in colorful personal letters. Keep business letters brief, clear, and courteous.

4. Personal letters include letters to friends and family members. Thank-you notes and invitations are personal letters that may be either formal or informal in style.

5. Use a letter of request, a type of business letter, to ask for information or to place an order. Be concise, yet give all the details necessary for your request to be fulfilled. Keep the tone of your letter courteous, and be generous in allotting time for a response.

6. Use an opinion letter to take a firm stand on an issue. Make the letter clear, firm, rational, and purposeful. Be aware of your audience, their attitude, how informed they are, and their possible reactions to your opinion. Support your statements of opinion with facts.

Solution

Martha asked about dinner. She hoped it was lasagna.
I jogged around the park twice. I was hot and tired afterward.
Li Cheng raced to the bus stop. He arrived just in the nick of time.

Make a complete sentence by adding a subject to the fragment.

SOLUTION
The carpenter worked hard all morning. His assistant helped after lunch.
Ant farms are fascinating. The ants crawl around in constant motion.
Our class went on a field trip. Mammoth Cave was our destination.
Make a complete sentence by adding a predicate.

PROBLEM 3

Fragment that lacks both a subject and a predicate

I heard the laughter of the children. (In the nursery)
After the spring rain. The whole house smelled fresh and clean.
The noisy chatter of the squirrels awakened us early. (In the morning)

SOLUTION
I heard the laughter of the children in the nursery.
After the spring rain, the whole house smelled fresh and clean.
The noisy chatter of the squirrels awakened us early in the morning.
Combine the fragment with another sentence.

More help in avoiding sentence fragments is available in Lesson 6.
Run-on Sentences

Problem 1

Two main clauses separated only by a comma

- Run-on Extra crackers are available, they are next to the salad bar.
- Run-on Hurdles are Sam’s specialty, he likes them best.

Solution A

Extra crackers are available. They are next to the salad bar.

Make two sentences by separating the first clause from the second with end punctuation, such as a period or a question mark, and starting the second sentence with a capital letter.

Solution B

Hurdles are Sam’s specialty; he likes them best.

Place a semicolon between the main clauses of the sentence.

Problem 2

Two main clauses with no punctuation between them

- Run-on The law student studied hard she passed her exam.
- Run-on Kamil looked for the leash he found it in the closet.
SOLUTION A

The law student studied hard. She passed her exam.

Make two sentences out of the run-on sentence.

SOLUTION B

Kamil looked for the leash, and he found it in the closet.

Add a comma and a coordinating conjunction between the main clauses.

PROBLEM 3

Two main clauses without a comma before the coordinating conjunction

| run-on | You can rollerskate like a pro but you cannot ice skate. |
| run-on | Julian gazed at the moon and he marveled at its brightness. |

SOLUTION

You can rollerskate like a pro, but you cannot ice skate.

Julian gazed at the moon, and he marveled at its brightness.

Add a comma before the coordinating conjunction.

More help in avoiding run-on sentences is available in Lesson 7.
Lack of Subject-Verb Agreement

PROBLEM 1

A subject separated from the verb by an intervening prepositional phrase

SOLUTION

The stories in the newspaper were well written.
The house in the suburbs was just what she wanted.

Make sure that the verb agrees with the subject of the sentence, not with the object of a preposition. The object of a preposition is never the subject.

PROBLEM 2

A sentence that begins with here or there

Here go the duck with her ducklings.
There is the pencils you were looking for.
Here is the snapshots from our vacation to the Grand Canyon.
SOLUTION
Here goes the duck with her ducklings.
There are the pencils you were looking for.
Here are the snapshots from our vacation to the Grand Canyon.
In sentences that begin with here or there, look for the subject after the verb. Make sure that the verb agrees with the subject.

PROBLEM 3
An indefinite pronoun as the subject

Each of the animals have a unique way of walking.
Many of the movies was black and white.
None of the leaves is turning colors yet.

SOLUTION
Each of the animals has a unique way of walking.
Many of the movies were black and white.
None of the leaves are turning colors yet.

Some indefinite pronouns are singular, some are plural, and some can be either singular or plural. Determine whether the indefinite pronoun is singular or plural, and make the verb agree.
Problem 4

A compound subject that is joined by and

| agr | The students and the teacher adores the classroom hamster. |
| agr | The expert and best source of information are Dr. Marlin. |

Solution A

The students and the teacher adore the classroom hamster.

Use a plural verb if the parts of the compound subject do not belong to one unit or if they refer to different people or things.

Solution B

The expert and best source of information is Dr. Marlin.

Use a singular verb if the parts of the compound subject belong to one unit or if they refer to the same person or thing.

Problem 5

A compound subject that is joined by or or nor

| agr | Either Hester or Sue are supposed to pick us up. |
| agr | Neither pepper nor spices improves the flavor of this sauce. |
| agr | Either Caroline or Robin volunteer at the local food pantry. |
| agr | Neither the coach nor the screaming fans agrees with the referee’s call. |
SOLUTION

Either Hester or Sue is supposed to pick us up.
Neither pepper nor spices improve the flavor of this sauce.
Either Caroline or Robin volunteers at the local food pantry.
Neither the coach nor the screaming fans agree with the referee’s call.

Make the verb agree with the subject that is closer to it.

More help with subject-verb agreement is available in Lessons 48–51.
Problem 1

An incorrect or missing verb ending

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>tense</th>
<th>We talk yesterday for more than an hour.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>tense</td>
<td>They sail last month for Barbados.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>tense</td>
<td>Sally and James land at the airport yesterday.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Solution

We talked yesterday for more than an hour.
They sailed last month for Barbados.
Sally and James landed at the airport yesterday.

To form the past tense and the past participle, add -ed to a regular verb.

Problem 2

An improperly formed irregular verb

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>tense</th>
<th>Our hair clinged to us in the humid weather.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>tense</td>
<td>Trent drinker all the orange juice.</td>

Our hair clung to us in the humid weather. Trent drank all the orange juice. The evening breeze blew the clouds away.

Irregular verbs vary in their past and past participle forms. Look up the ones you are not sure of. Consider memorizing them if you feel it is necessary.

Problem 3

Confusion between a verb’s past form and its past participle

SOLUTION

Helen has taken first place in the marathon.

Use the past participle form of an irregular verb, and not its past form, when you use the auxiliary verb have.

More help with correct verb forms is available in Lessons 19–24.
Incorrect Use of Pronouns

Problem 1

A pronoun that refers to more than one antecedent

Problem

- pro The wind and the rain came suddenly, but it did not last.
- pro Henry ran with Philip, but he was faster.
- pro When Sarah visits Corinne, she is glad for the company.

Solution

- The wind and the rain came suddenly, but the rain did not last.
- Henry ran with Philip, but Philip was faster.
- When Sarah visits Corinne, Corinne is glad for the company.

Substitute a noun for the pronoun to make your sentence clearer.

Problem 2

Personal pronouns as subjects

Problem

- pro Him and Mary unfurled the tall, white sail.
- pro Nina and them bought theater tickets yesterday.
- pro Karen and me heard the good news on the television.
SOLUTION

He and Mary unfurled the tall, white sail.
Nina and they bought theater tickets yesterday.
Karen and I heard the good news on the television.

Use a subject pronoun as the subject part of a sentence.

PROBLEM 3

Personal pronouns as objects

|   pro | The horse galloped across the field to Anne and |   I   |
| ---   | The new signs confused Clark and | they |
|   pro | Grant wrote | she a letter of apology. |

SOLUTION

The horse galloped across the field to Anne and me.
The new signs confused Clark and them.
Grant wrote her a letter of apology.

An object pronoun is the object of a verb or preposition.

More help with correct use of pronouns is available in Lessons 25–29.
Incorrect Use of Adjectives

Problem 1

Incorrect use of good, better, best

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>adj</th>
<th>Is a horse more good than a pony?</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>adj</td>
<td>Literature is my most good subject.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Solution

Is a horse better than a pony?

Literature is my best subject.

The words better and best are the comparative and superlative forms of the word good. Do not use the words more or most before the irregular forms of comparative and superlative adjectives.

Problem 2

Incorrect use of bad, worse, worst

| adj | That game was the baddest game our team ever played. |

Solution

That game was the worst game our team ever played.

Do not use the suffixes -er or -est after the irregular forms of comparative and superlative adjectives. Do not use the words more or most before the irregular forms of comparative and superlative adjectives.
PROBLEM 3

Incorrect use of comparative adjectives

adj  This bike is more faster than my old bike.

SOLUTION
This bike is faster than my old bike.
Do not use -er and more together.

PROBLEM 4

Incorrect use of superlative adjectives

adj  Kara said it was the most biggest lawn she ever had to mow.

SOLUTION
Kara said it was the biggest lawn she ever had to mow.
Do not use -est and most together.

More help with the correct use of adjectives is available in Lessons 30–33.
Incorrect Use of Commas

PROBLEM 1

Missing commas in a series of three or more items

- Problem
  - We saw ducks geese and seagulls at the park.
  - Jake ate dinner watched a movie and visited friends.

- Solution
  - We saw ducks, geese, and seagulls at the park.
  - Jake ate dinner, watched a movie, and visited friends.

If there are three or more items in a series, use a comma after each item except the last one.

PROBLEM 2

Missing commas with direct quotations

- Problem
  - “The party” said José “starts at seven o’clock.”
  - “My new book” Roger exclaimed “is still on the bus!”

- Solution
  - “The party,” said José, “starts at seven o’clock.”
  - “My new book,” Roger exclaimed, “is still on the bus!”
SOLUTION

“The party,” said José, “starts at seven o’clock.”

“My new book,” Roger exclaimed, “is still on the bus!”

If a quotation is interrupted, the first part ends with a comma followed by quotation marks. The interrupting words are also followed by a comma.

Missing commas with nonessential appositives

- Maria _our new friend_ is from Chicago.
- The old lane _a tree-lined gravel path_ is a great place to walk on a hot afternoon.

SOLUTION

Maria, _our new friend_, is from Chicago.

The old lane, _a tree-lined gravel path_, is a great place to walk on a hot afternoon.

Decide whether the appositive is truly essential to the meaning of the sentence. If it is not essential, set it off with commas.
Problem 4

Missing commas with nonessential adjective clauses

Karen who started early finished her work before noon.

Solution

Karen, who started early, finished her work before noon.

Decide whether the clause is truly essential to the meaning of the sentence. If it is not essential, then set it off with commas.

Problem 5

Missing commas with introductory adverb clauses

When the wind rises too high the boats lower their sails.

Solution

When the wind rises too high, the boats lower their sails.

Place a comma after an introductory adverbial clause.

Need more help with commas is available in Lessons 72–76.
Incorrect Use of Apostrophes

PROBLEM 1

Singular possessive nouns

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Incorrect Use</th>
<th>Correct Use</th>

<td>Bill's video collection is really great.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>That horse's saddle has real silver on it.</td>
<td>That horse's saddle has real silver on it.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

SOLUTION

Pablo’s new bicycle is in Charles’s yard.
Bill’s video collection is really great.
That horse’s saddle has real silver on it.

Place an apostrophe before a final -s to form the possessive of a singular noun, even one that ends in -s.

PROBLEM 2

Plural possessive nouns that end in -s

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Incorrect Use</th>
<th>Correct Use</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The girls team won the tournament.</td>
<td>The girls team won the tournament.</td>

<td>The boats' sails are very colorful against the blue sky.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The model cars' boxes are in my room.</td>
<td>The model cars' boxes are in my room.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
SOLUTION
The deer’s best habitat is a deep, unpopulated woodland.
The children’s clothes are on the third floor.

When a plural noun does not end in -s, use an apostrophe and an -s to form the possessive of the noun.

PROBLEM 4
Possessive personal pronouns

apos The poster is her’s but the magazine is their’s.
SOLUTION
The poster is hers, but the magazine is theirs.
Do not use apostrophes with possessive personal pronouns.

PROBLEM 5
Confusion between its and it’s apos The old tree was the last to lose (it’s) leaves.

apos It’s the best CD I have ever heard them put out.

SOLUTION
The old tree was the last to lose its leaves.
It’s the best CD I have ever heard them put out.

Use an apostrophe to form the contraction of it is. The possessive of the personal pronoun it does not take an apostrophe.

More help with apostrophes and possessives is available in Lessons 11 and 80.
Problem 1

Words that refer to ethnic groups, nationalities, and languages

cap Many [Irish] citizens speak both [English] and [Gaelic].

Solution

Many Irish citizens speak both English and Gaelic.

Capitalize proper nouns and adjectives referring to ethnic groups, nationalities, and languages.

Problem 2

The first word of a direct quotation

cap Yuri said, "[The] rain off the bay always blows this way."

Solution

Yuri said, “The rain off the bay always blows this way.”

Capitalize the first word of a direct quotation if it is a complete sentence. A direct quotation is the speaker’s exact words.

More help with capitalization is available in Lessons 63–70.

Unit 1: Subjects, Predicates, and Sentences

Lesson 1
Kinds of Sentences: Declarative and Interrogative

A sentence is a group of words that expresses a complete thought. All sentences begin with a capital letter and end with a punctuation mark. Different kinds of sentences have different purposes.

A declarative sentence makes a statement. It ends with a period.

Last summer I went on a long trip.

An interrogative sentence asks a question. It ends with a question mark.

Where did you go on your vacation?

Exercise 1 Insert a period if the sentence is declarative. Insert a question mark if it is interrogative.

My family and I went to Alaska.

1. Have you ever been that far north
2. Alaska is a wonderful and wild state
3. Isn’t it the largest state in the union
4. Was the weather hotter than you expected

32. Americans began going to Alaska during the 1890s and 1900s
33. They went there to look for gold
34. Large amounts of “black gold” were discovered in Alaska in 1968
35. What is “black gold”
36. “Black gold” is another name for oil
37. Alaska also has coal, platinum, copper, and uranium
38. Did you take many pictures during your trip
39. I took a great shot of an eagle catching a salmon
40. Do you want to see some other pictures I took
Lesson 2
Kinds of Sentences: Exclamatory and Imperative

In addition to declarative and interrogative sentences, there are two other types of sentences. An exclamatory sentence shows strong feeling. It ends with an exclamation point.

I never saw so much traffic!

An imperative sentence commands someone to do something. The subject you is understood. An imperative sentence can end with either a period or an exclamation point.

(You) Look both ways before crossing the street. (You) Look out!

Exercise 1 Write exc. in the blank before each exclamatory sentence and imp. before each imperative sentence.

exc. That alarm clock is too loud!

1. Give the orange juice to Cecilia.
2. How sleepy I am!
3. What a funny dream I had last night!

33. I dropped my ring into the sink!

34. You spilled juice on the floor!

35. Make sure you tie your shoes before jogging.

36. Put this apple in your pocket.

Writing Link  Write a paragraph explaining how to play a game. Use exclamatory and imperative sentences.
Lesson 3
Subjects and Predicates: Simple and Complete

Every sentence has two parts: a subject and a predicate. The subject part of a sentence names whom or what the sentence is about. The predicate part of a sentence tells what the subject does or has. It can also describe what the subject is or is like.

SUBJECT PART
The mountain climbers

PREDICATE PART
reached the peak.

The complete subject is all of the words in the subject part of a sentence. The complete predicate is all of the words in the predicate part of a sentence.

COMPLETE SUBJECT
The horse’s black mane

COMPLETE PREDICATE
was blowing in the wind.

The simple subject is the main person or thing in the subject part of a sentence. The simple predicate is the main word or group of words in the predicate part of a sentence.

SIMPLE SUBJECT
The horse’s black

SIMPLE PREDICATE
mane was blowing in the wind.

Exercise 1  Draw one line under each complete subject and two lines under each complete predicate.

If you’re looking for something to do with your free time, you might think about starting a collection. There are millions of collectors in the world. Some people collect baseball cards, some people collect the autographs of famous people, did you know there are even some people who collect colorful shopping bags from different stores? If you have a special interest in sports or music, you might decide to collect baseball caps or photos of musicians. If you like nature, you could collect seashells, fossils, or wooden carvings of ducks. Collecting is fun, collecting can be profitable. The items you collect can double or even triple in value over the years, stamps and coins are good examples of this. Most people enjoy collecting because they like looking for new items to add to their collection. Finding a rare shell or discovering a one-of-a-kind baseball card in your grandmother’s attic is a real thrill for most collectors.

Unit 2: Nouns

Lesson 8
Nouns: Proper and Common

A noun is a word that names a person, place, thing, or idea.

There are two basic kinds of nouns: common nouns and proper nouns.

A common noun names any person, place, thing, or idea.

A proper noun names a particular person, place, thing, or idea. It may consist of one or more words. Always begin a proper noun with a capital letter. If a proper noun has more than one word, capitalize the first word and all the important words.

Lesson 12
Action Verbs and Direct Objects

An action verb is a word that describes what someone or something does. An action verb names an action, although not always a physical action. Some action verbs describe mental action.

Tyler swam faster than anyone else at camp. (The action verb swam describes a physical action.)

Alicia calculated the score in her head. (The verb calculated describes a mental action.)

Sometimes an action verb is followed by a direct object. A direct object receives the action of the verb. It answers the question what or whom? after an action verb.

Kelsey’s soccer team won yesterday’s game. (The action verb, won, is followed by the direct object, game, which answers the question what?)

Exercise 1
Draw two lines under the action verb in each sentence.

Yellowstone National Park attracts many visitors.

5. We call them geysers.
6. Yellowstone’s geysers attract visitors from all over the world.
7. Nearly two hundred geysers dot the park’s landscape.
8. Old Faithful, the largest, erupts almost hourly.
9. It shoots water more than one hundred feet into the air.
10. Enormous crowds gather beside it.
11. Yellowstone National Park contains many other attractions.
12. The Yellowstone River divides the park north to south.
13. It carves a canyon through the mountains.
14. In several places, the river falls from steep cliffs.
15. Visitors to Yellowstone observe a variety of wildlife.
17. Moose roam the area.
18. Herds of bison graze in the park.
20. Yellowstone’s famous bears sometimes frighten campers.

Exercise 2 Draw two lines under the action verb in each sentence. If the action verb has a direct object, circle the direct object.

The Grand Canyon attracts millions of visitors each year.

1. Millions more catch glimpses of the canyon though airplane windows.
2. Grand Canyon National Park contains the most spectacular sections of the gorge.
3. The park encompasses more than one million acres.

13. Weather constantly changes the rock formations.
14. Wind and rain erode the soft rock.
15. Sometimes big chunks of rock fall.
16. Changing light constantly alters the canyon’s appearance.
Lesson 13
Action Verbs and Indirect Objects

An indirect object can appear only in a sentence that has a direct object. Just as a direct object answers the question whom? or what? after an action verb, an indirect object answers the question to whom? or for whom? An indirect object always comes before the direct object.

James bought Corey a cold drink. (The indirect object Corey answers the question, James bought a cold drink for whom?)
Naomi gives the class red pencils. (The indirect object class answers the question Naomi gives red pencils to whom?)

Lesson 14
Transitive and Intransitive Verbs

An action verb that is followed by a direct object is called a transitive verb. An action verb that is not followed by a direct object is called an intransitive verb. Some verbs can be either transitive or intransitive, depending on the words that follow them. Remember that a direct object answers the question what? or whom?

The polar bears eat slowly.

The word slowly tells how the bears eat. It does not answer the question what? or whom? In this sentence, the action verb eat is intransitive because it is not followed by a direct object.

The polar bears eat fish.

The word fish answers the question what? In this sentence, the action verb eat is transitive because it is followed by the direct object fish.

Exercise 1 Draw two lines under the action verb in each sentence. Write T in the blank if the verb is transitive. Write I if the verb is intransitive.

1. Mitchell repaired the computer.
2. The baby cried loudly.

39. The band played only jazz.
40. The class decorated for the fall festival.
Lesson 15
Linking Verbs and Predicate Words

A linking verb connects a sentence’s subject with a noun or an adjective in the predicate. The predicate word tells what a sentence’s subject is or is like.

An avocado is a fruit. (The linking verb is connects the subject avocado with fruit.)

In the sentence above, fruit is a predicate noun. It tells what the subject, avocado, is. Some sentences have a predicate adjective, an adjective that follows a linking verb and tells what the subject is like.

This avocado is ripe. (Ripe is a predicate adjective. It tells what the subject avocado is like.)

COMMON LINKING VERBS

appear  become  grow  seem am, is, are, was, were  feel  look  taste

Exercise 1  Draw two lines under the verb in each sentence. Write AV in the blank if the verb is an action verb. Write LV if it is a linking verb.

14. Its skin is only temporary.
15. Some snakes are poisonous.
16. All snakes are carnivores.
Lesson 16
Verb Tenses: Present, Past, and Future

A verb’s tense tells when an action takes place. The present tense describes an action that happens regularly.

We visit my grandmother on Sundays.

It can also express a general truth.

We visit many relatives.

The past tense describes an action that has already taken place. The past tense is most often formed by adding -ed to the verb.

We visited my aunt last weekend.

The future tense describes an action that will take place in the future. The future tense is formed by adding the helping verb will (or shall) to the verb.

We will visit my grandmother next Sunday.

Exercise 1 Draw two lines under the verb in each sentence. Write the tense in the blank: past, present, or future.

Present

Jimmy loves to fish.

1. We traveled to Ontario last summer.

2. My father makes the best whole wheat rolls.

3. I will be there by six o’clock.

37. The museum closes early on Sunday.
38. Rami called each person on the list.
39. Perry will use his sister’s computer.
40. Together we cleaned the whole apartment in two hours.
Verbs have four principal parts: the base form, the present participle, the past form, and the past participle. These principal parts are often combined with helping verbs to form verb phrases. The main verb is always the last verb in a verb phrase.

Base Form: I learn at least one new song every week.
Present Participle: I am learning how to play guitar. (The main verb, learning, is the last verb in the verb phrase.)
Past Form: I learned two songs last week.
Past Participle: I have learned fourteen songs so far. (The main verb, learned, is the last verb in the verb phrase.)

Exercise 1 Draw one line under the entire verb phrase. Draw two lines under the main verb.

Lesson 19
Verb Forms: Present Progressive and Past Progressive

Verbs in the progressive form describe action that continues. The present progressive form of a verb describes an action that is continuing at the present time. The present progressive form consists of a helping verb (am, are, or is) plus the present participle of the main verb.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SINGULAR</th>
<th>PLURAL</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I am laughing.</td>
<td>We are laughing.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>You are laughing.</td>
<td>You are laughing.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>She, he, or it is laughing.</td>
<td>They are laughing.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The past progressive form of a verb describes an action that was continuing at an earlier time. The past progressive form consists of a helping verb (was or were) plus the present participle of the main verb.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SINGULAR</th>
<th>PLURAL</th>

Lesson 30

Adjectives and Proper Adjectives

A word that describes persons, places, or things is an adjective. An adjective usually answers one of three questions about the noun or pronoun it modifies.

What kind? Please use the drawing paper.
How many? Wanda had three sisters.
Which one? That seat is taken.

Usually the adjective comes just before the noun it modifies. However, when the noun is the subject followed by a linking verb, its adjective follows the linking verb as part of the predicate. These adjectives are called predicate adjectives.

The puppy became frisky.

A proper adjective is an adjective formed from a proper noun. Sometimes the proper adjective is the same word as the noun that forms it. At other times it has a special ending. All proper adjectives begin with a capital letter.

Lesson 31
Articles and Demonstratives

An article is a special kind of adjective. There are three articles, the words a, an, and the. The describes one specific item or items.

The program was canceled because of the snowstorm.

A and an refer to any one item of a group. Use a before words that begin with a consonant sound. Use an before words that begin with a vowel sound.

A giraffe is an elegant animal.

Demonstrative adjectives are used to point out something. The words this, that, these, and those are demonstrative adjectives. This and that are singular. These and those are plural. This and these refer to things that are close. That and those refer to things that are at a distance.

Read this book. He washed these apples. (close to the speaker)

Take that train. Those boys are on the other team. (at a distance from the speaker)

Demonstratives often appear before the nouns they modify, but they can stand alone. When a demonstrative is used by itself, it is a demonstrative pronoun.

Give this to your sister. I like those the best.

Exercise 1 Write in the blank the article that best completes each sentence.

Lesson 38
Telling Adjectives and Adverbs Apart I

Some adjectives and adverbs are easy to identify within sentences. An adjective modifies a noun or pronoun. An adverb modifies a verb, adjective, or another adverb. When they follow a verb, however, they can be confusing. A predicate adjective follows a linking verb and an adverb follows an action verb.

A leopard is fast. (Fast is a predicate adjective.)
A leopard runs fast. (Fast is an adverb.)

Exercise 1 Draw one line under each italicized word that is an adjective. Draw two lines under each italicized word that is an adverb.

Which of the two movies did you like better?

Lesson 39
Telling Adjectives and Adverbs Apart II

Some adjectives and adverbs demand special attention because they can be confusing. Bad and good are adjectives. They are used after linking verbs. Badly and well are adverbs. They modify action verbs. When well is used after a linking verb to describe a person’s health, it is an adjective. Real and sure are adjectives. They describe nouns or pronouns. Really and surely are adverbs. Most is usually an adjective. When it is part of a superlative, it is an adverb. Almost is usually an adverb. When it is followed by an indefinite pronoun, it is an adjective.

Lesson 43
Pronouns After Prepositions

When a pronoun is the object of a preposition, use an object pronoun, not a subject pronoun.

I backpacked with my parents last summer.
I backpacked with them last summer.

Use an object pronoun when a preposition has a compound object consisting of a noun and a pronoun or two pronouns.

Mike and Sal usually play tennis with José and her.

Pronouns in compound subjects or compound objects can be confusing. When deciding what pronoun to use, read the sentence with only the pronoun. This eliminates extra words and can help you decide if you should use a subject pronoun or an object pronoun.

Mike and Sal usually play tennis with her.

The pronoun who is a subject pronoun, and the pronoun whom is an object pronoun.

Who told you about the trip? From whom did you get the details?

Notice that who is the subject of the first sentence and whom is the object of the preposition from in the second sentence.

Exercise 1 Write the appropriate personal pronoun above the word or words in italics.

him

Lesson 45
Telling Prepositions and Adverbs Apart

Some words can be used as either prepositions or adverbs. For a word to be a preposition, it must be part of a prepositional phrase. A preposition never stands alone in a sentence. If the word has an object, it is probably a preposition. If the word is not followed closely by a noun or a pronoun that could be an object, it is probably an adverb.

Anastasia is riding her bike around the neighborhood. (preposition)
Anastasia is riding her bike around. (adverb)

WORDS THAT CAN BE USED AS PREPOSITIONS OR ADVERBS

Lesson 46
Conjunctions

A conjunction is a word that joins single words or groups of words in a sentence. The most common conjunctions—\textit{and}, \textit{but}, and \textit{or}—are called \textbf{coordinating conjunctions}. Coordinating conjunctions can be used to connect individual nouns, pronouns, verbs, adjectives, adverbs, prepositions, phrases, or clauses. Place a comma before the conjunction in a compound sentence.

We scoured \textbf{and} scrubbed the kitchen sink.
Simon is very relaxed \textbf{or} very lazy.
I have recovered, \textbf{but} my sister is still sick.

\textbf{Correlative conjunctions} are pairs of words used to connect words or phrases in a sentence. Correlative conjunctions include \textit{both . . . and}, \textit{either . . . or}, \textit{neither . . . nor}, and \textit{not only . . . but also}.

Both Wanda \textbf{and} Emily \textbf{are} right-handed.
Neither the coach \textbf{nor} Ms. Thomas \textbf{is} left-handed.

Lesson 47
Interjections

An interjection is a word or group of words that expresses mild or strong feeling.

COMMON INTERJECTIONS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>ah</th>
<th>congratulations</th>
<th>hooray</th>
<th>ouch</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>aha</td>
<td>good grief</td>
<td>phew</td>
<td>no</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>all right</td>
<td>great</td>
<td>oh</td>
<td>ugh</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>awesome</td>
<td>hey</td>
<td>oh, no</td>
<td>wow</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>bravo</td>
<td>hi</td>
<td>oops</td>
<td>yes</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Since an interjection is not related to other words in the sentence, it is set off from the rest of the sentence by a comma or an exclamation point. Use an exclamation point after an interjection that stands alone, either before or after a sentence. Use a comma before or after an interjection that expresses a mild emotion to separate it from the rest of the sentence.

Yes! I knew you could do it!
You got front row seats! Great!
Congratulations, you passed the test.

▶ Exercise 1 Underline each interjection.

No way! You go first.

1. Bravo! You won!

3. What! You said you were bringing the money!
4. Ah! That sun feels good.
5. Ouch! You stepped on my foot.
6. Yes, I understand you perfectly.
7. I didn’t take the last piece of cake. Really!
8. Well, it’s about time you got here!
9. No, I haven’t seen your sister.
10. Whoops! I didn’t realize the floor was so slippery.
11. Oh, no! I left my homework on the bus!
12. I only have one token left, and I need two for the subway. Good grief!
13. My, how you’ve grown since the last time I saw you!
14. Whew, that sure was a close call!
15. Do I want to go with you to see our favorite movie again? Yes!
17. Oh, well, better luck next time!
18. Rats! They sold the last team sweatshirt an hour ago.
19. Aha! You didn’t think I’d be able to find you, did you?
20. Ahem, I believe you’re sitting in my seat.

Exercise 2 Add to each sentence an interjection that expresses the emotion in parentheses. Add appropriate punctuation.

1. ________________ I didn’t mean to make such a mess. (apology)
2. ________________ that can’t be true. (denial)
3. ________________ that’s my dessert. (call attention to)

Unit 8: Subject-Verb Agreement

Lesson 48
Making Subjects and Verbs Agree

The subject and verb of a sentence must agree in number. A noun that is singular must have the singular form of the verb. A noun that is plural takes the plural form of the verb.

A cat sleeps during the day. (singular noun cat, singular verb sleeps)
Cats sleep during the day. (plural noun cats, plural verb sleep)

Exercise 1
Draw two lines under the verb in parentheses that agrees with the subject.

Leroy (rides, ride) his bicycle to school every day.

11. A typical studio has about thirty powerful spotlights. (has, have)
Lesson 49
Subject Pronouns and Verb Agreement

Subject pronouns (I, you, he, she, it, we, they) must also agree with the verb.

I walk. (First person, singular)  We walk. (First person, plural)
You walk. (Second person, singular)  You walk. (Second person, plural)
He, she or it walks. (Third person, singular)  They walk. (Third person, plural)

The verbs have, do, and be can be main verbs or helping verbs. They must agree with the subject whether they are used as main verbs or helping verbs.

I am asleep. (main verb)  I am walking. (helping verb)
She does good work. (main verb)  They do like their work. (helping verb)
You have three dollars. (main verb)  You have met our new teacher. (helping verb)

Writing Link Write a short paragraph about your favorite team sport. Use at least two subject pronouns, and be sure each subject and verb agree.
Lesson 50
Locating the Subject

Sometimes a prepositional phrase comes between the subject and the verb. The verb must agree with the subject of the sentence and not with the object of the preposition.

The rooms near the entrance have new windows.
The air in the mountains contains little oxygen.

In the first sentence, near the entrance is a prepositional phrase. The subject of the sentence is rooms, which is plural; therefore, the verb that agrees with it, have, is also plural. In the second sentence, in the mountains is a prepositional phrase. The singular verb contains agrees with air, which is a singular subject.

You can check for subject-verb agreement by removing the prepositional phrase.
The rooms have new windows.
The air contains little oxygen.

Some sentences begin with there or here. These words are never the subject of a sentence. Look for the subject after the verb.

There are many palm trees in Florida.
Here in the city is a large building.

To make finding the subject easier, rearrange these sentences by placing the subject before the verb in the usual manner.

Many palm trees are there in Florida.
A large building is here in the city.

Exercise 1 Draw one line under the subject. Draw two lines under the verb in parentheses that agrees with the subject.

Lesson 51
Agreement with Compound Subjects

A compound subject is two or more subjects that have the same verb. When two or more subjects are joined by and, the verb is plural.

William and Sandy live on the same block.
Both trees and flowers require sunlight.
Elaine and her brothers play in the band.

Compound subjects can also be joined by or, either...or, and neither...nor. In these cases, the verb must agree with the subject that is closer to it.

Dana or Maria knows the answer.
Either Dana or his study partners know the answer.
Neither the fifth-graders nor Dana knows the answer.

Exercise 1 Draw two lines under the verb in parentheses that agrees with the subject.

Lesson 52
Diagraming Simple Subjects and Simple Predicates

To diagram a sentence, first draw a long horizontal line. Then draw a short vertical line that crosses the horizontal line. Write the simple subject to the left of the vertical line. Write the simple predicate to the right of the vertical line. When diagraming sentences, use capital letters as they appear in the sentence, but do not use punctuation.

Dynamite explodes.

Dynamite  explodes

Write only the simple subject and the simple predicate in this part of the diagram. Remember that the simple predicate can include a helping verb.

The dynamite will explode on schedule.

dynamite  will explode

Exercise 1  Diagram only the simple subject and the simple predicate of each sentence.

1. The store opens early on Saturday.         2. My aunt works as a chemist.
3. A torch lit the way.

7. They named the collie pups Wynken, Blynken, and Nod.

5. The Giraldis traveled through Italy last summer.

9. This movie is almost three hours long.

6. The heavy rainfall soaked the dry soil.

10. The sixth-grade girls won the volleyball tournament.
Lesson 53
Diagraming the Four Kinds of Sentences

The simple subject and the simple predicate of four kinds of sentences are diagramed below. Notice that the location of the simple subject and the simple predicate in a sentence diagram is always the same, regardless of word order in the sentence. In an interrogative sentence the simple subject often comes between the two parts of a verb phrase. In an imperative sentence the simple subject is understood to be you.

Declarative: The house has central heat.

  house    | has

Interrogative: Does it have air conditioning?

  it       | Does have

Imperative: Turn down the thermostat at ten o’clock.

  (you)    | Turn

Exclamatory: How warm it is in this room!

  it       | is

► Exercise 1 Diagram only the simple subject and the simple predicate.

1. Eli Whitney invented the cotton gin.
2. The ice cream will melt there.
3. How much money do you need?
6. What a good movie that was!

4. Why did Sally call the emergency squad?
7. How odd this is!

5. What caused the stain on the living room rug?
8. Put the leftovers in the refrigerator.
Lesson 54
Diagraming Direct and Indirect Objects and Predicate Words

In a sentence diagram, the direct object is placed to the right of a vertical line after the action verb.

Marissa threw the ball.

__Marissa__ |  __threw__  |  __ball__

Similarly, place the predicate noun to the right of the linking verb. Draw a slanted line to separate the verb from the predicate noun.

Today’s special is blackened swordfish.

__special__ |  __is_ _swordfish__

Diagram a predicate adjective just as you would diagram a predicate noun.

Edmund seems confused.

__Edmund__ |  __seems_ _confused__

In a diagram, the indirect object sits on a line below and to the right of the verb. Draw a slanted line to connect the indirect object to the verb.

Marissa threw Jake the ball.

__Marissa__ |  __threw__  |  __ball__

  __Jake__

Exercise 1  Diagram the simple subject, simple predicate, direct or indirect object, and predicate noun or adjective.

1. The library needs volunteers.
2. Yoshitaka finished the pizza.
3. Mom gave me a hug.

4. The sudden rain soaked the ground.

5. Please hand me that bowl.

6. Aunt Eleanor bought me tickets.

7. This watermelon tastes so sweet!

8. Katherine read Alexandra a story.
Lesson 55
Diagraming Adjectives and Adverbs

An adjective modifies a noun or a pronoun. In a diagram write the adjective on a slanted line beneath the noun or the pronoun it modifies. Diagram possessive nouns and pronouns and the articles a, an, and the just as you would diagram other kinds of adjectives.

The sturdy house withstood the violent storm.

\begin{array}{c|c|c}
\text{house} & \text{withstood} & \text{storm} \\
\text{The} & \text{sturdy} & \text{the} \text{violent} \\
\end{array}

An adverb can modify a verb, an adjective, or another adverb. Notice how adverbs are diagramed.

The extraordinarily loud noise woke us immediately.

\begin{array}{c|c|c}
\text{noise} & \text{woke} & \text{us} \\
\text{The} & \text{loud} & \text{immediately} \\
\text{The} & \text{extraordinarily} & \\ \end{array}

Exercise 1 Diagram each sentence.

1. The beautiful cherry blossoms attract many visitors.
2. The bright colors caught the infant’s attention.
3. Anne slept late yesterday.

4. The wren chirped merrily.

5. The long, curvy road suddenly disappeared.

6. Do not give me so much spaghetti!

7. Alfonso always works very carefully.

8. This lesson confuses me somewhat.
Lesson 56
Diagraming Prepositional Phrases

All prepositional phrases, whether used as an adjective or as an adverb, are diagramed the same way.

Used as an adjective: The boxes under the stairs are full.

boxes  are  full
The  under  stairs

Used as an adverb: Hector put the boxes under the stairs.

Hector  put  boxes
under  the  stairs

Unit 11: Capitalization

Lesson 63
Capitalizing Sentences, Quotations, and Salutations I

To capitalize means to begin a word with a capital letter. Capitalize the first word of every sentence.

This assignment is due early next week.

The first word of a direct quotation is capitalized if the quotation is a complete sentence.

Mrs. Crawford said, “Start with the dictionary.”

Sometimes other words interrupt a direct quotation. Do not capitalize the beginning of the second part of an interrupted quotation unless the second part begins a new sentence.

“Start with the dictionary,” said Mrs. Crawford, “where you can find a lot of useful facts.”

“Start with the dictionary,” said Mrs. Crawford. “You can find a wealth of useful facts in the dictionary.”

Exercise 1 Draw three lines under each lowercase letter that should be capitalized. Write C in the blank if the sentence is correct.

1. “do you know,” asked Mrs. Crawford, “anybody in history named Webster?”
2. Daniel Webster,” answered Mark, “lived a long time ago.”

Lesson 72
Using Commas I

Commas make sentences easier to understand because they signal a pause or a separation between sentence parts.

Use commas to separate three or more items in a series.
No one knows whether Bigfoot is a man, a myth, or a monster.

Use a comma to show a pause after an introductory word.
No, Bigfoot has never been captured.

Use a comma after two or more prepositional phrases at the beginning of a sentence.
Despite years of searching, no one has gotten close to Bigfoot.

Use commas to set off words that interrupt the flow of thought in a sentence.
That doesn’t mean, however, that people will stop trying.

Use commas to set off names used in direct address.
Bethany, what would you do if you saw Bigfoot?

Exercise 1  Add commas where needed. Write C if the sentence is correct.

Bigfoot has thick fur, wide shoulders, and huge feet.

1. Most people, naturally would love to see Bigfoot.
2. James, do you think you’d be afraid?

13. On a map of Scotland, you’ll see that Loch Ness is huge.
14. It is also, some people feel, deep enough to hide a monster.
16. They decided, I believe, that the creature doesn’t exist.
17. However, no one believed rumors about the Komodo dragon, either.
18. On a remote island in Indonesia, many Komodo dragons were found.
19. Modern scientists, it seems, are searching Loch Ness.
20. The truth about the creature is hard to pin down, however.
21. As a matter of fact, some people think that a prehistoric animal survives in Loch Ness.
22. The beast, it appears, looks like the plesiosaur.
23. The plesiosaur, if you’ll remember, was a water reptile whose limbs looked like paddles.
24. Could it be, Juan, that this ancient animal is not really extinct?
25. In the movies and on television, prehistoric animals are often seen.
26. In 1938, a coelacanth was caught off the South African coast.
27. This fish, it was thought, had been extinct for 70 million years.
28. Do you conclude, Dr. Rico, that other prehistoric animals may yet be found?
29. Yes, I believe that the world holds many surprises.
30. Besides, there are many unexplored areas of the world.
31. Believe it or not, scientists frequently find new species of life.
32. In the Amazon, I read somewhere, there is a bird whose chicks have claws on their wings.
33. Well, a prehistoric bird also had claws on its wings.
34. Nevertheless, this does not mean that anyone will find a dinosaur.
Lesson 73
Using Commas II

Use a comma before and, or, and but when they join simple sentences.

Felicia constructed the model, and Paul painted it.
Daniel wants to go to the movies, but he has to do his homework.
You can come with us, or you can stay home and read.

Use a comma after the salutation of a friendly letter and after the closing of both a friendly letter and a business letter.

Dear Beth,
With love,
Sincerely,

Use a comma to prevent misreading.

Instead of three, four o’clock is a better time.

---

Exercise 1  Add commas where needed in the following letter.

Dear Alicia

I wanted to write to you yesterday but I didn’t have time. We’re finally on our class trip, and it’s a lot of fun. Since 1990 three classes have gone to New York. Instead of New York Boston was our choice.

When we got here some of us rested but most of us went for a walk. I read for a while, and Antonia took a nap. Between three and four o’clock five of us went to the aquarium. It was a holiday, so many children were there. The aquarium shop was great, and I bought a couple of souvenirs. I almost bought a poster but I got a book instead. It would be a nice present for Andi or I could give it to Juan. Antonia bought two sharks’ teeth and she also bought a seashell.

Now it’s suppertime, and we’re getting ready to go out. I just combed my hair, but I haven’t brushed my teeth yet. I plan to wear slacks and Antonia wants to wear a dress. She’s hoping for seafood but I’d rather have pizza. Afterward we might see a movie or we could walk around town.
If you talk to Jess, Antonia says to tell her hello. I’ll call you when I get home, and maybe we can get together.

Love, Kimmie

Exercise 2 Add commas where needed. Write C in the blank before each correct sentence.

Some people like lima beans, but Jim can’t stand them.

Vocabulary and Spelling
Lesson 86
Building Vocabulary: Learning from Context

Context clues are words and sentences around an unfamiliar word that explain its meaning. Three types of context clues are definition, example, and general context. The definition, or meaning, of the unfamiliar word may be given in the sentence. Clue words such as that is, in other words, or which means tell you that a definition is following. Sometimes examples are given to explain an unfamiliar word. The clue words like, for example, including, or such as often come before an example. If there are no special clue words in the sentence, you can use the general context. That is, you can use the details in the words or sentences around the new word to determine its meaning.

Darla is a philatelist, which means that she collects stamps. (The clue words which means tell you that the word philatelist means “stamp collector.”)

Bovines, including domestic cattle and the American bison, are an important source of food for many cultures. (The word including introduces examples of bovines. From the examples you can guess that bovines are members of the cattle family.)

Armand took the rough stones to a lapidary. She was going to cut, grind, and polish the stones so that they could be set in silver bracelets. (The general context tells you that a lapidary has something to do with making jewelry. A lapidary is a person who works with gemstones.)

Exercise 1 Write in the blank the meaning of the word in italics.

Arnold is good at ciphering, which is an old way of saying he is good at math.

Lesson 89
Synonyms and Antonyms

Synonyms are words that have similar meanings. Knowing synonyms can help you understand new words. Some dictionaries list synonyms with the definition of a word. A thesaurus is a special dictionary that lists all synonyms. Because each synonym has a slightly different meaning, choosing the right one can help you say exactly what you mean.

The cat sprang at the ball of yarn. (Substituting a synonym such as jumped or leaped could help in understanding the unfamiliar word sprang.)

The man walked to the store. (Ambled and trudged are synonyms for walked. Using one of these synonyms would give a slightly different meaning to the sentence.)

Antonyms are words that have opposite or nearly opposite meanings. Knowing antonyms can also help you understand unfamiliar words. Common ones are hot-cold, large-small, and love-hate. Many antonyms can be formed by adding a prefix meaning not. Adding un- to bending makes unbending, the antonym to bending.

Exercise 1 Circle the best synonym for each italicized word. Use a dictionary if necessary.

SUFFIXES AND THE SILENT E

When adding a suffix that begins with a consonant to a word that ends with a silent e, keep the e. When adding a suffix that begins with a or o to a word that ends with ce or ge, keep the e. When adding a suffix that begins with a vowel to a word that ends in ee or oe, keep the e.

love + -ly = lovely  knowledge + -able = knowledgeable canoe + -ing = canoeing

When adding -ly to a word that ends with an l plus a silent e, drop the e.

When adding a suffix that begins with a vowel or y to a word that ends with a silent e, usually drop the e.

terrible + -ly = terribly  shine + -ing = shining  nose + -y = nosy

SUFFIXES AND THE FINAL Y

When a word ends in a consonant + y, change the y to i. When the suffix begins with an i, do not change the y to i. When a word ends in a vowel + y, keep the y.

fry + -ed = fried  cry + -ing = crying  relay + -ed = relayed

SPELLING IE AND EI

Put i before e except after c and when sounded like a, as in neighbor and weigh.

Some exceptions to this rule are height, seize, leisure, either, efficient.

belief  deceive  eight

Exercise 1  Write the word that is formed when the suffix given is added to each word.

Lesson 92
Basic Spelling Rules II

When a word ends in a single consonant following one vowel, double the final consonant if the word is one syllable. Also double the final consonant if the last syllable of the word is accented and the accent stays there after the suffix is added.

sit + -ing = sitting  slap + -ed = slapped  sad + -er = sadder refer + -ed = referred  occur + -ence = occurrence  deter + -ing = deterring

Do not double the final consonant if the suffix begins with a consonant, if the accent is not on the last syllable, or if the accent moves when the suffix is added.

hurt + ful = hurtful  pain + -less = painless  great + -ly = greatly envelop + -ed = enveloped  govern + -ing = governing  motor + -ize = motorize refer + -ence = reference  confer + -ence = conference

Do not double the final consonant if two vowels come before the final consonant or if the word ends in two consonants.

drain + -ed = drained  moan + -ing = moaning  keep + -ing = keeping start + -er = starter  belong + -ing = belonging  apart + -ment = apartment

When adding -ly to a word that ends in ll, drop one l.

Composition
Unit 14: Composition

Lesson 98
The Writing Process: Prewriting I

During the prewriting stage, you plan what you will write. You choose a topic, or subject about which you will write. You can get ideas for topics in any of the following ways:

- Freewrite Write for several minutes, nonstop, about whatever comes into your mind.
- Collect information Gather facts and information from various sources.
- Make a list of events, experiences, people, or ideas that interest you.
- Ask questions Think of a question that you would like to answer.

The topic you select may cover too much information for you to use in one piece of writing. When that is the case, you continue to ask questions or group the information into related items. When the information is cut down to a more suitable size, your topic will be narrow enough to write about.

Exercise 1 Spend five minutes prewriting. Continue writing the entire time. Then look over your freewriting and circle any ideas that you might use as writing topics.
Exercise 2  For each general topic, list two narrower topics related to it that interest you.

Volunteering  Why do people like to volunteer?

Volunteering at the cat shelter.

1. Dancing

2. Junk food

3. Your community

4. Pets

5. Math

6. Privacy

7. Self-confidence

8. Field trips

9. Movies

10. Computers

11. Jokes

12. Winter

Lesson 99
The Writing Process: Prewriting II

During prewriting, you also choose a purpose—the goal you want to accomplish by writing about your topic. Your purpose might be to inform, to persuade, to entertain, to create a work of art, or perhaps a combination of these. Finally, you select and analyze your audience, those who will read or hear your work. Knowing your audience will help you decide what information to include and what writing style to use, such as formal or informal.

Exercise 1  Rewrite each word, phrase, or sentence for the audience named in parentheses.

1. The new rule at school really bugs me. (Rewrite for an audience of parents.)
   The new rule at school is very unfair.

2. Manuel hit a homer in the bottom of the ninth inning to win the game. (Rewrite for an audience who knows nothing about baseball.)
   Manuel scored the winning point by hitting the ball over the fence late in the game.

3. Listen up, dudes. (Rewrite as a statement to a noisy roomful of students during a class.)
   Listen, everyone.

4. During the 1995 annual period, the corn crop had an extremely high yield. (Rewrite as an explanation for a fellow student.)
   During 1995 the corn crop was plentiful.

5. No suds. No clean duds. (Rewrite as a note for someone about to go to the laundry.)
   Don't forget the detergent when you wash the clothes.

6. This bread is made with 3 cups of flour, a stick of melted butter, 2 beaten eggs, 1 teaspoon of vanilla, and 2 teaspoons of cinnamon. (Rewrite as a description for someone who does not intend to make the bread.)
   This bread is made with flour, melted butter, eggs, vanilla, and cinnamon.

7. Give the dog some drops of this medicine in his ears. (Reword as a veterinarian’s instructions to the dog’s owner. Invent any missing details.)
   Put three drops of the medicine in each ear once a day.
7. That cap is radical, man. (Rewrite as a statement to a teacher.)

8. Send me some stuff about Egyptian mummies. (Rewrite for a letter to the head of the education department at a natural history museum.)

Exercise 2 Write the purpose of each of the following types of writing: to inform, to persuade, to entertain, or to create a work of art. Some items may have more than one purpose.

- a retelling of a funny scene from a movie: to entertain, to inform

1. an account of what happens during one scene of a play: to inform

2. a short story about a frog-jumping contest: to entertain

3. several paragraphs in which the speaker pretends to be a speck of dust: to create a work of art

4. a speech you will read to a community group about why your school needs more classrooms: to persuade

5. a riddle: to entertain

6. a note giving instructions on where to find a hidden object: to inform

7. a review of a movie: to inform, to persuade

8. a letter to a college that is sent along with an application: to persuade

9. a poem about a historical event: to create a work of art, to inform

10. a composition comparing funny jokes and jokes that aren’t funny: to inform, to persuade

11. a report on how different animals hibernate: to inform

12. an announcement in a magazine about a writing contest: to inform

13. an editorial in the school paper about student safety at school: to persuade

14. a newspaper article about last Friday’s basketball game: to inform

15. a paragraph written for a parent explaining why the writer should get a larger allowance: to persuade

16. a speech made by a candidate for mayor: to persuade
Lesson 100
The Writing Process: Drafting I

After you have decided on your topic and purpose and gathered ideas and details for writing, you can begin drafting. Drafting is writing about your topic in paragraph form.

The first paragraph of your draft should include a thesis statement, which is a sentence that presents the theme, or main point you want to make. The other paragraphs each develop a main idea related to the theme.

Exercise 1 Underline the thesis statement that best expresses each theme.

1. Theme: the appeal of computer games

   Computer games can be very expensive.

   My favorite computer game is Donkey Kong.

   Someday I hope to design a computer game.

   Computer games involve the hand, the eye, and the mind.

2. Theme: the benefits of some bacteria

   Some bacteria are harmful.

   Many kinds of bacteria are useful to humans.

   Bacteria are very tiny, single-celled organisms.

   Some helpful bacteria live in the human digestive tract.

3. Theme: the satisfactions of volunteering at the cat shelter

   Sign up at the front desk if you want to volunteer at the cat shelter.

   The cat shelter is a place where you can go to adopt a cat or kitten.

   I like cats because they are like miniature lions.

   I like volunteering at the cat shelter because I know I’m helping animals as well as our community.

4. Theme: the health benefits of cross-country skiing

   Cross-country skiing offers fun for people of all ages.

   Cross-country skiing develops the heart and lungs as well as the body.
Cross-country skiing is an extremely popular sport in Norway. Cross-country skiing is much safer than downhill skiing.

4. Theme: the importance of wearing a bicycle helmet
   Bicycle helmets are not suitable for motorcyclists.
   Most bicycle helmets have a sleek shape to lower wind resistance.
   Bicyclists who have their heads on straight always wear helmets.
   Bicyclists who are safe riders always use hand signals when making turns.

5. Theme: the humor in a movie you saw recently
   Half of the characters in the movie Bonzo Goes Bananas are apes.
   Bonzo Goes Bananas is funnier than Bonzo Goes Ape.
   If you like slapstick humor, you’ll love the movie Bonzo Goes Bananas.
   The movie Bonzo Goes Bananas won’t appeal to everyone.

Exercise 2 Underline the three main ideas that support the thesis statement provided.

Thesis statement: My first trip in an airplane went smoother than I expected.
Main ideas: Airports are busy places these days.
   I was a little nervous at first.
   I spent the middle part of the trip studying the landscape far below.
   The descent and landing were exciting.

1. Thesis statement: Building a bluebird house is not difficult.
   Main ideas: Assemble your materials.
   Construct the house.
   Paint or stain the house.
   Feed the bluebirds.

2. Thesis statement: This model is a replica of a medieval castle.
   Main ideas: The design is typical of twelfth-century English castles.
   Women in medieval society were in charge of household tasks.
   The rooms are authentically furnished and decorated.
   The tiny figures represent the royal family, their knights, and servants.
Lesson 101
The Writing Process: Drafting II

Each paragraph has a topic sentence which states the main idea. Other sentences in the paragraph contain details that support the main idea.

▶ Exercise 1 Write three related sentences that provide details to support the topic sentence.

1. Immigrants to the United States sometimes have difficulty adjusting to their new country.

2. The Underground Railroad was a secret network that allowed slaves to travel north to freedom.

3. Sometimes a younger brother or sister can be a bother.
4. Native Americans are sometimes called the first Americans. _______________________________

5. A sixth grader needs to have some private time. ________________________________

6. Black Studies Week is a time to celebrate the accomplishments of African Americans. ________________________________

7. Students and teachers should treat one another with respect. ________________________________

8. You can catch more flies with honey than with vinegar. ________________________________
Lesson 102
The Writing Process: Revising I

After you complete a first draft, you will want to revise, or improve your writing. Begin by looking at each individual paragraph. The topic sentence should clearly state what the paragraph is about. Each of the other sentences should support the topic sentence and work together to develop the topic in a clear, interesting way.

If you find a sentence in your paragraph that does not support the topic, either move it to a paragraph where it would make sense or do not use it at all. If your sentences fit the topic but do not flow together smoothly, try adding a transition word such as first, next, or finally.

Greta had a busy day. She played tennis all morning. She had lunch with Aunt Susan. She visited the aquarium in the afternoon, and she called me tonight.

Greta had a busy day. First, she played tennis all morning. Next, she had lunch with Aunt Susan. She visited the aquarium in the afternoon, and, finally, she called me tonight.

Exercise 1 Revise the following paragraph.

The Venus flytrap is a plant that can be grown indoors. The Venus flytrap is a plant that can move fast to catch insects. If you want help catching insects in your home, you might want to get a Venus flytrap. I have a cactus. The tip of each leaf of the Venus flytrap has two pads that hinge at the base. Each pad has sensitive hairs on its surface. When an insect lands on a pad, these hairs move slightly, causing the pads to snap shut. The long “teeth” at the edges of the pad interlock to keep the insect from escaping.
Exercise 2 Write a topic sentence for this paragraph. Then revise the paragraph to support and develop the idea in your topic sentence.

This means that they do not have a backbone. Many kinds of animals are included in this category. Corals and sea anemones, which are both in the sea, have a plantlike appearance. Other invertebrates are agile predators. Some invertebrates are very simple animals that never move. A spider can dart quickly when attacking its prey. Crabs and lobsters can move quickly. Beetles, butterflies, and bees are all in this class. Invertebrates such as worms, snails, and starfish move at a slower pace. One of the largest classes is the insects. You can see from these examples there are many different kinds of invertebrates.
Lesson 103
The Writing Process: Revising II

Once you have revised the content of your paragraphs, you can revise the structure. The idea is to create sentences that make your paragraphs lively and interesting to read. Each sentence should flow smoothly into the next. Varying the length of your sentences can help. Rather than writing all long sentences or all short ones, try to create a balance. Divide a long sentence into two short ones to grab a reader’s attention. Combine two or three short sentences into one longer, flowing sentence by using a connecting word such as or, and, or but. Read your sentences aloud to hear how they sound. A combination of long and short sentences will form a pleasing pattern.

Exercise 1 Combine the short sentences into one longer sentence. Divide the longer sentences into two or three short ones.

Sue had roast beef for dinner. Sue had potatoes for dinner. Sue had roast beef and potatoes for dinner.

1. Kyle likes to play football. Kyle likes to play baseball. Kyle likes to play football and baseball.

2. We met Cindy at the park. We met Jan at the park. We met Bobby at the park. We met Cindy, Jan, and Bobby at the park.

3. The wind whistled through the trees while the young girl made her way through the deep, dark forest. The wind whistled through the trees. The young girl made her way through the deep, dark forest.

4. I tried strawberry ice cream. I like chocolate better. I tried strawberry ice cream, but I like chocolate better.

5. The first television program was fast-paced and exciting, and the second television program was slower and rather dull. The first television program was fast-paced and exciting. The second television program was slower and rather dull.
Exercise 2 Revise the following paragraph.

Yesterday my class visited the new zoo, and I found it far more interesting than the old zoo because of the way the animals are kept. There are no old-fashioned cages with bars. Instead, natural-looking areas with fences prevent the animals and visitors from getting hurt. You would not believe how many animals live in this zoo! I saw elephants. I saw eels. I saw cute baby koala bears. The zoo director explained how each kind of animal lives in the wild. The zoo director explained how her staff has tried to reproduce those conditions within the zoo. I thoroughly enjoyed the trip, and I hope to go back soon.
Lesson 104
The Writing Process: Editing

After you have made a clean copy of your revised draft, you should proofread it for errors in spelling, grammar, usage, and mechanics. Check for correct subject-verb agreement, correct verb tenses, and clear pronoun references. Also check for run-on sentences and sentence fragments. Use the following proofreading marks to make corrections. If you replace words or phrases, draw a line through them and write the new words just above them.

4. Do porposses swim with a sense of purpose?

5. The Great Saltlake in Utah is a beautiful place.

6. Mr. Decker’s tree farm has white pines, and blue spruce s.

7. Jean said, “Please, mother, let me get my ears peirced.”

8. Autum not spring, is my favorite season.

9. Tiffanys swaeter matches our school colors.

10. I looked for the lost key on my dresser in the car and in my cote pockets.
Lesson 105
The Writing Process: Presenting

When you have completed a piece of writing, you may decide to present your work to others. How you will present your writing depends on the audience you selected during prewriting and the nature of the material.

An outlet for presenting your writing to a specific audience is called a market. Many different markets are available to sixth-grade students. Among these are school newspapers and classroom presentations; community groups, newspapers, and radio stations; local and national contests; and magazines that feature the work of young people. The Market Guide for Young Writers, available in many libraries, can give you some ideas for marketing your work.

To decide how to present your piece, analyze your audience; then search for an outlet that serves that audience. Some outlets, such as radio programs or speech contests, offer a chance for oral presentation. In these cases, visual aids may add to your presentation.

Exercise 1  Suggest an outlet or market for each piece of writing described below.

1. a poem about school spirit  school newspaper

2. a speech about democracy

3. an opinion piece about the quality of school lunches

4. an essay about how the first day of spring makes you feel

5. words for a song

6. a set of ten tongue twisters

7. a one-page short story

8. a scary story with numerous sound effects

9. a book review

10. an opinion piece about whether community basketball courts should be repaired

11. a poem about a historical event
Exercise 2  Suggest a visual aid that could increase the effectiveness of each presentation below.

1. a speech to a science class about the 1994 flood of the Mississippi River ________________

2. a profile of your school for new students ________________

3. an original cowboy song presented at a school talent show ________________

4. an oral reading of a poem that has animal characters ________________

5. a classroom presentation about smoking among teenagers ________________

6. an oral presentation about foods from India ________________

7. an original speech by Sir Winston Churchill ________________

8. a report on how lawn mowers contribute to air pollution ________________

Exercise 3  Think of an idea for a piece of writing intended for a specific audience. Then, in a short paragraph, describe how you would present the piece.

Idea: nursery rhymes rewritten with new, humorous endings
Intended audience: students in grades 2–6
Form of presentation: The rhymes will be presented as short plays. Then the narrator will recite the poem while the actors mime their parts. The characters will carry a simple prop or wear an article of clothing that identifies them. The plays would be presented in individual classrooms at different grade levels.

Idea: ____________________________
Intended audience: ____________________________
Form of presentation: ____________________________
Lesson 106
Outlining

During prewriting you generate ideas. Outlining gives you a way to organize those ideas before you begin drafting. One way to make an outline is to write pieces of information from your prewriting material on index cards. You can then arrange the cards by main topic and supporting details. When writing an outline, use roman numerals for the main topics. Use capital letters for subtopics. Under each topic, list details using regular numerals. If you include details for a topic or subtopic, always give at least two items. An outline for an account of a rafting trip might look like this:

I. Beginning
   A. Floating calmly
   B. Sights along river
      1. Birds fishing
      2. Fish jumping

II. Middle
   A. Shooting the rapids
      1. Quick reactions of guide
      2. Excitement of passengers
   B. Stopping for picnic lunch

Exercise 1 Organize the following subtopics and details into an outline for a paragraph about a trip in a hot air balloon. The main topics are provided.

Ended near Calgary, Canada  Flight lasted four days
Length of trip  Balloonist endured zero temperatures
More than 6,000 miles  Started in Seoul, South Korea
Two heaters failed  Route of trip

I. First solo balloon flight across Pacific Ocean

A. ____________________________________________________________
   1. _________________________________________________________
   2. _________________________________________________________

B. ____________________________________________________________
   1. _________________________________________________________
   2. _________________________________________________________
II. Hardships of trip
   A. ____________________________________________________________
   B. ____________________________________________________________

▶ Exercise 2 Use the outline below to write a paragraph about types of feathers on birds.

   I. Body feathers
      A. Used for insulation
      B. Used for display
         1. Bright colors
         2. Distinct markings
   II. Tail feathers
      A. Important for steering in flying
      B. Used for balance on ground
   III. Flight feathers
      A. Used for flight
      B. Side of feather toward wing is usually narrower
      C. Broader side bends easily to let air move through wing
Lesson 107
Writing Effective Sentences I

Here are some tips for making your sentences more effective.

• Vary the length of your sentences. Avoid using all long sentences or all short sentences.
• Vary the structure of your sentences. Avoid using the same pattern for all sentences.

▶ Exercise 1 Combine the repetitious short sentences into a longer, more interesting sentence. Reword as needed.

a. The sun was setting.

b. It was setting behind the barn.

c. The barn is red.

d. The swallows began to feed.

The sun was setting behind the red barn as the swallows began to feed.

1. a. Fumio plays on a team.

b. The team is a soccer team.

c. Fumio is the goalie.

d. The team’s name is the “Jets.”

2. a. Fall is a beautiful time of year.

b. Fall is a somewhat sad time, too.

c. The trees will soon be bare.

d. The grass will turn brown.
3. a. Alice is a curious girl.
   b. She is intelligent.
   c. Alice is the main character in Alice in Wonderland.
   d. Her adventures in a make-believe world are humorous.

4. a. This fable is by Aesop.
   b. The title is “The Lion and the Mouse.”
   c. The story is about good deeds.
   d. In the story a good deed is rewarded.

5. a. Nils keeps a journal.
   b. He uses a blue pen for all journal entries.
   c. The journal is a notebook.
   d. The notebook is spiral-bound.

Exercise 2 Rewrite the paragraph, changing some of the sentence patterns.

Lek and I had nothing to do. We rode our bikes down the street. We came to the old park. We used to play baseball in the old park. We saw a shed in the old park. The shed looked empty. We looked into a window of the shed. We saw a mother dog and her puppies on the floor. We opened the door to the shed. We went in. We played with the dogs. Finally, we went home.
Lesson 108
Writing Effective Sentences II

• Lead with an interesting topic sentence. Word the sentence so that it “hooks” your readers and makes them want to read on.

• Use active verbs primarily. In a sentence with an active verb, the subject performs the action (e.g., He speaks). In a passive-verb sentence, the subject is acted upon (e.g., He is spoken to). Active verbs generally make a stronger impression than passive verbs. Use a passive verb when the “doer” of an action is unknown or unimportant.

Exercise 1 Underline the topic sentence that best hooks the reader.

Toonia, my new pen pal, lives with her grandmother in Bangkok, Thailand.

Having a pen pal is one way to learn about another country.

I know more about Thailand than I used to know.

Amid the bright colors and noisy streets of Bangkok lives my new pen pal, Toonia.

1. That stubborn girl who prefers MegaMedia over the new MultiMedia is none other than my sister!

   My sister and I never agree on anything.

   My sister and I like two different, but similar, stores that sell books and tapes.

   I like the new store MultiMedia, but my sister prefers MegaMedia.

2. Twelve inches of snow fell yesterday, but it all melted today.

   Not the usual one or two inches of snow fell yesterday.

   How could we have ever guessed that twelve whole inches of snow would disappear almost overnight?

   Due to temperatures rising to 60°, all the snow that fell yesterday melted today.

3. Here is what I think about smoking: Kids shouldn’t smoke because smoking is bad for their health and it becomes a habit that is nearly impossible to break.

   Kids shouldn’t smoke because it is bad for their health and it is a hard habit to break.

   Coughing every few minutes and pausing for an extra gasp of air, the speaker warned students about the dangers of smoking.
4. The water in the river was rough, and the water bounced the raft around.

If you are going out on the water, you should wear a life jacket.

When the rough water bounced the raft around, we were glad that we were wearing life jackets.

Here’s why you should wear a life jacket when you are on a boat.

Exercise 2 Rewrite the following passage, changing passive verbs to active verbs where appropriate.

The last scene in the movie is packed with action. Tex Carlson, the sheriff, is chased into a dead-end canyon by a band of nasty-looking outlaws. A way out is found by Tex, though, at the last minute. He scrambles up the cliff like an agile mountain goat, just as his deputy is arriving.
Lesson 109
Writing Effective Sentences III

- Create special effects. You can repeat certain words or phrases for emphasis or to create a certain effect. You can also use interruption for emphasis. A sudden break in thought can call attention to an important point. Another way to emphasize is to use a different kind of sentence that stands out from all the others.

▶ Exercise 1 Use the list to identify how the sentence or sentences below were made more effective. Some may have more than one answer.
- interesting topic sentence
- repetition for emphasis
- varied sentence length
- varied sentence structure
- interruption for emphasis
- unusual sentence for special effect

1. Did you know that 1 in 3 families today has a single parent? The situation was very different 25 years ago. At that time, only about 1 in 10 families had a single parent.

2. Some people think that if you don’t learn how to ride a bike when you’re a child that you can never learn. It’s not true. My father learned to ride when he was 33 years old.

3. I don’t have a ride. I don’t have any money. How can I possibly go to the concert?
4. When you go out in the pasture, be sure to wear rubber boots. The ground is very soggy and the little stream is swollen. It is April, after all. ________________________________

5. Who-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o! I heard the owl call again. ________________________________

6. My stomach tells me—oops, there it goes, growling again—that it’s time for lunch. ________________________________

Exercise 2 Rewrite the paragraph below using effective sentences.

The school bus was racing up the twisty mountain road. There was a tree in the road. It fell there. It happened suddenly. The tree blocked the path of the bus. Then there was thunder. Then it began to rain in buckets. Night was falling. The busload of children wondered what would happen next.
Lesson 110
Building Paragraphs I

You can arrange the supporting details in a paragraph in several ways. One way is based on time. Chronological order places events in the order in which they happened. An easy way to order chronologically the events you are writing about is first to make a timeline of them. Make use of words that signal chronological order. These include the following: first, while, then, after, when, immediately, suddenly, finally, and last. Notice some of these words in the following paragraph:

I took my usual walk in the park today with Fifi. First we strolled through the rose garden. Then we stopped at the green bench for a brief rest. After resting a while, we walked all the way around the pond and back down Plum Street. Eventually we became hungry, so we stopped for a lunch break under a big elm tree. Feeling full and content, I lay down for a nap in the grass. When Fifi’s barking woke me suddenly, I sat up, rubbed the sleep from my eyes, and looked around. The sun was setting, signaling that it was time to go home. Once again, Fifi and I took off walking. This time, however, we headed straight for the park entrance. Walking quickly down the sidewalk, we finally arrived at our apartment.

Exercise 1 Write the words that signaled chronological order in the paragraph above.

Exercise 2 Write the following list of events in paragraph form. Be sure the chronological order makes sense.

The water felt cold.
Then we took off our shoes and shorts.
First we put on our bathing suits under our shorts.
Once we got used to the water, we played in it for about an hour.
Then we walked to the beach.
Finally, it was time to go home.
While walking barefoot on the beach, we noticed seashells.
When we arrived, we spread out our towels.
On our walk home, we talked about the wonderful day.
After collecting shells, we waded into the water.
First, we put on our bathing suits under our shorts. Then we walked to the beach. When we arrived, we spread out our towels. Then we took off our shoes and shorts. While walking barefoot on the beach, we noticed seashells. After collecting shells, we waded into the water. The water felt very cold! Once we got used to the water, we played in it for about an hour. Finally, it was time to go home. On our walk home, we talked about the wonderful day.

Exercise 3  Write a paragraph about what you did last weekend. Be sure events are in chronological order.
Lesson 111
Building Paragraphs II

Another way to order details in a paragraph is by using spatial order. When you use spatial order, you arrange details by their location or position. There are different ways to arrange details in spatial order. For example, your description may go from near to far, left to right, or low to high.

Some words that help show spatial order include the following: next to, on, below, above, across, near, far, out, by, through, over, between, away, left, and down. These words may appear as prepositions, adjectives, or adverbs.

The teapot on the stove whistled. (preposition)
The dog ran in a nearby field. (preposition, adjective)

The following paragraph is arranged in spatial order.

As I sat in the park on the green bench, I looked at Fifi to my right. Her paws were muddy from the dirt around the bench. She started barking when she noticed a German shepherd in the nearby field. The dog approached us and sat in front of the bench. I threw a stick and both dogs went running across the field. I watched them for a while from the bench, waiting to see which would return with the prize.

Exercise 1 Write the words that signaled spatial order in the above paragraph.

Exercise 2 Write the following details in paragraph form. Use spatial order that moves from near to far.

Farther to the right was the audio-visual section.
Near the entrance to the left was the circulation desk.
I stood at the entrance to the library.
At the end opposite the library’s entrance were stairs leading down to the nonfiction books and up to the magazine area.
Just beyond the stairs was the back entrance, filled with works of art by local patrons.
To the right of the front door was the children’s room.
Past the circulation desk on the left were the reference room and the reading room.
Behind the circulation desk was the librarian’s office.
I stood at the entrance to the library. Near the entrance to the left was the circulation desk. Past the circulation desk were the reference room and the reading room. Behind the circulation desk was the librarian's office. To the right of the front door was the children's room. Farther to the right was the audio-visual section. At the end opposite the library's entrance were stairs leading down to the non-fiction books and up to the magazine area. Just beyond the stairs was the back entrance, filled with works of art by local patrons.

Exercise 2 Write a paragraph describing the room you are in now. Use spatial order.
Lesson 112
Building Paragraphs III

In compare/contrast order, present details about two subjects by describing their similarities and differences. This can be done in two ways. You can discuss all the details about one subject and then about the other subject:

Fifi is a small black poodle. She has very short, curly hair. She is very quiet and stays away from people. She loves to be lazy and lie outside in the sun. Rex is a large brown and white collie. He has long, thick fur. He is very friendly and barks loudly. He loves to play fetch with a stick in the backyard.

Or you can do comparisons detail-by-detail, writing about both subjects at the same time:

While Fifi is a small black poodle, Rex is a large brown and white collie. Fifi has short curly hair and Rex has long thick fur. Fifi is very quiet and stays away from people. Rex is very friendly and barks loudly. While Fifi loves to be lazy and lie in the sun, Rex prefers to play fetch with a stick.

Exercise 1 Write the following details in paragraph form. Use compare/contrast order.

Bony fish are more common.
Fish can be divided into two groups: bony fish and cartilage fish.
Cartilage fish have skeletons made of cartilage.
The end of your nose is cartilage.
Bony fish have skeletons like human bones.
Both kinds of fish have fins and gills.
Only the teeth of cartilage fish are calcified like bones.
Grandma Nora is quiet and dignified.
Grandma Hazel plays the piano.
Grandma Hazel works for a political organization.
Grandma Nora sings with a band.
Grandma Hazel is talkative and fun.
Grandma Hazel lives in Phoenix.
Grandma Nora lives in Chicago.
Grandma Nora works for a government agency.

Exercise 2 Write a paragraph that compares and contrasts your own interests and abilities with those of a friend.
Lesson 113
Paragraph Ordering

Just as you needed to choose an order for your sentences, you need to choose an order for the paragraphs in your writing. When you are revising, check that each sentence tells something about the topic of that paragraph. Cross out any sentences that do not. Be sure your paragraphs follow one another in a way that makes sense. Finally, check that you have transition words between the last sentence of one paragraph and the first sentence of the following paragraph.

FIRST DRAFT:
The second day we went to the beach. The sun came out, the water was cool, and we had a great time. The sky was blue. We made huge sand castles. We went swimming and waterskiing.
The first day of our vacation was a big disappointment. We had to stay indoors. It rained all day long. There were thunder and lightning, too.
The weather was perfect the rest of the week. I’m glad I didn’t go home after the first day!

REVISED DRAFT:
The first day of our vacation was a big disappointment. It rained all day long. There were thunder and lightning, too, so we had to stay indoors.
The second day we went to the beach. The sky was blue, and the sun came out. First we made huge sand castles; then we went swimming and waterskiing. We had a great time.
The weather was perfect the rest of the week. I’m glad I didn’t go home after the first day!

Exercise 1 Write 1, 2, or 3 in the blank in front of each paragraph to show how the three paragraphs should be ordered.

Finally, Aunt Susan offered to bake some of her famous cherry pies. With all that food to sell, we were certain to raise enough money to go to Toronto.

My soccer team was invited to play in a tournament in Toronto, Canada. Unfortunately, we did not have enough money to rent a bus to take us there. We really wanted to go, so we decided to have a bake sale to raise some of the money.
The morning of the bake sale, we realized we did not have enough food. Kelly, who was in charge of donations, was especially upset. Since she was scheduled to work at the sale all morning, she didn’t know how she was going to get more food. I called my friend Lois, who was not scheduled to work until afternoon. She said she and her grandfather could make another four dozen cookies. Then I called my sister Kate. She asked the owner of the bakery where she works if he would donate some pastries. Meanwhile, I went home to bake two more cakes.

Exercise 2 Revise the following paragraphs. Rewrite them in the space provided.

Admission is free, but seating is limited—so come early and enjoy! Polk Middle School is announcing its spring production, Images. It includes songs, dances, and sketches of life as a sixth grader. This is a new play written by the students themselves.

There will also be an afternoon performance at 2:00 P.M. on June 2. Everyone in the community is invited to attend. The play will be performed at 8:00 P.M. June 1 and 7:30 P.M. June 2.
Lesson 114
Personal Letters I

A personal letter is an informal letter to a person that you know well. Personal letters have a tone similar to friendly conversation. They describe recent events in your life and your reactions to them. They also ask the recipient of the letter for news. In a personal letter, the heading and the closing are usually indented, as is each paragraph in the body of the letter.

Exercise 1 Read the following personal letter. Answer each question.

2496 Harrison Avenue
Worthington, Ohio 43085
March 3, 1996

Dear Yvonne,

I was really happy to get your last letter. What a funny family you have. I laughed out loud when I read about how you and your dad had to carry a ladder on the subway to your new apartment.

Things have been pretty quiet here, but I do have one piece of news. Our jump rope team entered the all-school jump rope competition, and we came in second! Boy, were we nervous. But we kept our cool and just kept jumping. The next time you visit I’ll show you our routine.

When you come, be sure to bring your swimsuit. The new community pool is finally finished. By the way, how did you ever get that ladder up seven flights of stairs?

Your good friend,

Angie

1. Who is Yvonne? ________________________________________________________________

2. What lines show that Angie is interested in what is happening in Yvonne’s life?

3. Which paragraph gives Yvonne some news about what Angie has been doing?
4. What do you notice about the placement of the heading and the closing? ____________________________

Exercise 2 Write a letter to a friend about your summer activities.
Lesson 115

Personal Letters II

Personal letters can also take the form of invitations and thank-you notes. For example, you might write a thank-you note to a naturalist who gave a talk to your class. You might write a letter inviting your grandmother to visit you at your home. These two kinds of personal letters are usually semiformal, avoiding the slang and sentence fragments that you might use in a postcard to a friend. The heading and the closing are usually indented, as is each paragraph in the body of the letter.

Exercise 1 Write a thank-you note to an adult relative. In your letter express your appreciation for something nice that he or she did for you.
Exercise 2 Write a letter inviting the parents of students in your class to attend a poetry reading by members of the class.
Lesson 116
Personal Letters III

If you want to write to an author or a performer that you admire, you should write a personal letter. When you write to a celebrity, use a respectful tone and a semiformal writing style. Be sure to state clearly how the author’s work has affected you. Celebrities cannot respond to each and every letter. However, if your letter catches the author’s interest, you might receive a letter in return.

Exercise 1 Read the following letter. Then answer each question.

Dear Jean,

Mrs. Fritz, I have read all your books. The book I like best is the one about growing up in China. The things you wrote about China made me want to visit it some day. I understood how homesick you felt because once I had to spend the entire summer in Arizona, far away from my family in New Jersey.

I’ve learned a lot about United States history from your biographies. I feel as if I have met each of your subjects in person. Could you please send me an autographed copy of one of your books? It doesn’t matter which one.

Your friend,
Janine Janiewicz

1. Did the writer use an appropriate salutation? Why or why not?

2. Was the writer clear about which book she admires the most? Explain.

3. Explain whether the style and tone of the first paragraph is appropriate.
4. In the second paragraph, what unrealistic request does the writer make? ______

Lesson 117

Business Letters: Letters of Request or Complaint

Business letters are letters sent to an organization to achieve a specific purpose. One common type of business letter is the letter of request. A letter of request asks for information or service. In this type of letter, begin by identifying yourself. Then explain what information you need and why you need it. Also, be clear about where the information should be sent. Since you are asking for a favor, always show courtesy in your request.

Business letters are usually written in block form or semiblock form. In block form, all parts of the letter are lined up at the left margin. In semiblock form, the heading, closing, and signature are aligned on the right side of the page. The recipient of a business letter is usually a stranger, so the letter should be formal in style and respectful in tone.

Exercise 1 Read the following letter of request. Then answer each question below.

Dear Mr. Holbrook:
I am a sixth grader at Horatio Alger Middle School. Could you send me some information about the national parks in the West? Thanks tons.

Sincerely,
Pramode Pirakh

1. Are the salutation and closing appropriate? ________________________________
2. Does the letter writer identify himself? ________________________________
3. Does the letter writer explain why he needs the information? ________________
4. Is the writer specific enough about the information he wants? ________________
5. Is the letter courteous in tone? ________________________________
6. Is the letter appropriately formal in style? ________________________________

Exercise 2 Rewrite the above letter to make it better. Refer to your evaluation, and add new information as needed. Sign your own name to the letter.

Another common type of business letter is the letter of complaint. A letter of complaint informs someone about a problem and usually requests some type of action. In your letter state the problem and how it has affected you. Use supporting details to explain the problem. End your letter by stating what you want done. Be firm but polite. If you let your anger burst out, you are less likely to get help in solving the problem.

Exercise 3 Read the following letter of complaint. List three weak points of the letter below.

Dear Sir or Madam:

The other day I decided I finally needed a new daypack, so I went to three different stores at the mall. Then I saw your daypacks and bought one. Your daypacks are really crummy. I bought the daypack two weeks ago and the back pocket is already coming off! I use the pocket to hold little things like my eraser and pencil sharpener and house key. Yesterday my key fell out because of the hole in the seam of the pocket! I shouldn’t have to mend a new pack. I demand a full refund of my money!

Lesson 118
Business Letters: Letters of Opinion

A letter of opinion is a letter that voices your thoughts and ideas on a particular issue. You might write a letter of opinion to the school newspaper about a new policy or program. You might write to a public official to comment on a community or national issue. Or you might write to a magazine to react to a recent article.

Here are some guidelines for writing a good letter of opinion.

• Try to put your main idea into a single sentence.
• Provide details to support your opinion.
• If possible, suggest a solution to the problem.
• Use a courteous tone: avoid name-calling or broad generalizations.

Exercise 1 Read the following letter of opinion. Then answer the questions that follow.

Dear Mayor Farmer:
The downtown recreation center is a great idea, but the plan for it could be improved. According to the current plan, there will be room for four basketball courts, which can also serve as volleyball courts. It’s true that the youth basketball leagues need more space for their games. However, our city does not have a single indoor tennis court. More than two hundred young people take part in summer tennis tournaments in Mount Airy, but they have no place to practice during the winter. Many adults fill the five outdoor courts in summer. They, too, would benefit from an indoor facility. The new recreation center should appeal to many different groups in our community. I strongly urge you to include at least one tennis court in the plan for the new facility.

Sincerely,
Demar Johnson

Exercise 2 Write a letter of opinion to your school or community paper about an issue that is important to you, or choose one of the following topics. Use the guidelines above in drafting your letter.

- a change in a school rule
- a needed facility at your school
- safety in your community
- a way to beautify your community

The Ready Reference consists of three parts. The Glossary of Terms is a list of language arts terms with definitions and examples. Page references show you where to find more information about the terms elsewhere in the book. The Usage Glossary lists words that are easily confused or often used incorrectly and explains how to use the words correctly. The third part is Abbreviations, which consists of lists of many commonly used abbreviations.
GLOSSARY OF TERMS

abbreviation  An abbreviation is a shortened form of a word or phrase. Many abbreviations are followed by periods (pages 264–266).
EXAMPLES  Mrs., Tues., Dec., NBA, ft., St., RI

abstract noun  An abstract noun names an idea, a quality, or a feeling that can’t be seen or touched (page 82).
EXAMPLE  Her bravery and courage filled us with admiration.

action verb  An action verb is a verb that expresses action. An action verb may consist of more than one word (pages 97–98).
EXAMPLES  The director shouts at the members of the cast.
   The lights are flashing above the stage.
   The play has begun.

active voice  A verb is in the active voice when the subject performs the action of the verb (pages 111–112).
EXAMPLE  Thornton Wilder composed that play.

adjective  An adjective is a word that describes, or modifies, a noun or a pronoun (pages 144–152, 164–165).

   HOW ADJECTIVES MODIFY NOUNS

WHAT KIND?  We studied ancient history.
HOW MANY?  I read four chapters.
WHICH ONE?  That invention changed history.

adjective clause  An adjective clause is a subordinate clause that modifies, or describes, a noun or a pronoun in the main clause of a complex sentence (pages 195, 197).
EXAMPLE  The Aqua-Lung, which divers strap on, holds oxygen.

adjective phrase  An adjective phrase is a prepositional phrase or a participial phrase that modifies, or describes, a noun or a pronoun (pages 178, 206–207).

EXAMPLES  The servers at the new restaurant are courteous.
[prepositional phrase modifying servers]
The musician seated at the piano is Erik.  [participial phrase modifying musician]

adverb  An adverb is a word that modifies a verb, an adjective, or another adverb (pages 158–167, 179–180).

WHAT ADVERBS MODIFY

VERBS  People handle old violins carefully.

ADJECTIVES  Very old violins are valuable.

ADVERBS  Orchestras almost always include violins.

WAYS ADVERBS MODIFY VERBS

ADVERBS TELL

EXAMPLES

- MODIFIES AN ADJECTIVE The restaurant is popular with young people.
- MODIFIES AN ADVERB The restaurant opens early in the morning.

agreement Agreement is the match between grammatical forms. A verb must agree with its subject. A pronoun must agree with its antecedent (pages 73, 132–133, 181, 206–214).

EXAMPLES Both ducks and swans swim in this lake. [subject-verb agreement]

Jerry and his brother visited their grandparents. [pronoun-antecedent agreement]

antecedent An antecedent is the word a pronoun refers to. The word antecedent means “going before” (pages 128–130).

EXAMPLE Max likes to read books. He particularly likes novels. [He refers to Max. Max is the antecedent of He.]

apostrophe An apostrophe (’) is a punctuation mark used in possessive nouns, possessive indefinite pronouns, and contractions. In contractions an apostrophe shows that one or more letters have been left out (pages 86–88, 261–262).

EXAMPLES Shefali’s friends don’t always understand her.

Cameron’s asking for everyone’s help.

appositive An appositive is a noun that is placed next to another noun to identify it or add information about it (pages 89–90).

EXAMPLE James Madison’s wife, Dolley, was a famous first lady.
appositive phrase An appositive phrase is a group of words that includes an appositive and other words that modify the appositive (pages 89–90).

EXAMPLE Madison, our fourth president, held many other offices.

article The words a, an, and the make up a special group of adjectives called articles. A and an are called indefinite articles because they refer to one of a general group of people, places, things, or ideas. A is used before words beginning with a consonant sound. An is used before words beginning with a vowel sound (page 147).

EXAMPLES a union a picture an hour an easel

The is called the definite article because it identifies specific people, places, things, or ideas (page 147).

example Julio wore a cap on his head and a scarf around his neck.

conjunction A conjunction is a connecting word. See coordinating conjunction, correlative conjunction, and subordinating conjunction.

conjunctive adverb A conjunctive adverb may be used to join the simple sentences in a compound sentence (pages 183–184).

example The school cafeteria sometimes serves Chinese food; however, other cafeteria meals are not very tasty.

contraction A contraction is a word formed from one or more words by omitting one or more letters and substituting an apostrophe (pages 87–88, 166, 262).

examples We can’t find the map. [Can’t is a contraction of cannot.] Carmella’s visited every state. [Carmella’s is a contraction of Carmella has.] coordinating conjunction  A coordinating conjunction is a word used to connect compound parts of a sentence. And, but, or, nor, and for are coordinating conjunctions. So and yet are also sometimes used as coordinating conjunctions (pages 181, 213–214).

Example  Juan or Lisa collects the money and distributes the tickets.

correlative conjunction  Correlative conjunctions are pairs of words used to connect compound parts of a sentence. Correlative conjunctions include both . . . and, either . . . or, neither . . . nor, and not only . . . but also (pages 181, 213–214).

Example  Examples of great architecture exist in both New York and Paris.

dash  A dash (—) is a punctuation mark. It’s usually used in pairs to set off a sudden break or change in thought or speech (page 263).

Example  Billy Adams—he lives next door—is our team manager.

declarative sentence  A declarative sentence makes a statement. It ends with a period (pages 66, 249).

Example  Edgar Allan Poe wrote suspenseful short stories.

demonstrative adjective  A demonstrative adjective points out something and modifies a noun by answering the question which one? or which ones? This, that, these, and those are demonstrative adjectives when they modify nouns (page 147).

Examples  Take this umbrella with you.
            That answer is wrong.
            Take these boots too.
            Those clouds are lovely.
demonstrative pronoun A demonstrative pronoun is a pronoun that points out something. This, that, these, and those are demonstrative pronouns when they take the place of nouns (pages 136, 148).

EXAMPLES
- Take this with you.
- That is the wrong answer.
- Take these too.
- Those are lovely clouds.

dependent clause See subordinate clause.

direct address Direct address is a name used in speaking directly to a person. Direct address may also be a word or a phrase used in place of a name. Words used in direct address are set off by commas (page 251).

EXAMPLES
- Suzy, please hand me a dish towel.
- Here, my dear mother, is your birthday present.
- Don’t do that again, Samson.

ABBREVIATIONS

An abbreviation is a short way to write a word or a group of words. Abbreviations should be used sparingly in formal writing except for a few that are actually more appropriate than their longer forms. These are Mr., Mrs., and Dr. (doctor) before names, A.M. and P.M., and B.C. and A.D.

Some abbreviations are written with capital letters and periods, and some with capital letters and no periods; some are written with lowercase letters and periods, and some with lowercase letters and no periods. A few may be written in any one of these four ways and still be acceptable. For example, to abbreviate miles per hour, you may write MPH, M.P.H., mph, or m.p.h.

Some abbreviations may be spelled in more than one way. For example, Tuesday may be abbreviated Tues. or Tue. Thursday may be written Thurs. or Thu. In the following lists, only the most common way of writing each abbreviation is given.

When you need information about an abbreviation, consult a dictionary. Some dictionaries list abbreviations in a special section in the back. Others list them in the main part of the book.

In most cases, state names and street addresses should be spelled out. The postal abbreviations in the following list should be used with ZIP codes in addressing envelopes. They may also be used with ZIP codes for return addresses and inside addresses in business letters. The traditional state abbreviations are seldom used nowadays, but occasionally it’s helpful to know them.

PRETEST  Kinds of Sentences

Write declarative, interrogative, imperative, or exclamatory to identify each sentence.

1. Fencing is an old sport.
2. Will a fencing team compete in the Olympics?
3. The character of Zorro was known for fencing.
4. What a fast moving sport fencing is!
5. Wear a mask when you fence.

PRETEST  Sentences and Sentence Fragments

Write sentence or fragment for each item. Rewrite each fragment to make it a sentence.

6. In the spring and summer.
7. The back of the quarter is getting fifty new designs.
8. George Washington is still pictured on the quarter.
9. Collected coins for many years.
10. My sister works in a bank.
11. Enjoys her work very much.
12. I have a checking and a savings account at the bank.
14. Florida and South Carolina.
15. I read many books during the trip.

PRETEST Subjects and Predicates

Write each sentence. Underline the simple subjects once and the simple predicates twice.

16. The train left twenty minutes ago.
17. The girls practice shooting baskets every afternoon.
18. Last week George passed his driving test.
19. Put the dishes on the shelf.
20. Did you find your key?
21. Mom and Dad came to the concert.
22. Over the hill ran the fox.
23. Locate and label your folder.
24. Do you play tennis, softball, or soccer?
25. There is the jacket.

PRETEST Simple, Compound, and Run-on Sentences

Write simple, compound, or run-on to identify each numbered item. If an item is a run-on, rewrite it correctly.

26. Eighteen-year-old residents can apply for American citizenship.
27. Applicatns must have lived in the United States for at least five years, and they must understand English.
28. Every year many people come to the United States.
29. Years ago, large numbers of people arrived at Ellis Island and went through screening there.
30. Many immigrants wanted a better life, or they were looking for greater freedom.
32. It reopened as a museum and tells the story of immigrants.
33. The Statue of Liberty is in New York Harbor, and it still welcomes visitors to the United States.
34. My grandparents came from Mexico now they are citizens.
35. They went through hardships, but they live happily here.

1.1 KINDS OF SENTENCES

A sentence is a group of words that expresses a complete thought.

Different kinds of sentences have different purposes. A sentence can make a statement, ask a question, or give a command. A sentence can also express strong feeling. All sentences begin with a capital letter and end with a punctuation mark. The punctuation mark depends on the purpose of the sentence.

A declarative sentence makes a statement. It ends with a period.

EXAMPLE Edgar Allan Poe wrote suspenseful short stories.

An interrogative sentence asks a question. It ends with a question mark.

EXAMPLE Did Poe also write poetry?

An imperative sentence gives a command or makes a request. It ends with a period.

EXAMPLE Read “The Pit and the Pendulum.”
An exclamatory sentence expresses strong feeling. It ends with an exclamation point.

EXAMPLE  What a great writer Poe was!

EXAMPLE  How I enjoy his stories!

PRACTICE  Identifying Kinds of Sentences

Write declarative, interrogative, imperative, or exclamatory to identify each sentence.

1. How excited we are about our trip to Maine!
2. Have you ever traveled to Maine?
3. Send me a postcard.
4. Will you take a bus or a train?
5. What a beautiful beach this is!
6. The ocean water is very cold.
7. I see a loon on the water.
8. Be very quiet.
9. Loons are diving birds.
10. Loon calls sound like laughter.
1.2 SENTENCES AND SENTENCE FRAGMENTS

Every sentence has two parts: a subject and a predicate.

EXAMPLE

Emily Dickinson wrote poetry.

The subject part of a sentence names whom or what the sentence is about.

The predicate part of a sentence tells what the subject does or has. It can also tell what the subject is or is like.

A sentence fragment does not express a complete thought. It may also be missing a subject, a predicate, or both.

CORRECTING SENTENCE FRAGMENTS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>FRAGMENT</th>
<th>PROBLEM</th>
<th>SENTENCE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The poems.</td>
<td>The fragment lacks a predicate. What did the poems do?</td>
<td>The poems lay in Dickinson’s bureau for years.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wrote about her emotions.</td>
<td>The fragment lacks a subject. Who wrote about her emotions?</td>
<td>This famous poet wrote about her emotions.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Of meaning.</td>
<td>The fragment lacks a subject and a predicate.</td>
<td>Her poems contain many layers of meaning.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
PRACTICE  Identifying Sentences and Fragments

Write sentence or fragment for each item. Write each sentence and underline the subject part once and the predicate part twice. For each fragment, add a subject or a predicate or both to make it a sentence.

1. Many animals live in the sea.
2. Always under water.
3. Whales and dolphins breathe air.
4. Sponges and corals look like plants.
6. A starfish has thick arms around its body.
7. Its feet are under its arms.
8. Starfish see only dark and light.
9. Millions of tiny plants.
10. Different types of whales.

1.3 SUBJECTS AND PREDICATES

A sentence consists of a subject and a predicate that together express a complete thought. Both a subject and a predicate may consist of more than one word.

The complete subject includes all the words in the subject of a sentence.

The complete predicate includes all the words in the predicate of a sentence.

Not all words in the subject or the predicate are equally important.
The simple subject is the main word or word group in the complete subject.

The simple subject is usually a noun or a pronoun. A noun is a word that names a person, a place, a thing, or an idea. A pronoun is a word that takes the place of one or more nouns.

The simple predicate is the main word or word group in the complete predicate.

The simple predicate is always a verb. A verb is a word that expresses action or a state of being.

Sometimes the simple subject is the same as the complete subject. Sometimes the simple predicate is the same as the complete predicate.

PRACTICE Identifying Complete Subjects and Complete Predicates

Write each sentence. Underline the complete subject once and the complete predicate twice.

1. Jaimie goes to camp every summer.
2. The camp is located in the mountains.
3. Jack Ranos is the head counselor.
4. Many activities are planned each week.
5. Most of the campers stay in cabins.
6. Several cats live at the camp.
7. The rain started this morning.
8. I learned how to sail.
9. The campers cook the meals.
10. The new sign showed us the trail.

PRACTICE Identifying Simple Subjects and Simple Predicates

Write each sentence. Underline the simple subject once and the simple predicate twice.

1. The party begins at 8:00.
2. Twenty students rode in the bus.
3. Some football players practice every day.
4. Her large suitcase has wheels.
5. Jon’s desk is too small for the computer.
6. The long road stretched ahead of us.
7. Performers in the dance company moved gracefully to the drumming.
8. Our computer broke last week.
9. That restaurant usually changes its menu weekly.
10. The tree bark felt rough.

1.4 IDENTIFYING THE SUBJECT

In most sentences, the subject comes before the predicate.

EXAMPLE Washington Irving described New York in his stories.

Other kinds of sentences, such as questions, begin with part or all of the predicate. The subject comes next, followed by the rest of the predicate.

EXAMPLE Are people still reading his stories?
To locate the subject of a question, rearrange the words to form a statement.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PREDICATE</th>
<th>SUBJECT</th>
<th>PREDICATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Did</td>
<td>Irving</td>
<td>write many funny stories?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Irving</td>
<td></td>
<td>did write many funny stories.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The predicate also comes before the subject in sentences with inverted word order and in declarative sentences that begin with Here is, Here are, There is, and There are.

EXAMPLE Over the paper raced Irving’s pen.

EXAMPLE There is Irving’s original manuscript.

In imperative sentences (requests and commands), the subject is usually not stated. The predicate is the entire sentence. The word you is understood to be the subject.

EXAMPLE (You) Look for the author’s name on the cover.

PRACTICE Identifying the Subject

Write each sentence. Underline the complete subject. Write (You) before any sentence with an understood subject.

1. Students wear uniforms in some schools.
2. Do you agree with this idea?
3. Into the pool ran the children.
4. Write a list of materials for the project.
5. Mars has two tiny moons.
6. The sky on Mars appears red.
7. Here is a poster of Mars.
8. Have space explorations found water on Mars?
9. Study chapter 2 of your science text.
10. Will your science class be studying about the planets?
1.5 COMPOUND SUBJECTS AND COMPOUND PREDICATES

A sentence may have more than one simple subject or simple predicate.

A compound subject consists of two or more simple subjects that have the same predicate. The subjects may be joined by and, or, both . . . and, either . . . or, or neither . . . nor.

EXAMPLE  Charlotte Brontë and Emily Brontë were sisters.

When the two simple subjects are joined by and or by both . . . and, the compound subject is plural. Use the plural form of the verb to agree with the plural compound subject.

When simple subjects are joined by or, either . . . or, or neither . . . nor, the verb must agree with the nearer simple subject.

EXAMPLE  Neither Charlotte nor Emily is my favorite author.

EXAMPLE  Neither her sisters nor Charlotte was outgoing.

EXAMPLE  Neither Charlotte nor her sisters were outgoing.

In the first sentence, Emily is the nearer subject, so the singular form of the verb is used. In the second sentence, Charlotte is the nearer subject, so the singular form of the verb is used here too. In the third sentence, sisters is the nearer subject, so the plural form of the verb is used.

A compound predicate consists of two or more simple predicates, or verbs, that have the same subject. The verbs may be connected by and, or, but, both . . . and, either . . . or, or neither . . . nor.

EXAMPLE  Many students read and enjoy novels.

The compound predicate in this sentence consists of read and enjoy. Both verbs agree with the plural subject, students.
PRACTICE  Identifying Compound Subjects and Compound Predicates

Write each sentence, using the correct form of the verb in parentheses. Then underline the compound subjects once and the compound predicates twice.

1. Grace and Erin (is, are) twins.
2. Some twins (looks, look) and (acts, act) different.
3. Either Brad or Zak (feeds, feed) and (walks, walk) the dogs.
4. Both whales and dolphins (breathes, breathe) air.
5. The teacher or the children (cleans, clean) the board.
6. The passengers either (buys, buy) tickets or (pays, pay) on the train.
7. Alex (writes, write) the copy and (draws, draw) the pictures.
8. Neither the books nor this magazine (gives, give) the information.
9. The teachers or the parents (presents, present) the award.
10. Many students (plays, play) an instrument and (sings, sing) in the chorus.

1.6 SIMPLE, COMPOUND, AND RUN-ON SENTENCES

A simple sentence has one subject and one predicate.

EXAMPLE  Eudora Welty lived in Jackson, Mississippi.

A simple sentence may have a compound subject, a compound predicate, or both, as in the following example.

EXAMPLE  Jeff and I read and enjoy Welty’s stories.
A compound sentence is a sentence that contains two or more simple sentences joined by a comma and a coordinating conjunction (and, but, or) or by a semicolon.

EXAMPLE Welty is a novelist, but she also writes essays.

EXAMPLE Welty is a novelist; she also writes essays.

A run-on sentence is two or more sentences incorrectly written as one sentence. To correct a run-on, write separate sentences or combine the sentences.

CORRECTING RUN-ON SENTENCES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>RUN-ON</th>
<th>CORRECT</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Welty wrote novels she wrote essays.
Welty wrote novels, she wrote essays. | Welty wrote novels. She wrote essays.
Welty wrote novels, and she wrote essays.
Welty wrote novels; she wrote essays. |

PRACTICE Identifying Simple, Compound, and Run-on Sentences

2.1 Kinds of Nouns

A noun is a word that names a person, a place, a thing, or an idea.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>NOUNS</th>
<th></th>

<tr>
<td>THINGS</td>
<td>magazine, boots, rose, pencil, peach, baseball, car</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>IDEAS</td>
<td>honesty, truth, democracy, pride, maturity, progress</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

A common noun names any person, place, thing, or idea.
A proper noun names a particular person, place, thing, or idea.

The first word and all other important words in a proper noun are capitalized: Edgar Allan Poe, Statue of Liberty.
Common nouns can be either concrete or abstract.
Concrete nouns name things you can see or touch. Abstract nouns name ideas, qualities, and feelings that can’t be seen or touched.

8. John F. Kennedy was the youngest person ever elected president.
9. The view from the top of the Washington Monument is fantastic.
10. The fossils of the dinosaur named Sue are at the Field Museum in Chicago.

2.2 SINGULAR AND PLURAL NOUNS

A singular noun names one person, place, thing, or idea. A plural noun names more than one.

To form the plural of most nouns, you simply add -s. Other plural nouns are formed in different ways.

</table>

To form the plural of compound nouns written as one word, usually add `-s` or `-es`. To form the plural of compound nouns that are written as more than one word or are hyphenated, make the main noun in the compound word plural, or check a dictionary.
Words such as family and team are called collective nouns.

A collective noun names a group of people, animals, or things.

A collective noun subject may be followed by a singular verb or a plural verb, depending on the meaning. The subject is singular when the members of the group act as a single unit. The subject is plural when each member of the group acts separately. Other words in a sentence can sometimes help you decide whether a collective noun is singular or plural.

EXAMPLE  The team shares the field with its opponent.
[shares, its, singular]

EXAMPLE  The team share their jokes with one another.
[share, their, plural]

PRACTICE  Forming Plural Nouns

Write the plural form of each noun.

1. sister-in-law  6. shelf
2. elephant  7. ratio
3. computer  8. family
4. leash  9. reef
5. tomato  10. monkey
Identifying Collective Nouns

Write each collective noun. Label it S if it’s singular and P if it’s plural.

1. The company offers many different services.
2. The pilots association chooses its representatives.
3. The Peterson family lives on Tenth Street.
4. The class paint pictures for the art show.
5. The whale pod migrates south in the winter.
6. The team are introduced before the game.
7. The group eats lunch outside.
8. The band performs every weekend.
9. The audience becomes silent.
10. The colony works hard to provide their own food.

2.3 Possessive Nouns

A noun can show ownership or possession of things or qualities. This kind of noun is called a possessive noun.

A possessive noun tells who or what owns or has something.

Possessive nouns may be common nouns or proper nouns. They may also be singular or plural. Notice the possessive nouns in the following sentences:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SINGULAR NOUN</th>
<th>Rita has a book about baseball.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SINGULAR POSSESSIVE NOUN</td>
<td>Rita’s book is about baseball.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PLURAL NOUN</td>
<td>Several cities have baseball teams.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PLURAL POSSESSIVE NOUN</td>
<td>These cities’ teams attract fans.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Possessive nouns are formed in one of two ways. To form the possessive of singular nouns and plural nouns not ending in s, add an apostrophe and s (’s). To form the possessive of plural nouns ending in s, add just an apostrophe at the end of the word.
FORMING POSSESSIVE NOUNS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>NOUNS</th>
<th>TO FORM POSSESSIVE</th>
<th>EXAMPLES</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>All singular nouns; plural nouns not ending in s</td>
<td>Add an apostrophe and s (‘s).</td>
<td>a girl—a girl’s name, Germany—Germany’s exports, the bus—the bus’s capacity, Ms. Ames—Ms. Ames’s class, children—children’s toys, women—women’s coats.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Plural nouns ending in s</td>
<td>Add just an apostrophe (’) at the end of the plural noun.</td>
<td>babies—babies’ birth weight, the Joneses—the Joneses’ car.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

PRACTICE Writing Possessive Nouns

Write the possessive form of the noun in parentheses.

1. The (coach) daughter has just joined the team.
2. (Janis) essay won first prize.
3. The (trees) roots were exposed.
4. The (teachers) lounge was locked.
5. (Oregon) coastline is very rugged.
6. The third floor houses the (men) department.
7. (Columbus) voyage across the ocean took about seventy days.
8. How big is your (computer) memory?
9. The (families) combined garage sale is this weekend.
10. (Sir Isaac Newton) theory of gravity describes how the universe is held together.

2.4 RECOGNIZING PLURALS, POSSESSIVES, AND CONTRACTIONS

Most plural nouns, all possessive nouns, and certain contractions end with the sound of s. These words may sound alike, but their spellings and meanings are different.
A contraction is a word made by combining two words and leaving out one or more letters. An apostrophe shows where the letters have been omitted.

Plural nouns don’t have an apostrophe. Contractions and singular possessive nouns look exactly alike. Some plural possessive nouns end with ’s, and some end with just an apostrophe. You can tell these words apart by the way they’re used in a sentence.

PRACTICE

Identifying Plurals, Possessives, and Contractions

Identify the italicized word in each sentence by writing plural noun, singular possessive noun, plural possessive noun, or contraction.

1. The doctors’ convention will last four days.
2. Tyler’s animals depend on him.
3. There are many squirrels in the park.
4. He was riding in Katrina’s car.
5. Miguel’s doing his homework.
6. Wendy’s never been to London.
7. The angle of Earth’s tilt is about twenty-three degrees.
8. The Davises’ new home is in Boulder.
9. You should get your parents’ permission first.
10. Jolene and her brothers attended the soccer game.

2.5 APPOSITIVES

An appositive is a noun that is placed next to another noun to identify it or add information about it.

EXAMPLE

James Madison’s wife, Dolley, was a famous first lady.

The noun Dolley identifies the noun next to it, wife. In this sentence, Dolley is an appositive.

An appositive phrase is a group of words that includes an appositive and other words that modify the appositive.

EXAMPLE

Madison, our fourth president, held many other offices.

The words our and fourth modify the appositive president. The phrase our fourth president is an appositive phrase. It identifies the noun Madison.

An appositive or an appositive phrase can appear anywhere in a sentence as long as it appears next to the noun it identifies.
Our fourth president, Madison held many other offices.

Many historians have studied the life of Madison, our fourth president.

Appositives and appositive phrases are usually set off with commas. If the appositive is essential to the meaning of the sentence, however, commas are not used.

Madison’s friend Thomas Jefferson was president before Madison.

Madison’s father, James Madison, was a plantation owner.

Obviously, Madison had more than one friend, so the appositive, Thomas Jefferson, is needed to identify this particular friend. No commas are needed. However, Madison had only one father. The father’s name is not needed to identify him. Therefore, commas are needed.

PRACTICE Identifying Appositives

Write each sentence. Underline the appositive or appositive phrase and add appropriate commas. Circle the noun the appositive identifies.

1. Mt. Everest the world’s highest peak is 29,028 feet high.
2. In addition to writing music, the composer Johann Sebastian Bach worked as a musician and conductor.
3. The waiter a friend of mine is also a college student.
4. In rugby a rough sport many players are injured.
5. A serious student Rebecca will graduate early from college.
6. Gone with the Wind now a movie classic will be on television tonight.
7. I was five when I went to my first sporting event a baseball game.
8. My father’s friend Carlos is a well-known chef.
9. Her hero is Michelle Kwan a skating superstar.
10. My car a blue Toyota is at the repair shop.
Rewrite the following passage, correcting errors in spelling, capitalization, grammar, and usage. Add any missing punctuation. Write legibly to be sure one letter is not mistaken for another. There are ten mistakes.

Leonardo da Vinci

1. The life and work of Leonardo da Vinci the great Italian Renaissance painter have interested people for over five hundred years. 2. Leonardo was born in 1452 near Florence, Italy. 3. Leonardo's artistic talents were revealed early. 4. He worked with a leading Renaissance painter. 5. In 1482, Leonardo left Florence for the City of Milan. 6. He worked there for nearly eighteen year's. 7. It was then that he painted The Last Supper one of his best-known paintings. 8. Leonardo returned to Florence in 1499. 9. There he painted Mona Lisa perhaps his most famous painting. 10. Leonardo was also an engineer and a scientist. 11. Long before there was airplanes and helicopters, he drew designs for them. 12. He studied the bodies of humans and animals. 13. He kept notes and drawings of his work. 14. Leonardo was one of the Renaissance's great genius.

POSTTEST  Kinds of Nouns

Write each noun. Label the common nouns C and the proper nouns P.

1. Canadian geese migrate every winter to find open ground near wetlands.
2. A powerful earthquake shook northern California on the first day of the 1989 World Series.
3. Marial plays soccer in the summer, baseball in the fall, and hockey in the winter.
4. There were four blue eggs in the nest that Stacey found in the tree.

30. Everyone likes my new puppy, a golden retriever.
31. Greg, the best athlete in our school, scored the most points.
32. Tokyo, the capital of Japan, is a heavily populated city.
33. The school principal, Mrs. Flaherty, made the announcement.
34. A Native American of the Pueblo San Ildefonso, Maria Martinez became well-known for her beautiful pottery.
35. This is Marcela, the newest member of our basketball team.
PRETEST  Action Verbs and Linking Verbs

Write each verb. Label the action verbs A and the linking verbs L.

1. Cats come in many different sizes.
2. All of them are good hunters.
3. They pounce on their prey.
4. Cats see well in dim light.
5. The whiskers of all cats seem very sensitive.
7. Some large cats roar.
8. The cheetah, a large cat, is the fastest land animal.
9. It runs seventy miles an hour.
10. The cheetah’s flexible spine acts as a spring.
PRETEST Direct Objects, Indirect Objects, Predicate Nouns, and Predicate Adjectives

Identify the italicized word in each sentence by writing direct object, indirect object, predicate noun, or predicate adjective.

11. Noise during a movie is a nuisance.
12. The children made a mural of dinosaurs.
13. That movie is fabulous!
14. The teacher gave the class a writing assignment.
15. The bank sent the customer a detailed statement.
16. The witness was honest.

18. We heard the weather report on the radio.
19. Some parents asked questions at the meeting.
20. We bought a ticket to New Orleans.

PRETEST Present and Past Tenses and Progressive Forms

Write the verb. Then write present tense, past tense, present progressive, or past progressive to identify it.

21. I was staying after school for help with my math homework.
22. In my freshman year, I joined the school’s marching band.
23. Jared and his friends were playing basketball.
24. This jug holds two gallons, or eight quarts, of water.
25. The Secretary of State was preparing a report about the progress of the talks.
26. Those dogs bark all day.
27. We are writing a skit for our class play.
28. Samantha is learning how to ski.
29. I am cooking breakfast for my parents.
30. Someone borrowed my camera.
PRETEST  Perfect and Future Tenses

Write the verb. Then write present perfect, past perfect, future, or future perfect to identify its tense.

31. We had listened to all the songs several times.
32. We will bring pasta salad to the picnic.
33. Hillary’s brother has written a magazine article.
34. Who will work at the fair?
35. Her parents have paid for the movie tickets.
36. I will have fixed the printer by tonight.
37. The book had disappeared from the shelf.
38. We have read that news magazine in class.
39. The children will have finished the game by that time.
40. The team had practiced all summer.

PRETEST  Irregular Verbs

Write the correct verb form from the choices in parentheses.

41. During their swimming lesson, the children (swam, swum) the length of the pool.
42. The students have (knew, known) about the competition for weeks.
43. He (lose, lost) them yesterday.
44. Have you (pay, paid) for the food?
45. I have (driven, drove) the 500 miles to Omaha several times this year.
46. Karen Mayfield (ran, run) for state senator.
47. The base runner (stole, stolen) second base.
48. She has (took, taken) the book back to the library.
49. I (did, done) most of my homework during study hall.
50. Ms. Franklin had (teach, taught) social studies at Avery School.
3.1 ACTION VERBS

You may have heard the movie director’s call for “lights, camera, action!” The actions in movies and plays can be expressed by verbs. If a word expresses action and tells what a subject does, it’s an action verb.

An action verb is a word that expresses action. An action verb may be made up of more than one word.

Notice the action verbs in the following sentences.

EXAMPLE The director shouts at the members of the cast.

EXAMPLE The lights are flashing above the stage.

EXAMPLE The audience arrived in time for the performance.

EXAMPLE Several singers have memorized the lyrics of a song.

Action verbs can express physical actions, such as shout and arrive. They can also express mental activities, such as memorize and forget.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>ACTION VERBS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>PHYSICAL</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MENTAL</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Have, has, and had are often used before other verbs. They can also be used as action verbs when they tell that the subject owns or holds something.

EXAMPLE The actors already have their costumes.

EXAMPLE The director has a script in her back pocket.

EXAMPLE Rosa had a theater program from 1920.
PRACTICE Identifying Action Verbs

Write the action verbs.

1. Heather and Lisa heard a crashing sound.
2. They ran to the kitchen window.
3. The girls turned on the outdoor lights.
4. They looked out into the night.
5. They listened for more noise.
6. Then Heather remembered a similar noise.
7. She grabbed a flashlight.
8. The girls walked into the backyard.
9. They saw Heather’s cat, Angus.
10. It had knocked over a flowerpot.

3.2 TRANSITIVE AND INTRANSITIVE VERBS

In some sentences, the predicate consists of only an action verb.

EXAMPLE  The actor rehearsed.

Most sentences provide more information. The predicate often names who or what receives the action of the verb.

EXAMPLE  The actor rehearsed his lines from the play.

The word lines tells what the actor rehearsed. Lines is a direct object.

A direct object receives the action of a verb. It answers the question whom? or what? after an action verb.

A sentence may have a compound direct object. That is, a sentence may have more than one direct object.

EXAMPLE  We saw Maurice and Inez in the audience.
When an action verb transfers action to a direct object, the verb is transitive. When an action verb has no direct object, the verb is intransitive.

A transitive verb has a direct object.
An intransitive verb does not have a direct object.

Most action verbs can be transitive or intransitive. A verb can be labeled transitive or intransitive only by examining its use in a particular sentence.

EXAMPLE  The audience applauds the actors. [transitive]
EXAMPLE  The audience applauds loudly. [intransitive]

PRACTICE Recognizing Transitive and Intransitive Verbs

For each sentence, write the action verb. Then write T if the verb is transitive or I if the verb is intransitive. If the verb is transitive, write the direct object or objects.

1. Flowers produce seeds.
2. The seeds grow into new plants.
3. Flowers vary in size, shape, and color.
4. The color of petals attracts insects.
5. Insects carry pollen.
6. The pollen sticks to parts of their bodies.
7. Birds transfer pollen as well.
8. Palms grow small flowers.
9. I saw the dates and coconuts on the palm trees.
10. Most trees blossom in spring or summer.
3.3 INDIRECT OBJECTS

A direct object answers the question whom? or what? after an action verb.

EXAMPLE  Friends sent flowers.

In some sentences, an indirect object also follows an action verb.

An indirect object answers the question to whom? or for whom? or to what? or for what? an action is done.

EXAMPLE  Friends sent the actors flowers.

The direct object in the sentence is flowers. The indirect object is actors. Actors answers the question to whom? after the action verb sent.

A sentence may have a compound indirect object. In the sentence below, cast and orchestra are indirect objects. The direct object is thanks.

EXAMPLE  Ms. Ortiz gave the cast and the orchestra her thanks.

An indirect object appears only in a sentence that has a direct object. Two clues can help you recognize an indirect object. First, an indirect object always comes between the verb and the direct object. Second, you can put the word to or for before an indirect object and change its position. The sentence will still have the same meaning, but it will no longer have an indirect object.

EXAMPLE  Friends sent the director flowers. [Director is an indirect object.]

EXAMPLE  Friends sent flowers to the director. [Director is not an indirect object.]

You know that in the first sentence director is the indirect object because it comes between the verb and the direct object and because it can be placed after the word to, as in the second sentence.
PRACTICE  Identifying Direct and Indirect Objects

Write the indirect objects and underline them. Then write the direct objects.

1. Janna baked the class muffins.
2. The teacher read the students an original poem.
3. The magazine offers its readers a discount.
4. I gave the dog a can of food.
5. Patrick made his friends lunch.
6. Ms. Juarez brought the family a beautiful gift.
7. Mai has written her father a note.
8. Sarah sold her sister the old bike.
9. Jacob gave his cousin the media player.
10. Terence bought the children stickers.

3.4 LINKING VERBS AND PREDICATE WORDS

A linking verb connects the subject of a sentence with a noun or an adjective in the predicate.

EXAMPLE  Juana Ortiz was the director.
EXAMPLE  Ms. Ortiz is imaginative.

In the first sentence, the verb was links the noun director to the subject. Director identifies the subject. In the second sentence, the verb is links the adjective imaginative to the subject. Imaginative describes the subject.

A predicate noun is a noun that follows a linking verb. It renames or identifies the subject.

A predicate adjective is an adjective that follows a linking verb. It describes, or modifies, the subject.
A sentence may contain a compound predicate noun or a compound predicate adjective.

EXAMPLE  Ms. Ortiz is a teacher and a musician. [compound predicate noun]

EXAMPLE  Ms. Ortiz is stern but fair. [compound predicate adjective]

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>COMMON LINKING VERBS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>be (am, is, are, was, were)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>become</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>look</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Most of these verbs can also be used as action verbs.

EXAMPLE  The director sounded angry. [linking verb]

EXAMPLE  The director sounded the alarm. [action verb]

NOTE  Two other linking verbs are remain and stay.

PRACTICE  Identifying Verbs, Predicate Nouns, and Predicate Adjectives

For each sentence, write the verb. Label the verb A if it’s an action verb or L if it’s a linking verb. If it’s a linking verb, write the predicate noun or the predicate adjective. Label a predicate noun PN. Label a predicate adjective PA.

1. Some sharks are dangerous.
2. Most sharks have slits on the sides of their heads.
3. The skeleton of a shark is cartilage.
4. Cartilage feels softer than bone.
5. Hard, tiny scales cover sharkskin.
6. Long ago, people used dried sharkskin for sandpaper.
7. Shark teeth look pointy and sharp.
8. They cut and rip meat.
10. Many sharks are fierce hunters.

3.5 PRESENT AND PAST TENSES

The verb in a sentence expresses action. It also tells when the action takes place. The form of a verb that shows the time of the action is called the tense of the verb.

The present tense of a verb expresses action that happens regularly. It can also express a general truth.

EXAMPLE  A great actor wins awards.

In the present tense, the base form of a verb is used with all plural subjects and the pronouns I and you. For singular subjects other than I and you, -s or -es is usually added to the base form of the verb. Remember that a verb must agree in number with its subject.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PRESENT TENSE FORMS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SINGULAR</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I walk.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>You walk.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>He, she, or it walks.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The past tense of a verb expresses action that already happened.

The past tense of many verbs is formed by adding -d or -ed to the base form of the verb.

EXAMPLE  The actors rehearsed. Ms. Ortiz directed.
Identifying Present and Past Tenses

For each sentence, write the verb. Then write present or past to identify its tense.

1. I enjoy mysteries.
2. Johanna and Jack walked to the store.
3. Many people recycle paper and cans.
4. Janice shopped at a used clothing store.
5. The store opens every day at 8:00 A.M.
6. I appreciate the cards and letters.
7. The teachers arrive at school before the students.
8. I mailed the letters yesterday.
9. Susan or Tara baby-sits the children.
10. In 1940 Americans elected Franklin D. Roosevelt to a third term as president.

3.6 MAIN VERBS AND HELPING VERBS

Verbs have four principal parts that are used to form all tenses. Notice how the principal parts of a verb are formed.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>BASE FORM</th>
<th>PRESENT PARTICIPLE</th>
<th>PAST</th>
<th>PAST PARTICIPLE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>act</td>
<td>acting</td>
<td>acted</td>
<td>acted</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

You can use the base form and the past alone to form the present and past tenses. The present participle and the past participle can be combined with helping verbs to form other tenses.

A helping verb helps the main verb express action or make a statement.
A verb phrase consists of one or more helping verbs followed by a main verb.

EXAMPLE  Telma is acting in another play today.

The word is is the helping verb, and the present participle acting is the main verb. Together they form a verb phrase.

The most common helping verbs are be, have, and do. Forms of the helping verb be are am, is, and are in the present and was and were in the past. These helping verbs often combine with the present participle of the main verb.

BE AND THE PRESENT PARTICIPLE

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SINGULAR</th>
<th>PLURAL</th>
<th>SINGULAR</th>
<th>PLURAL</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I am learning.</td>
<td>We are learning.</td>
<td>I was learning.</td>
<td>We were learning.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>You are learning.</td>
<td>You are learning.</td>
<td>You were learning.</td>
<td>You were learning.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>She is learning.</td>
<td>They are learning.</td>
<td>He was learning.</td>
<td>They were learning.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The helping verb have combines with the past participle of the main verb. Forms of the helping verb have are have and has in the present and had in the past.

HAVE AND THE PAST PARTICIPLE

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SINGULAR</th>
<th>PLURAL</th>
<th>SINGULAR</th>
<th>PLURAL</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I have learned.</td>
<td>We have learned.</td>
<td>I had learned.</td>
<td>We had learned.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>You have learned.</td>
<td>You have learned.</td>
<td>You had learned.</td>
<td>You had learned.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>She has learned.</td>
<td>They have learned.</td>
<td>He had learned.</td>
<td>They had learned.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Forms of the helping verb do are do and does in the present, and did in the past. The helping verb do combines with the base form of a verb: I do believe you. She does believe you. They did believe you.

Note Other helping verbs are can, could, may, might, must, should, and would.

---

Practice: Identifying Main Verbs and Helping Verbs

Write each verb phrase. Underline the helping verb. Write base form, present participle, or past participle to identify the main verb.

1. We are learning about birds.
2. Birds live all over the world.
3. They maintain a steady body temperature.
4. Have you read the book about birds?
5. We have watched birds in parks and gardens.
6. We were using binoculars.
7. Some birds like different parts of the forest.
8. We do view many different birds at the nature reserve.
9. An eagle was flying above high mountains.
10. Did you see it?

---

3.7 Progressive Forms

You know that the present tense of a verb can express action that occurs repeatedly. To express action that is taking place at the present time, use the present progressive form of the verb.
The present progressive form of a verb expresses action or a condition that is continuing in the present.

EXAMPLE  Althea is finishing her song.

The present progressive form of a verb consists of the helping verb am, are, or is and the present participle of the main verb.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PRESENT PROGRESSIVE FORMS</th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SINGULAR</td>
<td>PLURAL</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I am watching.</td>
<td>We are watching.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>You are watching.</td>
<td>You are watching.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>He, she, or it is watching.</td>
<td>They are watching.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The past progressive form of a verb expresses action or a condition that was continuing at some time in the past.

EXAMPLE  We were watching a scary show.

The past progressive form of a verb consists of the helping verb was or were and the present participle of the main verb.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PAST PROGRESSIVE FORMS</th>

PRACTICE  Using Progressive Forms

Rewrite the sentence using the progressive form of the verb. If the verb is in the present tense, change it to the present progressive form. If the verb is in the past tense, change it to the past progressive form.

1. This week Alison’s class visits the botanic gardens.
2. The children watched the play.
3. Ponce de León looked for the Fountain of Youth.
4. Mika leaves for school at 8:15 A.M.
5. Steven practiced the trumpet this afternoon.
6. Cora and Raymond sing in the youth choir.
7. John and Ben attend most of the football games.
9. I ride my horse every Saturday.
10. Sarah visited me in the hospital.

---

3.8 PRESENT PERFECT AND PAST PERFECT TENSES

The present perfect tense of a verb expresses action that happened at an indefinite time in the past.

EXAMPLE  The actor has rehearsed for many hours.

EXAMPLE  Lori and Pam have watched Grease five times.

The present perfect tense consists of the helping verb have or has and the past participle of the main verb.

PRESENT PERFECT TENSE

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SINGULAR</th>
<th>PLURAL</th>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I have watched.</td>
<td>We have watched.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>You have watched.</td>
<td>You have watched.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>He, she, or it has watched.</td>
<td>They have watched.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
The past perfect tense of a verb expresses action that happened before another action or event in the past.

The past perfect tense is often used in sentences that contain a past-tense verb in another part of the sentence.

EXAMPLE  The actors had rehearsed for many weeks.

EXAMPLE  We had just arrived when the play started.

The past perfect tense of a verb consists of the helping verb had and the past participle of the main verb.

<table>

<tr>
<td>SINGULAR</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I had started.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>You had started.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>He, she, or it had started.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

PRACTICE  Identifying Perfect Tenses

Write the verb. Then write present perfect or past perfect to identify the tense.

1. I have driven to Albuquerque in three hours.
2. I had watched several track meets last year.
3. Gabriel has saved enough money for guitar lessons.
4. Tom Cruise has starred in two Mission Impossible movies.
5. You have packed too many clothes.
6. I had washed my car before the rainstorm.
7. The wait staff had cleaned all the tables before the evening dinner rush.
8. I had worried about the test all weekend.
9. Gina and Michael have collected all of the tickets.
10. Al has counted the money twice.

3.9 EXPRESSING FUTURE TIME

The future tense of a verb expresses action that will take place in the future.

EXAMPLE  We shall attend the performance.

EXAMPLE  The actors will show their talents.

The future tense of a verb is formed by using the helping verb will before the base form of a verb. The helping verb shall is sometimes used when the subject is I or we.

There are other ways to show that an action will happen in the future. Tomorrow, next year, and later are all words that indicate a future time. These words are called time words, and they may be used with the present tense to express future time.

EXAMPLE  Our show opens next week.

EXAMPLE  Tomorrow we start rehearsals.

The present progressive form can also be used with time words to express future actions.

EXAMPLE  Our show is opening next week.

EXAMPLE  Tomorrow we are starting rehearsals.

Another way to talk about the future is with the future perfect tense.

The future perfect tense of a verb expresses action that will be completed before another future event begins.

EXAMPLE  By Thursday I shall have performed six times.

EXAMPLE  The production will have closed by next week.

The future perfect tense is formed by using will have or shall have before the past participle of a verb.
PRACTICE  Identifying Verb Tenses

Write the verb. Then write present, future, present progressive, or future perfect to identify the verb tense.

1. We shall come to the airport an hour early.
2. By the end of the week, our class will have finished reading the book.
3. Hanna and Jo will dance first in the show.
4. I shall have completed my assignment by the end of the day.
5. I go to the library on Tuesday for an interview with the director of the library.
6. Tonight Norm is preparing a special dinner as a surprise for his parents.
7. Students in our class will plan the dance.
8. By summer the gardeners will have planted the new garden.
9. Marissa begins the course this afternoon.
10. The last flight for Houston is leaving at 9:00 P.M.

3.10 ACTIVE AND PASSIVE VOICE

A verb is in the active voice when the subject performs the action of the verb.

EXAMPLE  Thornton Wilder composed that play.

A verb is in the passive voice when the subject receives the action of the verb.

EXAMPLE  That play was composed by Thornton Wilder.

In the first example, the author, Thorton Wilder, seems more important because Thornton Wilder is the subject of the sentence. In the second example, the play seems more important because play is the subject of the sentence.
Notice that verbs in the passive voice consist of a form of be and the past participle. Often a phrase beginning with by follows the verb in the passive voice.

EXAMPLE
I am puzzled by your question. [passive voice]

EXAMPLE
Your question puzzles me. [active voice]

EXAMPLE
The puppy is frightened by loud noises. [passive voice]

EXAMPLE
Loud noises frighten the puppy. [active voice]

EXAMPLE
Plays are performed by actors. [passive voice]

EXAMPLE
Actors perform plays. [active voice]

EXAMPLE
This painting was purchased by Ms. Jones. [passive voice]

EXAMPLE
Ms. Jones purchased this painting. [active voice]

The active voice is usually a stronger, more direct way to express ideas. Use the passive voice if you want to stress the receiver of the action or if you don’t know who performed the action.

EXAMPLE
Our Town was performed. [You may want to stress the play.]

EXAMPLE
The actors were fired. [You may not know who fired the actors.]

---

PRACTICE  Using Active and Passive Voice

Rewrite each sentence, changing the verb from active to passive or from passive to active.

1. Benjamin Franklin published an almanac.
2. Athens, Greece, hosted the first modern Olympics.
3. Beethoven composed the music for “Ode to Joy.”
4. The school newspaper is edited by students.
5. The president signed the agreement in the Oval Office.
6. Cosmas Ndeti completed the Boston Marathon in 2 hours, 7 minutes, and 15 seconds in 1994.
7. The prism separated the light into rainbow colors.
8. Amanda and her sister share a room.
9. The “Model T” was introduced by Ford in 1908.
10. Maria showed pictures of Mexico.

48. Knights (wore, worn) armor as a means of protection.
49. James (ate, eaten) lunch at 11:30 A.M. today.
50. Dad has (wrote, written) the grocery list.
PRETEST  Personal Pronouns

Write each personal pronoun. Then write one of the following phrases to identify the pronoun: subject pronoun as subject, subject pronoun as predicate pronoun, object pronoun as direct object, object pronoun as indirect object.

1. I saw you at the concert.
2. He gave her tickets for Saturday night’s first show at the theater.
3. She offered him a seat, but he refused it.
4. Today’s song leader is he.
5. The author of my favorite book series is she, and I have read all of the books.

48. Do (this, these) match the hat?
49. Brad built the clock (himself, hisself).
50. We found (us, ourselves) thinking about the idea.
4.1 PERSONAL PRONOUNS

A pronoun is a word that takes the place of one or more nouns.

EXAMPLE  Max likes books. He particularly enjoys novels.

EXAMPLE  Max and Irma like books. They particularly enjoy novels.

In the first example, the pronoun He replaces the noun Max as the subject of the sentence. In the second example, They replaces Max and Irma.

Pronouns that refer to people or things are called personal pronouns.

Some personal pronouns are used as the subjects of sentences. Others are used as the objects of verbs.

A subject pronoun is used as the subject of a sentence. It may also be used like a predicate noun, in which case it’s called a predicate pronoun.

EXAMPLE  I enjoy a good book in my spare time.  [subject]

EXAMPLE  We belong to a book club.  [subject]

EXAMPLE  She gave a good book report.  [subject]

EXAMPLE  It was about Andrew Jackson.  [subject]

EXAMPLE  They especially like adventure stories.  [subject]

EXAMPLE  The most popular author was he.  [predicate pronoun]

An object pronoun may be a direct object or an indirect object.

EXAMPLE  The teacher praised us.  [direct object]

EXAMPLE  Tell me a story.  [indirect object]

EXAMPLE  The movie frightened them.  [direct object]

EXAMPLE  The class wrote her a letter.  [indirect object]

EXAMPLE  The story amuses you.  [direct object]

EXAMPLE  The plot gives him an idea.  [indirect object]

PRACTICE Identifying Personal Pronouns

Write each personal pronoun. Then write one of the following phrases to identify the pronoun: subject pronoun as subject, subject pronoun as predicate pronoun, object pronoun as direct object, object pronoun as indirect object.

1. The waiter gave her the menu.
2. I brought him the book.
3. We sent them a letter.
4. The girl on the bus was you!
5. They enjoy taking care of animals.
6. The neighbors hire me to mow lawns.
7. He and she make a good working team.
8. She gave him the money.
9. You are inviting me to the party.
10. The driver of the car was he.

4.2 USING PRONOUNS

Use subject pronouns in compound subjects. Use object pronouns in compound objects.

EXAMPLE
He and Carmen wrote the report. [not Him and Carmen]

EXAMPLE
Tell John and me about the report. [not John and I]
If you’re not sure which form of the pronoun to use, read the sentence with only the pronoun as the subject or the object. Your ear will tell you which form is correct.

When the pronoun I, we, me, or us is part of a compound subject or object, I, we, me, or us should come last. (It’s simply courteous to name yourself or the group of which you are a part last.)

EXAMPLE  Lee and I played some new tunes. [not I and Lee]

EXAMPLE  Country music interests Lee and me. [not me and Lee]

In formal writing and speech, use a subject pronoun after a linking verb.

EXAMPLE  The writer of this report was she.

EXAMPLE  It is I.

A pronoun and a noun may be used together. The form of the pronoun depends on its use in the sentence.

EXAMPLE  We students read the book. [We is the subject.]

EXAMPLE  The book delighted us readers. [Us is a direct object.]

Some sentences make incomplete comparisons. The form of the pronoun can affect the meaning of such sentences. In any incomplete comparison, use the form of the pronoun that would be correct if the comparison were complete.

EXAMPLE  You like pizza better than I [like pizza].

EXAMPLE  You like pizza better than [you like] me.

PRACTICE Using Subject and Object Pronouns

Write the correct word or phrase from the choices in parentheses.

1. The seventh-graders and (we, us) will provide the information.
2. The teacher gave (we, us) students free passes for the film.
3. Dad prepared Jeremy and (they, them) a spaghetti dinner.
4. The manager told (Chris and I, I and Chris, Chris and me, me and Chris) to stock the shelves.
5. Johanna offers (him and me, me and him, he and I, I and him) a ride every morning.
6. Three of them and (us, we) qualified for the finals in gymnastics.
7. Ms. Sciarrone brought (he and I, I and he, me and him, him and me) a list of supplies.
8. The last two contestants in the spelling bee were Mai and (I, me).
9. (Dan and I, I and Dan, Me and Dan, Dan and me) walked to the store.
10. The program amazed (we, us) viewers.

4.3 PRONOUNS AND ANTECEDENTS

Read the following sentences. Can you tell to whom the pronoun She refers?

EXAMPLE  Louisa May Alcott wrote a novel about a young woman.

She had three sisters.

The sentence is not clear because the word She could refer to either Louisa May Alcott or a young woman. Sometimes you must repeat a noun or rewrite a sentence to avoid confusion.

EXAMPLE  Louisa May Alcott wrote a novel about a young woman.

The young woman had three sisters.

The word a pronoun refers to is called its antecedent. The word antecedent means “going before.”

EXAMPLE  Jo March is the main character in Little Women. She writes stories. [Jo March is the antecedent of the pronoun She.]

EXAMPLE  Meg, Beth, and Amy are Jo’s sisters. Jo writes them stories. [Meg, Beth, and Amy are the antecedents of them.]
When you use a pronoun, be sure it refers to its antecedent clearly. Be especially careful when you use the pronoun they. Read the following sentence.

EXAMPLE  They have five books by Alcott at the school library.

The meaning of They is unclear. The sentence can be improved by rewriting it in the following way.

EXAMPLE  The school library has five books by Alcott.

When you use pronouns, be sure they agree with their antecedents in number (singular or plural) and gender. The gender of a noun may be masculine (male), feminine (female), or neuter (referring to things).

EXAMPLE  The Marches must face a death in the family. They face it with courage.

Th ey is plural; it agrees with the plural antecedent Marches. It is singular and agrees with the singular antecedent death.
PRACTICE Identifying Pronouns and Antecedents

Write each personal pronoun and its antecedent. If a pronoun doesn’t have a clear antecedent, rewrite the numbered item to make the meaning clear.

1. Deborah is reading about Charles Dickens. He is a famous British author.
2. Deborah’s friends are also reading about Dickens. They are going to write a report.
3. Charles Dickens was the son of John Dickens, a clerk. He was born on February 7, 1812.
4. Charles’s father was in debt. He was put in prison because he could not pay the debt.
5. Charles had to go to work. He worked in a shoe polish factory.
6. Dickens became a reporter. He wrote about social problems and debates in Parliament.
7. Sometimes they passed laws to stop the scandals that Dickens wrote about.
8. Some schools were closed after Dickens wrote the book Nicholas Nickelby. They had been unfair to children.
9. Thomas read Oliver Twist, a novel by Dickens about a poor boy. He enjoyed the story.
10. When Dickens died in 1870, he had not finished the novel The Mystery of Edwin Drood.
4.4 POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS  CCSS L.6.1a, c

You often use personal pronouns to replace nouns that are subjects or objects in sentences. You can use pronouns in place of possessive nouns, too.

A possessive pronoun is a pronoun that shows who or what has something. A possessive pronoun may take the place of a possessive noun.

Read the following sentences. Notice the possessive nouns and the possessive pronouns that replace them.

EXAMPLE  Lisa’s class put on a play. Her class put on a play.

EXAMPLE  The idea was Lisa’s. The idea was hers.

Possessive pronouns have two forms. One form is used before a noun. The other form is used alone.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SINGULAR</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>my</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>your</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>her, his, its</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PLURAL</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>mine</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>yours</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hers, his, its</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Possessive pronouns are not written with apostrophes. Don’t confuse the possessive pronoun its with the word it’s. It’s is a contraction, or shortened form, of it is or it has.

EXAMPLE  Its popularity is growing. [possessive pronoun]

EXAMPLE  It’s popular with many students. [contraction of It is]

EXAMPLE  It’s succeeded on the stage. [contraction of It has] Identifying Possessive Pronouns

Write the possessive pronouns.

1. Shall we meet at your house or mine?
2. Our classroom is larger than yours.
3. Their report is longer than ours.
4. Was it his idea?
5. The table has lost its shine.
6. Their team has won more games than ours.
7. My dog is staying at their kennel.
8. Is the watch yours or his?
9. Where are your hockey sticks?
10. It was an honor to attend their graduation.

4.5 INDEFINITE PRONOUNS CCSS L.6.1c, d

An indefinite pronoun is a pronoun that does not refer to a particular person, place, or thing.

EXAMPLE Everybody thinks about the plot.

Some indefinite pronouns are always singular. Others are always plural. A few may be either singular or plural.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>ALWAYS SINGULAR</th>
<th>ALWAYS PLURAL</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>another</td>
<td>everybody</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>anybody</td>
<td>everyone</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>anyone</td>
<td>everything</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>anything</td>
<td>much</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>each</td>
<td>neither</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>either</td>
<td>nobody</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>no one</td>
<td>both</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>nothing</td>
<td>few</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>one</td>
<td>many</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>somebody</td>
<td>others</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>several</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
The indefinite pronouns all, any, most, none, and some may be singular or plural, depending on the phrase that follows them.

When an indefinite pronoun is used as the subject of a sentence, the verb must agree with it in number.

EXAMPLE  Everyone reads part of the novel. [singular]

EXAMPLE  Several enjoy it very much. [plural]

EXAMPLE  Most of the story happens in England. [singular]

EXAMPLE  Most of the characters seem real. [plural]

Possessive pronouns often have indefinite pronouns as their antecedents. In such cases, the pronouns must agree in number. Note that in the first example below the words that come between the subject and the verb don’t affect the agreement.

EXAMPLE  Each of the actors memorizes his or her lines.

EXAMPLE  Many are enjoying their roles in the play.

---

PRACTICE  Using Indefinite Pronouns

Write the indefinite pronouns and the correct words from the choices in parentheses.

1. All of us (is, are) enjoying the trip to Chicago.
2. Several (have, has) visited the art museum.
3. Some (have, has) read about the city’s neighborhoods.
4. One of the tour guides (explain, explains) about why the Old Water Tower is famous.
5. Many (is, are) interested in the story about the Great Chicago Fire of 1871.
6. Each of us (carry, carries) a street map of the city.
7. Everyone (want, wants) to visit Lincoln Park.
8. No one (have, has) to say good-bye to the city.
9. Everybody plans to spend all of (his or her, their) time touring.
10. Several missed (his or her, their) bus stop.
4.6 REFLEXIVE AND INTENSIVE PRONOUNS
CCSS L.6.1b, c

A reflexive pronoun ends with -self or -selves and refers to the subject of a sentence. In a sentence with a reflexive pronoun, the action of the verb returns to the subject.

EXAMPLE  Yolanda bought herself a book on engine repair.

Reflexive Pronoun

Don’t use a reflexive pronoun in place of a personal pronoun.

EXAMPLE Yolanda asked Pat and me for help. [not Pat and myself]
EXAMPLE Yolanda and I read the book. [not Yolanda and myself]

An intensive pronoun ends with -self or -selves and is used to draw special attention to a noun or a pronoun already named.

EXAMPLE Yolanda herself repaired the engine.

Intensive Pronoun

EXAMPLE Yolanda repaired the engine herself.

Intensive Pronoun

Reflexive and intensive pronouns are formed by adding -self or -selves to certain personal and possessive pronouns.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>REFLEXIVE AND INTENSIVE PRONOUNS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SINGULAR</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>myself</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>yourself</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>himself, herself, itself</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Don’t use hisself or theirelves in place of himself and themselves.

134  Grammar, Usage, and Mechanics
PRACTICE  Using Reflexive and Intensive Pronouns

Write the correct word from the choices in parentheses. Then write personal, reflexive, or intensive to identify the word you chose.

1. I gave (me, myself) a present for my birthday.
2. The teacher made the tape (himself, hisself).
3. We found (ourselves, us) on the wrong trail.
4. The children (themselves, they) cleaned and decorated the classroom.
5. Mom told Maureen and (me, myself) the message.
6. My friends and (myself, I) planned the party.
7. Bill and Sheila wrote the program (themselves, they).
8. The coach asked Jared and (herself, her) to lead the practice.
9. The children congratulated (themselves, yourselves) after the program.
10. Responsibility offers (ourselves, us) opportunities for trust.

4.7 INTERROGATIVE AND DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS  CCSS L.6.1a, c

An interrogative pronoun is a pronoun used to introduce an interrogative sentence.

The interrogative pronouns who and whom refer to people. Who is used when the interrogative pronoun is the subject of the sentence. Whom is used when the interrogative pronoun is an object.

EXAMPLE  Who borrowed the book? [subject]
EXAMPLE  Whom did the librarian call? [direct object]

Which and what refer to things and ideas.

EXAMPLES  Which is it?  What interests you?
Whose shows possession.

EXAMPLE I found a copy of the play. Whose is it?

Don’t confuse whose with who’s. Who’s is a contraction of who is or who has.

A demonstrative pronoun is a pronoun that points out something.

The demonstrative pronouns are this, that, these, and those. This (singular) and these (plural) refer to things nearby. That (singular) and those (plural) refer to things at a distance.

EXAMPLE This is an interesting book. [singular, nearby]

EXAMPLE These are interesting books. [plural, nearby]

EXAMPLE That was a good movie. [singular, at a distance]

EXAMPLE Those were good movies. [plural, at a distance]

PRACTICE Using Interrogative and Demonstrative Pronouns

Write the correct word from the choices in parentheses.

1. (Whom, Who) was the first speaker to address the student assembly?
2. (Who’s, Whose) coming at 8:00 A.M.?
3. Is (that, those) the last seat on the bus?
4. (Whose, Who’s) jacket is on the floor?
5. (Which, What) of these two computer brands do you like better?
6. (Who, Whom) saw the game last night?
7. (This, These) glasses are dirty.
8. (That, Those) birds have made nests.
9. (Which, What) is in the picnic basket?
10. (Who, Whom) did the teacher ask to carry the flag?
Rewrite the following passage, correcting errors in spelling, capitalization, grammar, and usage. Add any missing punctuation. Write legibly to be sure one letter is not mistaken for another. There are ten mistakes.

Edmond Halley

1. In science class, us students are reading about Edmond Halley.
2. Whom was Halley? He were a famous English astronomer of the late 1600s and early 1700s.
3. Halley received support from his father to study the stars in the Southern Hemisphere. He then helped create a catalog of many of those stars. These was the first catalog giving accurate locations.
4. Halley saw a great comet sweep the sky in 1682. He showed that its orbit was much like the orbits of comets seen in 1531 and 1607.
5. Halley thought to him, “Could this be the same comet?” He believed that it were. He predicted it’s return in 1758. He was correct. Halley’s Comet is named after himself.
POSTTEST Personal Pronouns

Write each personal pronoun. Then write one of the following phrases to identify the pronoun: subject pronoun as subject, subject pronoun as predicate pronoun, object pronoun as direct object, object pronoun as indirect object.

1. You are making too many plans for one day.
2. They met him and me at the game.
3. The signers of the article were they.

13. The guide showed (she and he, she and him, her and he, her and him) the new art exhibit.
14. (They, Them) spent the afternoon looking at the paintings.
15. The last ones to leave were (he and I, I and he, him and me, me and him).
POSTTEST Pronouns and Antecedents

Write each personal pronoun and its antecedent. If a pronoun doesn’t have a clear antecedent, rewrite the numbered item to make the meaning clear.

16. Some animals are endangered. They need protection.
17. Giant pandas are endangered. They live in China.
18. Tory has a book about endangered animals. She read about the giant pandas.
19. Alphonse and Kim Su have to write about people helping endangered animals. They should read the book.
20. People sometimes use the land where animals live. Then they must find new places to live or die.

POSTTEST Identifying Pronouns

Write each pronoun. Then write possessive, indefinite, reflexive, intensive, interrogative, or demonstrative to identify it.

21. The magazine can still be read even though its cover and some of its pages are torn.
22. Who is Alvin Ailey?
23. The dancer himself founded a dance company.
24. His was a life of dedication to dancing and to the company.

39. Of the three friends, Jim had the (least, less) money.
40. Which planet has the (more, most) moons?

5.1 ADJECTIVES

The words we use to describe people, places, and things are called adjectives.

An adjective is a word that describes, or modifies, a noun or a pronoun.
Adjectives modify nouns in three ways.

HOW ADJECTIVES MODIFY NOUNS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>WHAT KIND?</th>
<th>HOW MANY?</th>
<th>WHICH ONE?</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>We studied ancient history.</td>
<td>I read four chapters.</td>
<td>That invention changed history.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Most adjectives come before the nouns they modify. Some adjectives follow linking verbs and modify the noun or pronoun that is the subject of the sentence.

Example
Some architects are skillful and imaginative.

The adjective some comes before the noun architects. The adjectives skillful and imaginative follow the linking verb, are, and modify the subject, architects. They are called predicate adjectives.

A predicate adjective follows a linking verb and modifies the subject of a sentence.

Two verb forms are often used as adjectives and predicate adjectives. They are the present participle and the past participle.

Example
The architect drew a surprising design.
[present participle]

Example
Visitors seem impressed.
[past participle]

Some adjectives are formed from proper nouns and begin with a capital letter. They are called proper adjectives.

Proper adjectives are adjectives formed from proper nouns.
Some proper adjectives have the same form as the noun. Others are formed by adding an ending to the noun form.

FORMING PROPER ADJECTIVES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PROPER NOUN</th>
<th>PROPER ADJECTIVE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>oranges from Florida</td>
<td>Florida oranges</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>the history of America</td>
<td>American history</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

More than one adjective may modify the same noun.

EXAMPLE  These new frozen dinners are tasty and nutritious.

These, new, frozen, tasty, and nutritious all modify dinners.

NOTE  Many words that are usually nouns can also be used as adjectives: stone wall, band uniform, baseball game.

PRACTICE  Identifying Adjectives

Write each adjective. Beside the adjective, write the noun it modifies.

1. Old movies are sometimes funny.
2. The star of this movie is a famous English comedian.
3. In one hilarious scene, he falls into a huge vat of wet cement.
4. That broken red seat is uncomfortable.
5. With amazing luck, we got the winning number!
6. Geese are grazing on the soccer field.
7. “The Laughing Policeman” is a silly song.
8. Here’s a hard question: Why is the sky blue?
9. The long wait made some people look irritated.
10. The canceled flights were for European cities.
5.2 ARTICLES AND DEMONSTRATIVES

The words a, an, and the make up a special group of adjectives called articles.

A and an are called indefinite articles because they refer to one of a general group of people, places, things, or ideas. A is used before words beginning with a consonant sound. An is used before words beginning with a vowel sound. Don’t confuse sounds with spellings. In speaking, you would say a university but an uncle, a hospital but an honor.

EXAMPLES
- a union
- a picture
- an hour
- an easel

The is called the definite article because it identifies specific people, places, things, or ideas.

EXAMPLE  The picture beside the fireplace is the best one.

The words this, that, these, and those are called demonstrative adjectives. They are used to point out something.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>DEMONSTRATIVE ADJECTIVES</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Take this umbrella with you. That store is closed.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Take these boots too. Those clouds are lovely.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Demonstrative adjectives point out something and modify nouns by answering the question which one? or which ones?

Use this and that with singular nouns. Use these and those with plural nouns. Use this and these to point out something close to you. Use that and those to point out something at a distance.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>DEMONSTRATIVES</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SINGULAR</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NEAR</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FAR</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Chapter 5  Adjectives  147
Demonstratives can be used with nouns or without them. When they’re used without nouns, they’re called demonstrative pronouns.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>This is mine.</td>
<td>These are his.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>That is hers.</td>
<td>Those are yours.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The words here and there should not be used with demonstrative adjectives or demonstrative pronouns. The words this, these, that, and those already point out the locations here and there.

EXAMPLE  Look at this photograph. [not this here photograph]

Don’t use the object pronoun them in place of the demonstrative adjective those.

EXAMPLE  I took a photo of those buildings. [not them buildings]

PRACTICE  Using Articles and Demonstratives

Write the correct word from the choices in parentheses.

1. (Those, Those there) people are calling to us.
2. The medal was (a, an) honor she richly deserved.
3. (A, The) Louvre Museum is one of (a, the) world’s largest museums.
4. (This, This here) is (a, an) intelligent young man.
5. Adding (a, an) onion livens up (a, the) salad.
6. Are you enjoying (this, these) summer days?
7. The Wright Brothers flew in (a, an) airplane like (those, them) double-winged models over there.
8. (This, That) ball is over (a, the) fence for (a, an) home run.
9. Dogs are (an, the) animal I love the best.
10. (This, That) bird is too far away to identify.
5.3 COMPARATIVE AND SUPERLATIVE ADJECTIVES

The comparative form of an adjective compares one person or thing with another.

The superlative form of an adjective compares one person or thing with several others.

For most adjectives with one syllable and for some with two syllables, add -er to form the comparative and -est to form the superlative.

EXAMPLE Is Venezuela larger than Peru?

EXAMPLE Is Brazil the richest country in South America?

For most adjectives with two or more syllables, form the comparative by using more before the adjective. Form the superlative by using most before the adjective.

EXAMPLE Is Chile more mountainous than Bolivia?

EXAMPLE Was Simón Bolívar South America’s most successful general?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>COMPARATIVE AND SUPERLATIVE FORMS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>BASE FORM</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>small</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>big</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>pretty</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>fabulous</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The words less and least are used before both short and long adjectives to form the negative comparative and superlative.
NEGATIVE COMPARATIVE AND SUPERLATIVE FORMS

| BASE FORM | The first dancer was graceful. |
| COMPARATIVE | The second dancer was less graceful than the first. |
| SUPERLATIVE | The third dancer was the least graceful one. |

Don’t use more, most, less, or least before adjectives that already end with -er or -est. This is called a double comparison.

PRACTICE Using Comparative and Superlative Adjectives I

Write the correct comparative or superlative form of the adjective in parentheses.

1. Our new car is (fast) than our old one.
2. A Great Dane is (powerful) than a cocker spaniel.
3. That is the (lovely) sunset I have ever seen.
4. He won a prize for raising the (fat) pig.
5. These are the (valuable) stamps in my collection.

9. Every movie she stars in is (unusualer, more unusual) than the last one.
10. I can’t think of a (less enjoyable, least enjoyable) field trip than the one we took last year.

5.4 IRREGULAR COMPARATIVE AND SUPERLATIVE ADJECTIVES

The comparative and superlative forms of some adjectives are not formed in the regular way.

EXAMPLE Harriet Tubman believed in a good cause.
EXAMPLE She knew that freedom was better than slavery.
EXAMPLE The Underground Railroad was the best route to freedom.

Better is the comparative form of the adjective good.
Best is the superlative form of good.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>BASE FORM</th>
<th>COMPARATIVE</th>
<th>SUPERLATIVE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>good, well</td>
<td>better</td>
<td>best</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>bad</td>
<td>worse</td>
<td>worst</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>many, much</td>
<td>more</td>
<td>most</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>little</td>
<td>less</td>
<td>least</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Don’t use more or most before irregular adjectives that are already in the comparative or superlative form.

EXAMPLE Tubman felt better at the end of the day. [not more better]

---

PRACTICE Using Irregular Adjectives

Write the correct word or phrase from the choices in parentheses.

1. Surely Michael can do (better, more well) than that.
2. We had (less, least) snow this year than last year.
3. Kim went on (many, more) rides than anyone else.

9. Who in this class is (better, best) at spelling?
10. During a thunderstorm, one of the (worse, worst) places to be is under an isolated tall tree.

PRACTICE Proofreading

Rewrite the following passage, correcting errors in spelling, capitalization, grammar, and usage. Add any missing punctuation. Write legibly to be sure one letter is not mistaken for another. There are ten mistakes.

Thomas Jefferson

Thomas Jefferson was the third president of the United States. He is most best known today as the author of the Declaration of Independence. He was also a expert in architecture and farming.
Jefferson held many jobs before becoming president. As a young man, he was an lawyer in Virginia. When the American colonies rebelled against the British, he wrote the Declaration of Independence. He later became governor of Virginia, minister to France, and secretary of state.

As President, Jefferson is remembered for the Louisiana Purchase. In 1803, he bought land from France, doubling a country’s size. Jefferson served as president for two terms.

As well as being a politician, Jefferson was one of the famous-est architects in the country. He designed Monticello, his beatiful home in Virginia. Today these thirty-five-room mansion is a major tourist attraction.

Jefferson loved to farm. In retirement at Monticello, he experimented with the latest seeds. His aim was to grow more better vegetables and flowers. He also owned over six thousand books. He was one of this here country’s most brilliant citizens.

POSTTEST Identifying Adjectives

Write each adjective. Beside the adjective, write the noun it modifies.

1. Under an orange moon, the children sang folk songs.
2. Seventeen students are going on the New York trip.
3. The favorite soup in the school cafeteria is creamy tomato soup.
4. The blue suit makes you look mature.

38. When he first left home, Jessie used to hear from him, but now he scarcely never phones her.
39. There isn’t nothing left to paint.
40. In the old days, horse-drawn vehicles were the chief means of transport, but now there are hardly none left.

6.1 ADVERBS THAT MODIFY VERBS

Adjectives are words that modify nouns and pronouns. Adverbs are another type of modifier. They modify verbs, adjectives, and other adverbs.

An adverb is a word that modifies a verb, an adjective, or another adverb.
An adverb may tell how or in what manner an action is done. It may tell when or how often an action is done. It may also tell where or in what direction an action is done.

Ways Adverbs Modify Verbs

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>ADVERBS TELL</th>
<th>EXAMPLES</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>HOW</td>
<td>grandly, easily, completely, neatly, gratefully, sadly</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WHEN</td>
<td>soon, now, immediately, often, never, usually, early</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WHERE</td>
<td>here, there, everywhere, inside, downstairs, above, far</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

When an adverb modifies an adjective or another adverb, the adverb usually comes before the word it modifies. When an adverb modifies a verb, the adverb can occupy different positions in a sentence.

Position of Adverbs Modifying Verbs

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>POSITION OF ADVERBS MODIFYING VERBS</th>
<th>EXAMPLES</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>BEFORE THE VERB</td>
<td>Guests often dine at the White House.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>AFTER THE VERB</td>
<td>Guests dine often at the White House.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>AT THE BEGINNING</td>
<td>often guests dine at the White House.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>AT THE END</td>
<td>Guests dine at the White House often.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Many adverbs are formed by adding -ly to adjectives. However, not all words that end in -ly are adverbs. The words friendly, lively, kindly, lovely, and lonely are usually adjectives. On the other hand, not all adverbs end in -ly.
SOME ADVERBS NOT ENDING IN -LY

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>afterward</th>
<th>everywhere</th>
<th>near</th>
<th>short</th>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>already</td>
<td>fast</td>
<td>never</td>
<td>sometimes</td>

<td>soon</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>away</td>
<td>here</td>
<td>nowhere</td>
<td>straight</td>
</tr>
<tr>

</tr>
<tr>

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

PRACTICE

Identifying Adverbs I

Write each adverb. Beside the adverb, write the verb it modifies.

1. Lying silently on a wide branch, the leopard intently watched its prey.
2. The glacier crept gradually toward the sea.
3. Step outside for a minute and have a look at the fantastic sunset.
4. We have been walking for miles, but I am sorry to say that we are getting nowhere.
5. Everywhere you travel, you will meet people who are curious to learn about life in the United States.
6. Go straight along Main Street.
7. Some people seldom appear unhappy.
8. Shake the orange juice well before serving it.
9. The mountaineer often described the terror he had felt when the volcano erupted.
10. Never had the castaway been as happy as when he saw a tiny sail on the horizon.
6.2 ADVERBS THAT MODIFY ADJECTIVES AND OTHER ADVERBS

Adverbs are often used to modify adjectives and other adverbs. Notice how adverbs affect the meaning of the adjectives in the following sentences. Most often they tell how or to what extent.

EXAMPLE  Harry Truman used extremely direct language.

EXAMPLE  He became a very popular president.

In the first sentence, the adverb extremely modifies the adjective direct. Extremely tells to what extent Truman’s language was direct. In the second sentence, the adverb very modifies the adjective popular. Very tells to what extent Truman was popular.

In the following sentences, adverbs modify other adverbs.

EXAMPLE  Truman entered politics unusually late in life.

EXAMPLE  He moved through the political ranks quite quickly.

In the first sentence, the adverb unusually modifies the adverb late. Unusually tells how late Truman entered politics. In the second sentence, the adverb quite modifies the adverb quickly. Quite tells how quickly Truman moved through the ranks.

When an adverb modifies an adjective or another adverb, the adverb almost always comes directly before the word it modifies. On the following page is a list of some adverbs that are often used to modify adjectives and other adverbs.
ADVERBS OFTEN USED TO MODIFY ADJECTIVES AND OTHER ADVERBS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>almost</th>
<th>just</th>
<th>rather</th>
<th>too</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>barely</td>
<td>nearly</td>
<td>really</td>
<td>totally</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>extremely</td>
<td>partly</td>
<td>so</td>
<td>unusually</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hardly</td>
<td>quite</td>
<td>somewhat</td>
<td>very</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

PRACTICE  Identifying Adverbs II

Write each adverb and the word it modifies. Then write whether the modified word is a verb, an adjective, or an adverb.

1. She sang quite beautifully at the concert.
2. You have to be an awfully good shot to hit the bull’s eye from this distance.
3. The dog looked perfectly happy lying in the sun.
4. Thelma’s voice was just audible to those who could not get into the auditorium.
5. Corey returned from summer camp very reluctantly.
6. Brooke skated so quickly that the rink attendant gave her a warning.
7. Sal and his sister almost never go on vacations.
8. Chips and soda is a totally unhealthful lunch.
9. Today will be partly cloudy and rather cool.
10. He spoke really sternly to the boys.

6.3 COMPARATIVE AND SUPERLATIVE ADVERBS

The comparative form of an adverb compares one action with another.

The superlative form of an adverb compares one action with several others.
Most short adverbs add -er to form the comparative and -est to form the superlative.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>COMPARING ADVERBS WITH -ER AND -EST</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>COMPARATIVE</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SUPPERLATIVE</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Long adverbs and a few short ones require the use of more or most.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>COMPARING ADVERBS WITH MORE AND MOST</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>COMPARATIVE</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SUPPERLATIVE</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Some adverbs have irregular comparative and superlative forms.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>IRREGULAR COMPARATIVE AND SUPERLATIVE FORMS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>BASE FORM</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>well</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>badly</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>little</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>far (distance)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>far (degree)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The words less and least are used before adverbs to form the negative comparative and superlative.

EXAMPLES I play less well. I play least accurately.

Don’t use more, most, less, or least before adverbs that already end in -er or -est.
Write the correct word or phrase from the choices in parentheses.

1. The dog cleans up under the table (more, most) successfully with its tongue than Rafael does with a broom.
2. That is the (less, least) likely story I’ve ever heard.
3. He goes to the ball game (oftener, more often, most often) than I do.
4. I wish you’d got here (sooner, more sooner).
5. If you study math (further, furthest), you will find that it is a very rewarding subject.
6. Jaime throws the ball (farther, more farther, farthest) than anyone else on the team.
7. The mockingbird sings (sweetlier, more sweetly, more sweetlier) than the crow.
8. Bill enjoys history class (better, more better) than Jesse does.
9. Who plays soccer (better, best)—Fernando, Michael, or Abel?
10. Ours is the (worse, worst) prepared team in the school.

6.4 USING ADJECTIVES AND ADVERBS

Sometimes it’s hard to decide whether a sentence needs an adjective or an adverb. Think carefully about how the word is used.

EXAMPLE He was (careful, carefully) with the antique clock.

EXAMPLE He worked (careful, carefully) on the antique clock.

In the first sentence, the missing word follows a linking verb and modifies the subject, He. Therefore, an adjective is needed. Careful is the correct choice. In the second sentence, the missing word modifies the verb, worked. Thus, an adverb is needed, and carefully is the correct choice.
The words good and well and the words bad and badly are sometimes confused. Good and bad are adjectives. Use them before nouns and after linking verbs. Well and badly are adverbs. Use them to modify verbs. Well may also be used as an adjective to mean “healthy”: You look well today.

Telling Adjectives from Adverbs

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>ADJECTIVE</th>
<th>ADVERB</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The band sounds good.</td>
<td>The band plays well.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The band sounds bad.</td>
<td>The band plays badly.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The soloist is well.</td>
<td>The soloist sings well.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Use these modifiers correctly: real and really, sure and surely, most and almost. Real and sure are adjectives. Really, surely, and almost are adverbs. Most can be an adjective or an adverb.

Telling Adjectives from Adverbs

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>ADJECTIVE</th>
<th>ADVERB</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Music is a real art.</td>
<td>This music is really popular.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A pianist needs sure hands.</td>
<td>Piano music is surely popular.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Most pianos have eighty-eight keys.</td>
<td>Piano strings almost never break.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Practice: Using Adjectives and Adverbs

Write the correct word from the choices in parentheses.

1. I feel so (good, well) to have finished that book.
2. Getting on the team is not a (sure, surely) thing for me.
3. It was (sure, surely) lucky that a police officer was nearby.
4. She looked (bad, badly) after hearing the news.
5. Debbie studied so (good, well) that she had no trouble on the test.
6. There are some (real, really) nice kids in this club.
7. The teacher detected (real, really) ability in Juan.
8. (Most, Almost) all the students had seen the movie.
9. The bear looked at me (angry, angrily).
10. I hope I did not do as (bad, badly) as I think I did.

6.5 CORRECTING DOUBLE NEGATIVES

The adverb not is a negative word, expressing the idea of “no.” Not often appears in a short form as part of a contraction. When not is part of a contraction, as in the words in the chart below, n’t is an adverb.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>CONTRACTIONS WITH NOT</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>are not = aren’t</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>does not = doesn’t</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>should not = shouldn’t</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>cannot = can’t</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>had not = hadn’t</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>was not = wasn’t</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>could not = couldn’t</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>has not = hasn’t</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>were not = weren’t</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>did not = didn’t</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>have not = haven’t</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>will not = won’t</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>do not = don’t</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>is not = isn’t</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>would not = wouldn’t</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

In all but two of these words, the apostrophe replaces the o in not. In can’t both an n and the o are omitted. Will not becomes won’t.

Other negative words are listed in the following chart. Each negative word has several opposites. These are affirmative words, or words that show the idea of “yes.”
SOME NEGATIVE AND AFFIRMATIVE WORDS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>NEGATIVE</th>
<th>AFFIRMATIVE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>never, scarcely, hardly, barely</td>
<td>always, ever</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>nobody</td>
<td>anybody, everybody, somebody</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>no, none</td>
<td>all, any, one, some</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>no one</td>
<td>anyone, everyone, one, someone</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>nothing</td>
<td>anything, something</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>nowhere</td>
<td>anywhere, somewhere</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Don’t use two negative words to express the same idea. This is called a double negative. Only one negative word is necessary to express a negative idea. You can correct a double negative by removing one of the negative words or by replacing one of the negative words with an affirmative word.

EXAMPLE INCORRECT  I don’t have no homework.

EXAMPLE CORRECT  I have no homework.

EXAMPLE CORRECT  I don’t have any homework.

PRACTICE  Expressing Negative Ideas

Rewrite each sentence so it correctly expresses a negative idea.

1. The doctor said there wasn’t nothing wrong with Joel.
2. If we keep on polluting the water, there won’t be nowhere left to swim.
3. Imo wasn’t hardly talking during the movie.
4. Isn’t there none of that lemonade left?
5. This little snake couldn’t do no harm.
6. Why didn’t nobody tell Frank about the party?
7. You haven’t barely eaten a thing all day.
8. There’s never nothing to do in this town.
9. You shouldn’t tell no one about this.
10. Sally is afraid she won’t get no birthday presents.

PRACTICE Proofreading

Rewrite the following passage, correcting errors in spelling, capitalization, grammar, and usage. Add any missing punctuation. Write legibly to be sure one letter is not mistaken for another. There are ten mistakes.

Galileo

Galileo Galilei was born in Pisa, Italy, in 1564. All his life, he hardly never stopped trying to understand the universe. He is remembered today as a real famous scientist. Galileo did not invent the telescope, but he observed the skies carefullier than others had done. He was the first to see that the Moon was mountainous. He also looked more deeper into space than anyone else. The planet Jupiter, he observed, had moons that circled it. This led him to an amazing discovery. Before his time, people had thought that the Earth was the most important planet. They said it was in the center of the universe and didn’t never move. Galileo’s observations proved that the Earth sure was in motion.

The Church leaders in Rome did not approve of Galileo’s findings. They angriley put him on trial. After that he talked least about the planets than he had before. But people today know that Galileo was most always right. He had advanced the study of astronomy more further than anyone before him.
POSTTEST  Identifying Adverbs

Write each adverb and the word it modifies. Then write whether the modified word is a verb, an adjective, or an adverb.

1. I will be forever grateful to the person who returns my wallet.
2. Speak very softly in a library.
3. As she left, Branka shut the door unnecessarily loudly.
4. A really accurate shot will win the competition.
5. Too many politicians do not take the public seriously.
6. “Trick or treat,” whispered the little ghost timidly.
7. Jeff was badly hurt during the game.
8. Soon you will understand what I am talking about.
9. So many people turned up for the game that it was nearly impossible to get a really good seat.
10. We all thought that he behaved extremely rudely.

POSTTEST  Comparative and Superlative Adverbs

Write the correct word or phrase from the choices in parentheses.

11. Juan played (more, most) in that one game than he did all last season.
12. I would like to travel (oftener, more often), but I don’t have the time or the money.
13. Of all her siblings, Ashley tries (harder, more harder, hardest) to excel.
14. We extended our search for the missing dog (farther, more farther) into the woods.
15. In our class, Bonny was voted (more, most) likely to become a movie star.
16. Of all my subjects, I do (less, least) well in music.
17. He addressed us (more seriously, seriouslier) than he ever had previously.
18. The rhinoceros charges (more fiercely, most fiercely) than the armadillo!
19. He plays (better, best) of all when he is rested.
20. Of the three brothers, Eugene behaved (worse, worst) on the camping trip.

POSTTEST  Using Adjectives and Adverbs

Write the correct word from the choices in parentheses.

21. I can’t explain how (bad, badly) I want the trophy.
22. If you are feeling (good, well) enough to play football, you can go to school.
23. “Summer is (almost, most) over,” he groaned.
24. The cat looks (fierce, fiercely) when it is hunting mice.
25. You cleaned up that car (real, really) (nice, nicely).
26. I can’t believe how (quick, quickly) she ran.
27. We are (sure, surely) to win the game now.
28. It is (good, well) to get plenty of sleep.
29. The chances of getting out alive looked (bad, badly).
30. Here’s a (real, really) opportunity to earn some money.

POSTTEST  Correcting Double Negatives

Rewrite each sentence so it correctly expresses a negative idea.

31. You shouldn’t never swim out so far that you can’t easily swim back.
32. Don’t write nothing until I tell you to start.
33. Haven’t you got nowhere to go after school?
34. Kalisha can’t remember nothing about first grade.
35. When Renzo first arrived in this country, he couldn’t speak hardly any English.
36. Don’t tell nobody that I know this.
37. At that distance, we could hear barely nothing.
38. Jules wanted a soda, but there weren’t none left.
39. I can’t understand why Sandra hasn’t got no friends.
40. As far as I could see, nobody did nothing.

45. Most students no longer work on farms nevertheless many have jobs in the summer.

7.1 PREPOSITIONS AND PREPOSITIONAL PHRASES

A preposition is a word that relates a noun or a pronoun to another word in a sentence.

EXAMPLE The boy near the window is French.

The word near is a preposition. It shows the relationship between the noun window and the word boy.

A prepositional phrase is a group of words that begins with a preposition and ends with a noun or a pronoun, which is called the object of the preposition.

EXAMPLE  Hang the painting outside the new auditorium.

A preposition may have a compound object.

EXAMPLE  Between the chair and the table was a window.

PRACTICE  Identifying Prepositional Phrases

Write each prepositional phrase. Underline the preposition and draw a circle around the object of the preposition.

1. The map of Africa is on the last page of the sixth-grade geography book.
2. Africa is the second largest of the seven continents in the world.
3. Africa has many countries with many kinds of people and governments.
4. In earlier times, many people of Africa were taken away from their homes and enslaved.
5. Now people from countries around the world visit large animal preserves in Kenya and other African nations.
6. People must stay inside their cars when they are driving through an animal preserve.
7. People who have been there say that countries throughout the whole continent of Africa are beautiful.
8. The Nile River, in northern Africa, runs through Egypt from south to north.
9. Many large museums have displays of objects from ancient Egypt.
10. The pyramids of ancient Egypt still stand, and camels still gallop past them.

7.2 Pronouns as Objects of Prepositions

When a pronoun is the object of a preposition, use an object pronoun, not a subject pronoun.

EXAMPLE Dan handed the tickets to Natalie.

EXAMPLE Dan handed the tickets to her.

In the example, the object pronoun her replaces Natalie as the object of the preposition to.

A preposition may have a compound object: two or more nouns, two or more pronouns, or a combination of nouns and pronouns. Use object pronouns in compound objects.

EXAMPLE I borrowed the suitcase from Ivan and Vera.

EXAMPLE I borrowed the suitcase from Ivan and her.

EXAMPLE I borrowed the suitcase from him and Vera.

EXAMPLE I borrowed the suitcase from him and her.

Object pronouns are used in the second, third, and fourth sentences. In the second sentence, Ivan and her is the compound object of the preposition from. In the third sentence, him and Vera is the compound object of the preposition from. In the fourth sentence, him and her is the compound object of the preposition from.

If you’re not sure whether to use a subject pronoun or an object pronoun, read the sentence aloud with only the pronoun.
EXAMPLE  I borrowed the suitcase from her.
EXAMPLE  I borrowed the suitcase from him.

Who is a subject pronoun. Whom is an object pronoun.

EXAMPLE  Who lent you the suitcase?
EXAMPLE  From whom did you borrow the suitcase?

PRACTICE  Using Pronouns as Objects of Prepositions

Write the correct word or phrase from the choices in parentheses.

1. Between you and (I, me), I think we should have less homework.
2. Math is easy for me but difficult for Niko and (she, her).
3. According to (them, they), they need help to complete their math homework.
4. As a result, Sarah and Niko depend on (I, me) to complete the work.
5. At times I forget with (who, whom) I am working.
6. Then I work too fast for (he and she, him and her).
7. Sometimes my mother brings drinks to (we, us) as we work on our homework.
8. I get help from (he and she, him and she, him and her, he and her) in geography.
9. They move the maps toward (me, I).
10. The three of (we, us) are a team.
7.3 PREPOSITIONAL PHRASES AS ADJECTIVES AND ADVERBS

A prepositional phrase is an adjective phrase when it modifies, or describes, a noun or a pronoun.

EXAMPLE  The servers at the new restaurant are courteous.

EXAMPLE  The atmosphere includes photographs from old movies.

In the first sentence, the prepositional phrase at the new restaurant modifies the subject of the sentence, servers. In the second sentence, the prepositional phrase from old movies modifies the direct object, photographs.

Notice that, unlike most adjectives, an adjective phrase usually comes after the word it modifies.

A prepositional phrase is an adverb phrase when it modifies a verb, an adjective, or another adverb.

ADVERB PHRASES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>USE</th>
<th>EXAMPLES</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Modifies a Verb</td>
<td>The servers dress like movie characters.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Modifies an Adjective</td>
<td>The restaurant is popular with young people.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Modifies an Adverb</td>
<td>The restaurant opens early in the morning.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Most adverb phrases tell when, where, or how an action takes place. More than one prepositional phrase may modify the same word.

HOW ADVERB PHRASES MODIFY VERBS

| WHEN?     | Many people eat a light meal during the lunch hour.                     |
| WHERE?    | Some eat lunch on the covered patio.                                    |
| HOW?      | Others eat their meals in a hurry.                                     |
PRACTICE  Identifying Adjective and Adverb Phrases

Write each prepositional phrase. Then write the word it modifies. Finally, write adjective or adverb to tell how it’s used.

1. Sometimes there are good programs on television.
2. Sports programs are preferred by many people.
3. They want football without commercials.
4. Ten ads may air within one break, though.
5. Other people like shows about nature.
6. They are often scheduled on public television.
7. News shows are popular with many people.
8. People can learn about presidential candidates.
9. Voters can choose among candidates.
10. Debates between candidates are held during a campaign.

7.4 TELLING PREPOSITIONS AND ADVERBS APART

Sometimes it can be difficult to tell whether a particular word is being used as a preposition or as an adverb. Both prepositions and adverbs can answer the questions where? and when? The chart below shows fifteen words that can be used as either prepositions or adverbs. Whether any one of these words is a preposition or an adverb depends on its use in a particular sentence.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SOME WORDS THAT CAN BE USED AS PREPOSITIONS OR ADVERBS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>about</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>above</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>around</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>before</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>behind</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
If you have trouble deciding whether a word is being used as a preposition or as an adverb, look at the other words in the sentence. If the word is followed closely by a noun or a pronoun, the word is probably a preposition, and the noun or pronoun is the object of the preposition.

EXAMPLE We ate our lunch outside the library.

EXAMPLE We walked around the park for an hour.

In the first example, outside is followed closely by the noun library. Outside is a preposition, and library is the object of the preposition. In the second example, around is a preposition, and park is the object of the preposition.

If the word is not followed closely by a noun or a pronoun, the word is probably an adverb.

EXAMPLE We ate our lunch outside.

EXAMPLE We walked around for an hour.

In the first sentence, outside answers the question where? but is not followed by a noun or a pronoun. In this sentence, outside is an adverb. In the second sentence, around is an adverb. For an hour is a prepositional phrase.

PRACTICE Identifying Prepositions and Adverbs

Write preposition or adverb to identify each underlined word.

1. Go up the stairs to the second floor.
2. The kite flew up quickly.
3. The book you want is on the shelf above that one.
4. Look for the one above.
5. It’s too cold today to play outside.
6. The sidewalk is broken outside the building.
7. Look out below!
8. Write this down on your paper.
9. Let’s go over to Sue’s house.
10. Put that cover over the chair.
7.5 CONJUNCTIONS

A coordinating conjunction is a word used to connect compound parts of a sentence. And, but, or, nor, and for are coordinating conjunctions. So and yet are also sometimes used as coordinating conjunctions.

USING COORDINATING CONJUNCTIONS TO FORM COMPOUNDS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>COMPOUND SUBJECT</th>
<th>Allison and Rosita have lived in Mexico City.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>COMPOUND OBJECTS</td>
<td>Give your suitcases and packages to Ben or Bill.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>COMPOUND PREDICATE</td>
<td>Tourists shop or relax on the beaches.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>COMPOUND SENTENCE</td>
<td>Tillie shopped every day, but we toured the city.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

To make the relationship between words or groups of words especially strong, use correlative conjunctions.

Correlative conjunctions are pairs of words used to connect compound parts of a sentence. Correlative conjunctions include both . . . and, either . . . or, neither . . . nor, and not only . . . but also.

EXAMPLE Examples of great architecture exist in both New York and Paris.

EXAMPLE Neither Luis nor I have visited those cities.

  When a compound subject is joined by and, the subject is usually plural. The verb must agree with the plural subject.

EXAMPLE Winnie and Sumi are in Madrid this week.

  When a compound subject is joined by or or nor, the verb must agree with the nearer subject.

EXAMPLE Neither Rhondelle nor the twins speak Spanish.

EXAMPLE Neither the twins nor Rhondelle speaks Spanish.
PRACTICE  Identifying Conjunctions and Compounds

Write each conjunction. Then write compound subject, compound object, compound predicate, or compound sentence to tell what parts the conjunction joins.

1. All sixth-graders play either soccer or softball.
2. Luis likes soccer best, but Kristina and Karen enjoy both soccer and softball.
4. Luis and Ginger take turns being goalie in soccer.
5. Neither Luis nor Ginger has scored in the last three games, but they made two saves.
6. Either Karen or Kristina got two hits in the last game, but neither girl scored a run or struck out.
7. Usually both Karen and Kristina hit and field well.
8. Not only are they good players, but they and the whole team have also been even better than usual this season.
9. The whole soccer team sometimes attends softball games, but few softball players go to soccer games.
10. Either the soccer players just like baseball, or they are fans of Kristina and Karen.

PRACTICE  Making Compound Subjects and Verbs Agree

Write the correct word from the choices in parentheses.

1. Both Patrick and Patricia (babysit, babysits) for the family next door.
2. Kevin and Kathy (behave, behaves) best for Patrick, even though they like Patricia too.
3. Neither Kathy nor the twins (like, likes) the playground at the school.
4. But the twins and Kathy (like, likes) the park.
5. Neither the park nor the playground (has, have) swings, but there are slides at both places.
6. Either Kevin and Kathy’s mother or the twins (provide, provides) a snack.
7. Patrick and Patricia always (watch, watches) the children carefully.
8. Sports drinks or juice (is, are) available at the park.
9. The children and their babysitter also (enjoy, enjoys) cracker snacks.
10. Ducks and geese (think, thinks) the crackers taste good too!

7.6 CONJUNCTIVE ADVERBS

You can use a special kind of adverb instead of a conjunction to join the simple sentences in a compound sentence. This special kind of adverb is called a conjunctive adverb.

EXAMPLE  Many Asians use chopsticks, but some use forks.

EXAMPLE  Many Asians use chopsticks; however, some use forks.

A conjunctive adverb, such as however, is usually stronger and more exact than a coordinating conjunction like and or but.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>USING CONJUNCTIVE ADVERBS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>TO REPLACE AND</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TO REPLACE BUT</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TO STATE A RESULT</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TO STATE EQUALITY</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

A conjunctive adverb may be used to join the simple sentences in a compound sentence.
When two simple sentences are joined with a conjunctive adverb, use a semicolon at the end of the first sentence. Place a comma after a conjunctive adverb that begins the second part of a compound sentence. If a conjunctive adverb is used in the middle of a simple sentence, set it off with commas.

EXAMPLE  The school cafeteria sometimes serves casseroles; however, these meals are not very tasty.

EXAMPLE  The school cafeteria sometimes serves casseroles; these meals, however, are not very tasty.

PRACTICE  Identifying Conjunctive Adverbs

Write each sentence. Underline the conjunctive adverb. Add appropriate punctuation.

1. At Washington School, most students eat in the cafeteria however some go home for lunch.
2. Sometimes the food is better at home besides it’s fun to watch TV for a few minutes.
3. Some students would rather eat at school therefore they bring their lunches.
4. Snacks are sold at school soccer games nevertheless, some people would rather bring their own.
5. As a result, the people running the snack bar have fewer customers consequently they make less money.
6. The snack-bar managers have complained to the school moreover they have raised their prices.
7. They are even considering shutting down completely thus no snacks would be on sale in the gym.
8. This might inconvenience some students still most bring their own snacks.
9. The cafeteria might run the snack bar some parents likewise might take it over.
10. A school club might choose the snack bar as a project however the students would need adult supervision.
7.7 INTERJECTIONS

You can express emotions in short exclamations that aren’t complete sentences. These exclamations are called interjections.

An interjection is a word or group of words that expresses emotion. It has no grammatical connection to other words in a sentence.

Interjections are used to express emotion, such as surprise or disbelief. They’re also used to attract attention.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SOME COMMON INTERJECTIONS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>aha</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>alas</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>gee</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>good grief</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

An interjection that expresses strong emotion may stand alone. It begins with a capital letter and ends with an exclamation point.

EXAMPLE
Good grief! My favorite restaurant has closed.

When an interjection expresses mild feeling, it is written as part of the sentence. In that case, the interjection is set off with commas.

EXAMPLE
Oh, well, I’ll just eat at home.

NOTE
Most words may be more than one part of speech. A word’s part of speech depends on its use in a sentence.

EXAMPLE
A duck has soft down on its body. [noun]

EXAMPLE
The hungry boy downed the hamburger in three bites. [verb]

EXAMPLE
Libby felt down all day. [adjective]
EXAMPLE The baby often falls down. [adverb]

EXAMPLE A car drove down the street. [preposition]

EXAMPLE “Down!” I shouted to the dog. [interjection]

PRACTICE Writing Sentences with Interjections

Write ten sentences, using a different interjection with each. Punctuate correctly.

PRACTICE Proofreading

Rewrite the following passage, correcting errors in spelling, capitalization, grammar, and usage. Add any missing punctuation. Write legibly to be sure one letter is not mistaken for another. There are ten mistakes.

Ilya Anopolsky

1 At age twelve, Ilya Anopolsky won an award for the best business plan for a web-design company. 2 A year later, he started his own design company, called Devotion, Inc. 3 He had worked on more than fifty Web sites by the time he was thirteen imagine that 4 Many of his friends and his teachers seems to expect Ilya to fix their computers. 5 Well since he wired up the computer room at his school, perhaps that is not so surpriseing.

6 Ilya and his mother moved to brooklyn New York, from Ukraine when he was two-years-old. 7 His mother worries about him now because he works so hard besides his job makes life difficult for she and him. 8 She worries that the pressure from people who need help is too much for him. 9 She also worries that he works too hard. 10 Sometimes she gets up at 3:00 A.M. and finds that Ilya has fallen asleep at the computer.

11 Ilya is a specialist in programming languages 12 He knows HTML, DHTML, and JavaScript. 13 He designs many Web sites, including some for on-line dealers in different kinds of merchandise.

POSTTEST  Conjunctive Adverbs

Write each sentence. Underline the conjunctive adverb. Add appropriate punctuation.

There are seven continents on Earth however some are smaller than others.

Africa and South America could fit together like puzzle pieces therefore scientists think they probably once were connected.

Alaska and Russia could also fit together thus they too might have been connected.

Other clues suggest the origin of continents from one big landmass consequently some scientists find this a fascinating subject to study.

I firmly support the theory that all the continents were once part of one large landmass moreover the evidence should be compelling to all thoughtful people.
Write simple, compound, or complex to identify each sentence.

1. Houses are usually built of brick, wood, concrete, or a combination of these materials.
2. When builders start a house, they start with the foundation.

8.1 SENTENCES AND CLAUSES

A sentence is a group of words that has a subject and a predicate and expresses a complete thought.

A simple sentence has one complete subject and one complete predicate.

The complete subject names whom or what the sentence is about. The complete predicate tells what the subject does or has. Sometimes the complete predicate tells what the subject is or is like. The complete subject or the complete predicate or both may be compound.

A compound sentence contains two or more simple sentences. Each simple sentence is called a main clause.

A main clause has a subject and a predicate and can stand alone as a sentence.

Main clauses can be connected by a comma and a conjunction, by a semicolon, or by a semicolon and a conjunctive adverb. The conjunctive adverb is followed by a comma. In the following examples, each main clause is in black. The connecting elements are in blue type.

EXAMPLE Many people live in cities, but others build houses in the suburbs. [comma and coordinating conjunction]

EXAMPLE Most people travel to their jobs; others work at home. [semicolon]

EXAMPLE Companies relocate to the suburbs; therefore, more people leave the city. [semicolon and conjunctive adverb]
PRACTICE  Identifying and Punctuating Simple and Compound Sentences

Write each sentence. Underline each main clause. Add commas or semicolons where they’re needed. Write simple or compound to identify the sentence.

1. Most students in sixth grade become interested in new things.
2. Many students really like sports but others like playing musical instruments.
3. Of course, some do both consequently all their time after school is filled up with practice.
4. Most students in sixth grade have learned something about computers many even have computers at home.
5. For some students, computers are just a tool for others, computers are fascinating avenues to new worlds.
6. Some want to know how computers and programs work.
7. Others like to explore the Internet and spend as much time as possible on it.
8. Some become very good at using computers a few even start computer companies.
9. Students like that are rare, though.
10. Do you know anyone like that?

8.2 COMPLEX SENTENCES

A main clause has a subject and a predicate and can stand alone as a sentence. Some sentences have a main clause and a subordinate clause.

A subordinate clause is a group of words that has a subject and a predicate but does not express a complete thought and cannot stand alone as a sentence. A subordinate clause is always combined with a main clause in a sentence.

A complex sentence has one main clause and one or more subordinate clauses.
In each complex sentence that follows, the subordinate clause is in blue type.

EXAMPLE Mariah, who moved here from Montana, is very popular.

EXAMPLE Since Mariah moved to Springfield, she has made many new friends.

EXAMPLE Everyone says that Mariah is friendly.

Subordinate clauses can function in three ways: as adjectives, as adverbs, or as nouns. In the examples, the first sentence has an adjective clause that modifies the noun Mariah. The second sentence has an adverb clause that modifies the verb has made. The third sentence has a noun clause that is the direct object of the verb says. Adjective, adverb, and noun clauses are used in the same ways one-word adjectives, adverbs, and nouns are used.

Note A compound-complex sentence has two or more main clauses and one or more subordinate clauses.

PRACTICE Identifying Simple and Complex Sentences

Write each sentence. Underline each main clause once and each subordinate clause twice. Write simple or complex to identify the sentence.

1. In a social studies class, sometimes students explore the areas where their ancestors lived.
2. Most people in the United States are the descendants of people who moved here long ago.
3. However, many families have arrived here recently.
4. Their reasons for coming to this country are different.
5. Some came to earn a better living wherever they could.
6. Others are here because a family member came to attend college.
7. Most need to learn English so that they can get along.
8. Children usually learn English when they go to school.
9. Sometimes the parents take longer to learn a new language.
10. Children find learning a language easier than adults do.

8.3 ADJECTIVE CLAUSES

An adjective clause is a subordinate clause that modifies a noun or a pronoun in the main clause of a complex sentence.

EXAMPLE The Aqua-Lung, which divers strap on, holds oxygen.
EXAMPLE The divers breathe through a tube that attaches to the tank.

Each subordinate clause in blue type is an adjective clause that adds information about a noun in the main clause. An adjective clause is usually introduced by a relative pronoun. The relative pronoun that may refer to people or things. Which refers only to things.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>RELATIVE PRONOUNS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>that</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>which</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>who</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>whom</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>whose</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

An adjective clause can also begin with where or when.
EXAMPLE Divers search for reefs where much sea life exists.
EXAMPLE Herb remembers the day when he had his first diving experience.

A relative pronoun that begins an adjective clause is often the subject of the clause.
EXAMPLE Some divers prefer equipment that is lightweight.
EXAMPLE Willa is a new diver who is taking lessons.

In the first sentence, that is the subject of the adjective clause. In the second sentence, who is the subject of the adjective clause.
PRACTICE  Identifying Adjective Clauses

Write each adjective clause. Underline the subject of the adjective clause. Then write the word the adjective clause modifies.

1. Harry Potter, who is a fictional character, nevertheless is extremely popular today.
2. Several of the Harry Potter books, which center around Harry and his adventures, are set in the Hogwarts School somewhere in Great Britain.
3. It is at Hogwarts where most of the action takes place.
4. Some people don’t like books that are about magic.
5. People who don’t like magic should stay away from the books about Harry Potter.
6. The Harry Potter books have stories that are imaginative and adventurous.
7. In the first book, Harry is shocked at the idea that he can go to the Hogwarts School.
8. In each book after that, he is a boy who is a year older.
9. Harry enjoys the days when he can play quidditch.
10. He is a student whose talent for quidditch is amazing.
8.4 ESSENTIAL AND NONESSENTIAL CLAUSES

Read the example sentence. Is the adjective clause in blue type needed to make the meaning of the sentence clear?

EXAMPLE The girl who is standing beside the coach is our best swimmer.

The adjective clause in blue type is essential to the meaning of the sentence. The clause tells which girl is the best swimmer.

An essential clause is a clause that is necessary to make the meaning of a sentence clear. Don’t use commas to set off essential clauses.

Now look at the adjective clause in this sentence.

EXAMPLE Janice, who is standing beside the coach, is our best swimmer.

In the example, the adjective clause is set off with commas. The clause is nonessential, or not necessary to identify which swimmer the writer means. The clause simply gives additional information about the noun it modifies.

A nonessential clause is a clause that is not necessary to make the meaning of a sentence clear. Use commas to set off nonessential clauses.

In this book, adjective clauses that begin with that are always essential, and adjective clauses that begin with which are always nonessential.

EXAMPLE Were you at the meet that our team won yesterday? [essential]

EXAMPLE That meet, which began late, ended after dark. [nonessential]
PRACTICE  Identifying and Punctuating Adjective Clauses

Write each sentence. Underline the adjective clause. Add commas where they’re needed. Write essential or non-essential to identify each adjective clause.

1. Many people like pizza that is covered with vegetables such as mushrooms, onions, and green peppers.
2. This pizza which also includes pepperoni is truly delicious.
3. The person who delivered the pizza looked familiar.
4. He was the older brother of a friend whom we had not seen for months.
5. We tipped him for the pizza that we had ordered.
6. Once my family went to a restaurant where we ordered pizza.
7. My friend’s brother who had delivered the pizza waited on us there.
8. We ordered a different kind of pizza which we did not like so well.
9. We did not like the pizza which had spinach and tomatoes on it.
10. Next time, we will order the kind that we like best.

8.5  ADVERB CLAUSES

An adjective clause is a subordinate clause that often modifies the verb in the main clause of a complex sentence.

An adverb clause tells how, when, where, why, or under what conditions the action occurs.

EXAMPLE  After we won the meet, we shook hands with our opponents.

EXAMPLE  We won the meet because we practiced hard.

In the first sentence, the adverb clause After we won the meet modifies the verb shook. The adverb clause tells when we shook hands. In the second sentence, the adverb clause because we practiced hard modifies the verb won. The adverb clause tells why we won the meet.

An adverb clause is introduced by a subordinating conjunction. A subordinating conjunction signals that a clause is a subordinate clause and cannot stand alone.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SUBORDINATING CONJUNCTIONS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>after</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>although</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>as</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>as if</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>as though</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Use a comma after an adverb clause that begins a sentence. You usually don’t use a comma before an adverb clause that comes at the end of a sentence.

NOTE Adverb clauses can also modify adjectives and adverbs.

PRACTICE Identifying Adverb Clauses

Write each adverb clause. Underline the subordinating conjunction. Then write the verb the adverb clause modifies.

1. Many people visit large cities because the cities have so much to offer.
2. When you go to a big city, you will usually see something very interesting.
3. If you visit Chicago, for example, you will find the lakefront especially fascinating and enjoyable.
4. Don’t miss Navy Pier when you visit the lakefront.
5. When you’re there, be sure to ride the Ferris wheel.
6. You will feel as if you are on an airplane!
7. However, you might avoid it if you’re afraid of heights.
8. Some people ride it although they feel a little frightened.
9. You may also enjoy a boat ride on the lake unless you get seasick.
10. You can see Chicago’s skyline while you ride the boat.

8.6 NOUN CLAUSES

A noun clause is a subordinate clause used as a noun.

Notice how the subject in blue type in the following sentence can be replaced by a clause.

EXAMPLE  A hockey player wears protective equipment.
EXAMPLE  Whoever plays hockey wears protective equipment.

The clause in blue type, like the words it replaces, is the subject of the sentence. Because this kind of clause acts as a noun, it’s called a noun clause.

You can use a noun clause in the same ways you use a noun—as a subject, a direct object, an indirect object, an object of a preposition, and a predicate noun. In most sentences containing noun clauses, you can replace the noun clause with the word it, and the sentence will still make sense.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>

</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SUBJECT</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Whoever plays hockey      wearable protective equipment.</td>
</tr>
<tr>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>Suzi knows that ice hockey is a rough game.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>INDIRECT OBJECT</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>She tells whoever will listen her opinions.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>OBJECT OF A PREPOSITION</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Victory goes to whoever makes more goals.</td>
</tr>
<tr>

EXAMPLE
Whichever you choose will look fine.
What I wonder is why she said that.
I don’t know who left this package here.
Ask the teacher if this is the right answer.
Promise whoever calls first a special bonus.
He worried about what he had done.

PRACTICE
Identifying Noun Clauses

Write each noun clause. Then write subject, direct object, indirect object, object of a preposition, or predicate noun to tell how the noun clause is used.

1. Please tell me why you did that.
2. How you do the job is not my concern.
3. I don’t know when we are leaving.
4. Give the package to whoever opens the door.
5. On the first day of school, Jim did not know where he should go.
6. Ask the principal whose locker this is.
7. Do you care whether I go to the game or not?
8. Wherever we go is all right with me.
9. The next president will be whoever wins the most electoral votes.
10. Come to the party in whatever costume you can make from objects around the house.
Rewrite the following passage, correcting errors in spelling, capitalization, grammar, and usage. Add any missing punctuation. Write legibly to be sure one letter is not mistaken for another. There are ten mistakes.

Madeleine Albright

1 Madeleine Albright was the first woman to become the Secretary of State in the United States. 2 She was born in Czechoslovakia in 1937, she and her family moved to the United States in 1948. 3 She graduated from Wellesley College with a bachelor’s degree and she received both master’s and doctorate degrees from Columbia University. 4 She worked for several nonprofit organizations besides she was a professor of international affairs at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. 5 In 1993 she was named ambassador to the United Nations where she served before becoming Secretary of State in 1997. 6 The Senate unanimously confirmed her appointment to the position. 7 She had a reputation which was gained by her hard work as a tough supporter of American interests. 8 As she served in the United Nations, she suggested how to accomplish foreign policy goals through political and military means.

POSTTEST Simple, Compound, and Complex Sentences

Write simple, compound, or complex to identify each sentence.

1. You have seen many books, but have you ever looked closely at them?
2. The number of pages in books is always a multiple of four; however, larger books are made in multiples of 16, 32, and even 64.
3. In most books, every right-hand page has an odd number and every left-hand page has an even number.

4. In one mystery story, the villain insisted that he placed a key piece of paper between pages 47 and 48 of a book.

5. Since this was impossible, the detective knew the villain was guilty!

6. Some people think that computers will someday replace books.

7. However, people will probably always want to have books.

8. For one thing, books are easy for people to carry and pack.

9. Some artists specialize in designing type faces that are used in books, magazines, and newspapers.

10. Word-processing programs on computers now use many of those same typefaces, and artists often use computers to design new ones.

POSTTEST

Adjective, Adverb, and Noun Clauses

Identify each italicized clause by writing adjective, adverb, or noun.

11. People who live in different parts of the world usually dress to reflect the climate.

12. Since the weather in most areas near the Equator is warm, people there do not need heavy clothes.

13. Similarly, whoever lives near the Arctic Circle could not use clothes suitable for the beach.

14. Choosing clothes can be a problem for people in places that have seasonal changes.

15. Appropriate clothes depend on whatever the weather is during a particular season.

16. One day you may need a sweater because temperatures are in the 60s.

17. If the next day is warmer, you may not need a sweater.
18. When they travel, some people always take an umbrella and a sweater or jacket.

19. They believe that it is best to be prepared for any kind of weather.

20. Before you go outside, be sure to check the temperature.

21. A coat or jacket that has a warm lining is important clothing for the cold winters of the Northeast.

22. Whatever kind of coat you have should be warm enough for the coldest weather.

23. You’ll probably need boots, which you might want to make waterproof.

24. Some organizations give whomever needs one a warm coat.

25. Whenever it is cold, people should wear heavy coats, hats, and gloves.
PRETEST  Subject-Verb Agreement

Write the correct verb from the choices in parentheses.

1. Anna (wants, want) a babysitting job for the summer.

25. The student or his teachers (wants, want) to change the appointment.

9.1 MAKING SUBJECTS AND VERBS AGREE

CCSS L.6.1c

The basic idea of subject-verb agreement is a simple one: A singular subject requires a singular verb, and a plural subject requires a plural verb. The subject and its verb are said to agree in number.

Notice that in the present tense the singular form of the verb usually ends in -s or -es.

SUBJECT-VERB AGREEMENT WITH NOUNS AS SUBJECTS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SINGULAR</th>
<th>PLURAL</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A botanist studies plant life.</td>
<td>Botanists study plant life.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A plant requires care.</td>
<td>Plants require care.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
A verb must also agree with a subject that is a pronoun. Look at the chart that follows. Notice how the verb changes. In the present tense, the -s ending is used with the subject pronouns he, she, and it.

SUBJECT-VERB AGREEMENT WITH PRONOUNS AS SUBJECTS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SINGULAR</th>
<th>PLURAL</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I work.</td>
<td>We work.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>You work.</td>
<td>You work.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>He, she, or it works.</td>
<td>They work.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The irregular verbs be, have, and do can be main verbs or helping verbs. These verbs must agree with the subject whether they’re main verbs or helping verbs.

EXAMPLES

- I am a botanist. He is a botanist. They are botanists.
  [main verbs]
- She is working. You are studying.
  [helping verbs]
- I have a job. She has a career.
  [main verbs]
- He has planted a tree. They have planted trees.
  [helping verbs]
- He does well. They do the job.
  [main verbs]
- It does sound good. We do work hard.
  [helping verbs]

PRACTICE  Making Subjects and Verbs Agree I

Write the subject. Then write the correct verb from the choices in parentheses.

1. Many important inventions (is, are) credited to Thomas Alva Edison.
2. Germaine (agrees, agree) with the answer.
3. The baby (smiles, smile) at her father.
4. It (is, are) a story about space travel.
5. We (says, say) the Pledge of Allegiance in class.
6. The soldier (gets, get) a letter from home.
7. Greek fables (has, have) a moral at the end.
8. Wynton Marsalis (has, have) recorded many jazz tunes.
9. He (does, do) enjoy listening to various melodies.
10. The doors (closes, close) behind you as you leave.

9.2 PROBLEMS IN LOCATING THE SUBJECT

Making a verb agree with its subject is easy when the verb directly follows the subject. Sometimes, however, a prepositional phrase comes between the subject and the verb.

Example  This book of Mark Twain’s stories appeals to people of all ages.

Example  Stories by Washington Irving are also popular.

In the first sentence, of Mark Twain’s stories is a prepositional phrase. The singular verb appeals agrees with the singular subject, book, not with the plural noun stories, which is the object of the preposition of. In the second sentence, by Washington Irving is a prepositional phrase. The plural verb are agrees with the plural subject, Stories, not with the singular noun Washington Irving, which is the object of the preposition by.

An inverted sentence is a sentence in which the subject follows the verb.

Inverted sentences often begin with a prepositional phrase. Don’t mistake the object of the preposition for the subject of the sentence.

Example  Across the ocean sail millions of immigrants.
In inverted sentences beginning with Here or There, look for the subject after the verb. Here or there is never the subject of a sentence.

EXAMPLE  Here is a picture of my grandparents.

EXAMPLE  There are many immigrants among my ancestors.

By rearranging the sentence so the subject comes first, you can see the agreement between the subject and the verb.

EXAMPLE  Millions of immigrants sail across the ocean.

EXAMPLE  A picture of my grandparents is here.

EXAMPLE  Many immigrants are there among my ancestors.

In some interrogative sentences, a helping verb comes before the subject. Look for the subject between the helping verb and the main verb.

EXAMPLE  Do these stories interest you?

You can check the subject-verb agreement by making the sentence declarative.

EXAMPLE  These stories do interest you.

PRACTICE Making Subjects and Verbs Agree II

Write the subject. Then write the correct verb from the choices in parentheses.

1. Inside my building (is, are) four apartments.
2. There (was, were) too much work for me to finish.
4. Here (is, are) the answers to the problems.
5. (Does, Do) you know Picasso’s complete name or the names of some of his paintings?
6. Museums in Paris (display, displays) many of Rodin’s sculptures.
7. (Was, Were) Abraham Lincoln the sixteenth president of the United States?
8. Near the palace (marches, march) the queen’s guards.
9. On the shelf (is, are) many maps of the Miami area.
10. Listeners of that station (hear, hears) the latest news.

9.3 COLLECTIVE NOUNS AND OTHER SPECIAL SUBJECTS

A collective noun names a group.

Collective nouns follow special agreement rules. A collective noun has a singular meaning when it names a group that acts as a unit. A collective noun has a plural meaning when it refers to the members of the group acting as individuals. The meaning helps you decide whether to use the singular or plural form of the verb.

EXAMPLE The audience sits in silence. [a unit, singular]
EXAMPLE The audience sit on chairs and pillows. [individuals, plural]

Certain nouns, such as news and mathematics, end in s but require singular verbs. Other nouns that end in s and name one thing, such as scissors and binoculars, require plural verbs.

EXAMPLE News is important to everyone. [singular]
EXAMPLE The scissors are in the top drawer. [plural]

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SPECIAL NOUNS THAT END IN S</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SINGULAR</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>civics</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Los Angeles</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>mathematics</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>news</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
A subject that refers to an amount as a single unit is singular. A subject that refers to a number of individual units is plural.

EXAMPLE  Ten years seems a long time. [single unit]

EXAMPLE  Ten years pass quickly. [individual units]

EXAMPLE  Three dollars is the admission price. [single unit]

EXAMPLE  Three dollars are on the table. [individual units]

The title of a book or a work of art is always singular, even if a noun in the title is plural.

EXAMPLE  Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs is a good Disney movie.

EXAMPLE  The Last of the Mohicans was written by James Fenimore Cooper.

---

PRACTICE  Making Subjects and Verbs Agree III

Write the subject. Then write the correct verb from the choices in parentheses.

1. The Pickwick Papers (is, are) a novel by Charles Dickens, an English writer.
2. Six dollars (was, were) too much to pay.
3. The scissors (seems, seem) sharp.
4. Physics (is are) a difficult subject for some students.
5. The class (give, gives) their written reports to the teacher on Mondays.
6. Three dollars (is, are) scattered on the floor.
7. The group (plans, plan) to go downtown.
8. The collection (is, are) on display at the modern art museum.
9. Gulliver’s Travels (was, were) written by Jonathan Swift.
10. Three days (is, are) enough time to practice.
9.4 INDEFINITE PRONOUNS AS SUBJECTS
CCSS L.6.1c

An indefinite pronoun is a pronoun that does not refer to a particular person, place, or thing.

Some indefinite pronouns are singular. Others are plural. When an indefinite pronoun is used as a subject, the verb must agree in number with the pronoun.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SOME INDEFINITE PRONOUNS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SINGULAR</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>another</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>anybody</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>anyone</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>anything</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>each</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>either</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The indefinite pronouns all, any, most, none, and some may be singular or plural, depending on the phrase that follows.

EXAMPLE Most of the forest lies to the east. [singular]

EXAMPLE Most of these scientists study forest growth. [plural]

Often a prepositional phrase follows an indefinite pronoun that can be either singular or plural. To decide whether the pronoun is singular or plural, look at the object of the preposition. In the first sentence, most refers to forest. Because forest is singular, most must be considered as a single unit. In the second sentence, most refers to scientists. Because scientists is plural, most should be considered as individual units.
PRACTICE Making Subjects and Verbs Agree IV

Write the subject. Then write the correct verb from the choices in parentheses.

1. Anyone at the desk (takes, take) the money.
2. Most of the books (sell, sells) at discount.
3. Few (finds, find) the subject interesting.
4. All of his work (remains, remain) lost.
5. Either of the choices (is, are) fine.
6. Some of the states (holds, hold) primary elections on the same day.
7. All of the cheering (is, are) making the hall noisy.
8. Everything (comes, come) to those who wait.
9. No one (wants, want) to be the villain in the play.
10. Most of the senators (leave, leaves) Washington before the Labor Day weekend.

9.5 AGREEMENT WITH COMPOUND SUBJECTS

A compound subject contains two or more simple subjects that have the same verb.

Compound subjects may require a singular or a plural verb, depending on how the subjects are joined. When two or more subjects are joined by and or by the correlative conjunction both . . . and, the plural form of the verb should be used.

EXAMPLE  New York, Denver, and London have smog.

EXAMPLE  Both automobiles and factories contribute to smog.

Sometimes and is used to join two words that are part of one unit or refer to a single person or thing. In these cases, the subject is singular. In the following example, captain and leader refer to the same person. Therefore, the singular form of the verb is used.

EXAMPLE  The captain and leader of the team is Ms. Cho.
When two or more subjects are joined by or or by the correlative conjunction either . . . or or neither . . . nor, the verb agrees with the subject that is closer to it.

EXAMPLE  The cities or the state responds to pollution complaints.

EXAMPLE  Either smoke or gases cause the smog.

In the first sentence, responds is singular because the closer subject, state, is singular. In the second sentence, gases is the closer subject. The verb is plural because the closer subject is plural.

PRACTICE  Making Subjects and Verbs Agree V

Write the complete subject. Then write the correct verb from the choices in parentheses.

1. Thomas Edison and Joseph Swan (shares, share) the credit for inventing the light bulb.
2. Both plants and animals (has, have) scientific names that indicate the group to which they belong.
3. Neither my grandparents nor my aunt (calls, call) me by my nickname.
4. The outlaws or Robin Hood (was, were) sure to win the Sheriff of Nottingham’s archery contest.
5. Either Dimitri or his sisters (gets, get) to fly to Greece to visit the family.
6. My favorite teacher and tutor (was, were) Ms. Hidaka.
7. Porthos, Athos, and Aramis (is, are) the names of the Three Musketeers.
8. Either the sandwiches or the chef’s salad (provides, provide) a good nutritional meal.
9. Zosha and her friends (brings, bring) stuffed animals to all of the sleepovers.
10. Neither the Beatles nor Elvis Presley (has, have) lost popularity with young listeners.
Rewrite the following passage, correcting errors in spelling, capitalization, grammar, and usage. Add any missing punctuation. Write legibly to be sure one letter is not mistaken for another. There are 10 mistakes.

Eldrick Woods

1. Does the name Eldrick Woods sound familiar? If not, perhaps his nickname Tiger ring a bell. 2. Tiger Woods are the first golfer of African American descent to win the Masters Tournament. 3. It remain one of the most important golf events.

20. President Kennedy hoped that Americans would land on the Moon.

10.1 DIAGRAMING SIMPLE SUBJECTS AND SIMPLE PREDICATES

The basic parts of a sentence are the subject and the predicate. To diagram a sentence, first draw a horizontal line. Then draw a vertical line that crosses the horizontal line.

To the left of the vertical line, write the simple subject. To the right of the vertical line, write the simple predicate. Use capital letters as they appear in the sentence, but don’t include punctuation.

EXAMPLE People are working.

People | are working

In a diagram, the positions of the subject and the predicate always remain the same.
EXAMPLE  Caravans rumbled across the prairie.

            Caravans | rumbled

EXAMPLE  Across the prairie rumbled caravans.

            caravans | rumbled

PRACTICE  Diagraming Simple Subjects and Simple Predicates

Diagram the simple subject and the simple predicate.

1. People change.
2. The sauce smells spicy.
3. First came the marching band.
4. Jefferson had been Washington’s secretary of state.
5. The neighbors are having a cookout.
6. Over the prairie galloped the wild horses.
7. Planes landed frequently.
8. Into the ballroom walked the beautiful princess.
9. The air is so fresh near the ocean.
10. The scientists had been searching for dinosaur bones.

10.2  DIAGRAMING THE FOUR KINDS OF SENTENCES

Study the diagrams of the simple subject and the simple predicate for the four kinds of sentences. Recall that in an interrogative sentence the subject often comes between the two parts of a verb phrase. In an imperative sentence, the simple subject is the understood you.
Notice that the positions of the simple subject and the simple predicate in a sentence diagram are always the same, regardless of the word order in the original sentence.

DECLARATIVE

EXAMPLE  People write letters.

People  |  write

INTERROGATIVE

EXAMPLE  Do many people write letters?

people  |  Do write

IMPERATIVE

EXAMPLE  Write a letter.

(you)  |  Write

EXCLAMATORY

EXAMPLE  What interesting letters you write!

you  |  write

PRACTICE  Diagraming the Four Kinds of Sentences

Diagram the simple subject and the simple predicate.

1. Call me at home tonight.
2. What a sad movie I saw!
3. Many reptiles live in the desert.
4. Forget about your problems.
5. Did Neil Armstrong make a second trip to the Moon?
6. How bold General Washington was!
7. Shall we go fishing?
8. Add these numbers.
9. The city is quiet tonight.
10. Have the tulips bloomed yet?
10.3 DIAGRAMING DIRECT AND INDIRECT OBJECTS

A direct object is part of the predicate. In a sentence diagram, write the direct object to the right of the verb. Draw a vertical line to separate the verb from the direct object. This vertical line, however, does not cross the horizontal line.

EXAMPLE  People invent machines.

         People    invent    machines
```

EXAMPLE  Students use computers.

         Students    use    computers

An indirect object is also part of the predicate. It usually tells to whom or for whom the action of a verb is done. An indirect object always comes before a direct object in a sentence. In a sentence diagram, write an indirect object on a horizontal line below and to the right of the verb. Join it to the verb with a slanted line.

EXAMPLE  Rosa gave the dog a bone.

         Rosa    gave    bone
            \   \  \\
             dog

PRACTICE  Diagraming Direct and Indirect Objects

Diagram the simple subject, the simple predicate, and the direct object. Diagram the indirect object if the sentence has one.

1. Hurricane Hugo struck South Carolina.
2. The waiter was serving the family dessert.
3. The settlers planted crops.
4. Mozart wrote over forty symphonies.
5. Canadian Indians invented the game of lacrosse.
6. The sun gave me a headache.
7. A watchdog protected the house.
8. The French gave Americans the Statue of Liberty.
9. Louis Armstrong played the trumpet.
10. Mom wrote the company a letter.

10.4 DIAGRAMING ADJECTIVES, ADVERBS, AND PREPOSITIONAL PHRASES

In a diagram, write adjectives and adverbs on slanted lines beneath the words they modify.

EXAMPLE  Elena’s strange dream faded quickly.

dream    faded strange
  Elena’s

EXAMPLE  The very old tree produced incredibly delicious apples rather slowly.

tree    produced    apples old
 The very slowly rather delicious incredibly

A prepositional phrase can be either an adjective phrase or an adverb phrase. Study the diagram for prepositional phrases.

EXAMPLE  A woman in a pink hat was sitting beside me.

woman    was sitting in
   hat
    a pink beside me

Diagram each sentence.

1. A bad winter storm destroyed the huge oak tree.
2. A tiny baby was born to the panda at the city zoo.
3. The race car driver went around the last curve too fast.
4. The very first buses were pulled by horses.
5. In 1965 Martin Luther King Jr. led a march for civil rights in Alabama.
7. The huge ocean liner makes several trips across the Atlantic each year.
8. The girls always had a delicious snack at the bakery on the corner.
9. Charles Schulz drew his popular comic strip for nearly fifty years.
10. The ship sailed around the southern coast of Africa on its way to India.

10.5 Diagraming Predicate Nouns and Predicate Adjectives

In a sentence diagram, a direct object follows the verb.

Example People use telephones.

People use telephones
To diagram a sentence with a predicate noun, write the predicate noun to the right of the linking verb. Draw a slanted line to separate the verb from the predicate noun.

EXAMPLE Telephones are useful instruments.

!Diagram of the sentence

Diagram a predicate adjective in the same way.

EXAMPLE Telephones are useful.

!Diagram of the sentence

PRACTICE Diagraming Predicate Nouns and Predicate Adjectives

Diagram each sentence.

1. The sky is clear today.
2. Elizabeth II became Queen of Great Britain in 1952.
3. The bridge seemed sturdy enough.
4. I felt rather sad on the last day of school.
5. The first assignment was a play by Shakespeare.
6. The unripe plums tasted sour.
7. Franklin Roosevelt was president for twelve years.
8. The Model T Ford was a popular car.
10. One important Roman invention was concrete.
10.6 DIAGRAMING COMPOUND SENTENCE PARTS

Coordinating conjunctions such as and, but, and or are used to join compound parts: words, phrases, or sentences. To diagram compound parts of a sentence, write the second part of the compound below the first. Write the coordinating conjunction on a dotted line connecting the two parts.

COMPOUND SUBJECT

EXAMPLE  Gas and oil heat homes.

COMPOUND PREDICATE

EXAMPLE  Babies eat and sleep.

COMPOUND DIRECT OBJECT

EXAMPLE  The bakery serves sandwiches and beverages.
COMPOUND PREDICATE NOUN OR PREDICATE ADJECTIVE

EXAMPLE  Dogs are loyal and friendly.

PRACICE  Diagraming Compound Sentence Parts

Diagram each sentence.

1. Lewis and Clark explored the Pacific coast.
2. Fishers in Maine catch lobsters and crabs.
3. The campers sail or swim.
4. Lions and tigers are larger than leopards.
5. Summers in Arizona are hot and dry.
6. Tomatoes and peppers grew in the garden.
7. His friends became bankers and lawyers.
8. The tacos were tasty but hot.
9. The Bering Strait separates Alaska and Siberia.
10. The children shouted and laughed.

10.7 DIAGRAMMING COMPOUND SENTENCES

To diagram a compound sentence, diagram each main clause separately. If the main clauses are connected by a semicolon, use a vertical dotted line to connect the verbs of the clauses. If the main clauses are connected by a conjunction such as and, but, or or, write the conjunction on a solid horizontal line and connect it to the verb in each clause with a dotted line.
EXAMPLE  James practices football after school, and on Saturdays he helps his parents at their restaurant.

James | practices | football
------|----------|--------
       | after    | school
       | and      |

he | helps | parents
----|------|--------
    | at   | his
    | on   | their
    | Saturdays |

PRACTICE  Diagraming Compound Sentences

Diagram each sentence.

1. The day had been hot, yet the evening was chilly.
2. A Siamese cat has short hair, and a Persian cat has long fluffy fur.
3. You can eat in the cafeteria, or you can take your lunch outside.
4. The Empire State Building is in New York City, and the Willis Tower is in Chicago.
5. We looked for a meteor, but we never saw one.
6. The first automobiles had engines in the rear; later models had engines in the front.
7. The garlic smelled strong, but it tasted delicious in the stew.
8. The first batter got a single; he stole second base.
9. The castle’s moat kept enemies out, and its drawbridge let friends in.
10. The winter days were warm, but it often rained.

10.8 DIAGRAMING COMPLEX SENTENCES WITH ADJECTIVE AND ADVERB CLAUSES

To diagram a sentence with an adjective clause, write the adjective clause below the main clause. Draw a dotted line between the relative pronoun in the adjective clause and the word the adjective clause modifies in the main clause. Position the relative pronoun according to its use in its own clause. In the first example, who is the subject of the verb complete. In the second example, that is the direct object of the verb watched.

ADJECTIVE CLAUSE

EXAMPLE Students who complete their assignments will surely succeed.

Students  will succeed surely who complete assignments their
```

EXAMPLE The movie that we watched was very funny.

movie was funny
  The very we watched that
```
Diagram an adverb clause below the main clause. Draw a dotted line between the verb in the adverb clause and the word the adverb clause modifies in the main clause. Then write the subordinating conjunction on the dotted connecting line.

ADVERB CLAUSE

EXAMPLE
If you complete your assignments, you will surely succeed.

        will succeed
           If

        complete assignments
```

PRACTICE
Diagraming Complex Sentences with Adjective and Adverb Clauses

Diagram each sentence.

1. Everyone left town when the nearby volcano erupted.

7. Paul McCartney wrote many songs after the Beatles broke up.
8. The book that I liked best was Jane Eyre.
9. The person who wrote it was Charlotte Brontë.
10. We played outside until the sun set.
Noun clauses can be used in sentences as subjects, direct objects, indirect objects, objects of prepositions, and predicate nouns. In the following example, the noun clause is the subject.

NOUN CLAUSE AS SUBJECT

EXAMPLE  What she told us was the simple truth.

![Diagram of noun clause as subject]

Notice that the clause is written on a “stilt” placed on the base line where the subject usually appears. The word that introduces a noun clause is diagramed according to its use within its own clause. In the noun clause in the example, the word What is the direct object. If the word that introduces the noun clause isn’t really part of either the noun clause or the main clause, write the word on its own line.

NOUN CLAUSE AS DIRECT OBJECT

EXAMPLE  Terry knows that good grades are important.

![Diagram of noun clause as direct object]
NOUN CLAUSE AS INDIRECT OBJECT

EXAMPLE  Tell whomever you see the news.

NOUN CLAUSE AS OBJECT OF A PREPOSITION

EXAMPLE  This is an example of what I mean.

NOUN CLAUSE AS PREDICATE NOUN

11.1 CAPITALIZING SENTENCES, QUOTATIONS, AND LETTER PARTS

CCSS L.6.2

A capital letter marks the beginning of a sentence. A capital letter also marks the beginning of a direct quotation and the salutation and the closing of a letter.

RULE 1 Capitalize the first word of every sentence.

EXAMPLE Many people worked for the independence of the colonies.

RULE 2 Capitalize the first word of a direct quotation that is a complete sentence. A direct quotation gives a speaker’s exact words.

EXAMPLE Travis said, “One of those people was Paul Revere.”

RULE 3 When a direct quotation is interrupted by explanatory words, such as she said, don’t begin the second part of the direct quotation with a capital letter.

EXAMPLE “I read a famous poem,” said Kim, “about Paul Revere.”

When the second part of a direct quotation is a new sentence, put a period after the explanatory words and begin the second part of the quotation with a capital letter.

EXAMPLE “I know that poem,” said Sarah. “My class read it last week.”

RULE 4 Don’t capitalize an indirect quotation. An indirect quotation does not repeat a person’s exact words and should not be enclosed in quotation marks. An indirect quotation is often introduced by the word that.

EXAMPLE The teacher said the poem was written by Longfellow.

EXAMPLE The teacher said that the poem was written by Longfellow.
Rule 5: Capitalize the first word in the salutation and the closing of a letter. Capitalize the title and the name of the person addressed.

Examples:
- Dear Mrs. Adamson, Sincerely yours,
- My dear Abigail, With love,

Note: Usually, the first word in each line of a poem is capitalized, but many modern poets don’t follow this style. When you copy a poem, use the style of the original version.

Practice: Capitalizing Sentences, Quotations, and Letter Parts

Write each sentence. Use capital letters correctly. If a sentence is already correct, write correct.

1. Colds are common illnesses that many people experience once or twice a year.
2. Chris asked, “How do you catch a cold?”
3. “I think,” said Maura, “that you catch a cold by going outside without a coat.”
4. “That is incorrect,” said Patrick. “Colds are caused by viruses, and the best way to avoid a cold is to wash your hands.”
5. There is no cure for a Cold.
6. Some vitamins can make you feel better.
7. Donna said, “A cold lasts for about one or two weeks.”
8. Jason said that he had many colds last year.
9. This year he will eat well and get enough sleep.
10. Rewrite each salutation and closing correctly.
   a. Dear Dr. Kwan, c. Yours sincerely,
   b. My dear Marcela, d. Your friend always,
11.2 CAPITALIZING NAMES AND TITLES OF PEOPLE  CCSS L.6.2

RULE 1 Capitalize the names of people and the initials that stand for their names.

EXAMPLES  Clark Kent  Susan B. Anthony  E. C. Stanton

RULE 2 Capitalize a title or an abbreviation of a title when it comes before a person’s name.

EXAMPLES  President Wilson  Dr. Martin Luther King  Ms. Ruiz

   Capitalize a title when it’s used instead of a name.

EXAMPLE  “Has the enemy surrendered, General?” asked the colonel.

   Don’t capitalize a title that follows a name or one that is used as a common noun.

EXAMPLE  Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States during World War I, supported cooperation among nations.

EXAMPLE  Who was Wilson’s vice president?

RULE 3 Capitalize the names and abbreviations of academic degrees that follow a name. Capitalize Jr. and Sr.

EXAMPLES  M. Katayama, M.D.  Janis Stein, Ph.D.  Otis Ames Jr.

RULE 4 Capitalize words that show family relationships when they’re used as titles or as substitutes for names.

EXAMPLE  Last year Father and Aunt Beth traveled to several western states.

   Don’t capitalize words that show family relationships when they follow possessive nouns or pronouns.

EXAMPLE  Jo’s uncle took photographs. My aunt Mary framed them.
RULE 5 Always capitalize the pronoun I.

EXAMPLE American history is the subject I like best.

PRACTICE Capitalizing Names and Titles of People

Write each sentence. Use capital letters correctly. If a sentence is already correct, write correct.

PRACTICE  Proofreading

Rewrite the following letter, correcting errors in spelling, capitalization, grammar, and usage. Add any missing punctuation. Write legibly to be sure one letter is not mistaken for another. There are ten mistakes.

Elvis Presley

1 dear Jenny,

2 I am enjoying my vacation in Memphis, Tennessee. 3 did you know that this is where Elvis Presley lived? 4 For a long time, he was the most popular American singer in the world. 5 I saw his home, Graceland.
Elvis was born in 1935 in Mississippi. When he was a teen, Elvis paid to make a record for his Mother’s birthday. The owner of the studio offered him a job. His first hit record was “That’s all Right, mama.” By the time he died in the Summer of 1977, he had recorded more than forty gold albums.

Best Wishes,
Colin

When you use commas to separate items, you place a comma between items. When you use commas to set off an item, you place a comma before and after the item. Of course, you never place a comma at the beginning or the end of a sentence.

RULE 1 Separate three or more words, phrases, or clauses in a series.

EXAMPLE Cars, buses, and trucks clog city streets. [words]
EXAMPLE Beside the fence, on the porch, or outside the back door is a good place for that potted plant. [phrases]
EXAMPLE Call me before you leave town, while you’re in Florida, or after you return home. [clauses]
RULE 2 Set off an introductory word such as yes, no, or well.

EXAMPLE Yes, we enjoyed your performance in the play.

EXAMPLE No, you didn’t sing off key.

RULE 3 Set off names used in direct address.

EXAMPLE Claire, have you ever traveled on a ship?

EXAMPLE I traveled to Alaska, Mr. Hess, on a cruise ship.

EXAMPLE Did you enjoy your trip down the Ohio River, Dale?

RULE 4 Set off two or more prepositional phrases at the beginning of a sentence. Set off a single long prepositional phrase at the beginning of a sentence.

EXAMPLE In the fall of 1998, Frank Jordan ran for mayor. [two prepositional phrases—In the fall and of 1998]

EXAMPLE Beneath a dozen fluttering red and blue banners, he made his campaign speech. [one long prepositional phrase—Beneath a dozen fluttering red and blue banners]

You need not set off a single short prepositional phrase, but it’s not wrong to do so.

EXAMPLE In 1998 Frank Jordan ran for mayor. [one short prepositional phrase—In 1998]

RULE 5 Set off participles and participial phrases at the beginning of a sentence.

EXAMPLE Talking, we lost track of the time.

EXAMPLE Talking on the telephone, we lost track of the time.

Set off a participial phrase that is not essential to the meaning of a sentence.

RULE 4 Use figures for numbers greater than 999,999, followed by the word million, billion, and so on, even if the number could be written in two words.
EXAMPLES 1 million 280 billion 3.2 trillion

RULE 5 Numbers of the same kind should be written in the same way. If one number must be written as a numeral, write all the numbers as numerals.
EXAMPLE On September 8, 383 students voted for the new rule, and 50 students voted against it.

RULE 6 Spell out ordinal numbers (first, second, third, and so on) under one hundred.
EXAMPLE The ninth of June will be the couple’s twenty-fourth wedding anniversary.

RULE 7 Use words to write the time of day unless you are using A.M. or P.M.
EXAMPLE I usually go for a walk at four o’clock in the afternoon. I return home at a quarter to five.
EXAMPLE The first bell rang at 8:42 A.M., and the last one rang at 3:12 P.M.
RULE 8 Use numerals to write dates, house numbers, street numbers above ninety-nine, apartment and room numbers, telephone numbers, page numbers, amounts of money of more than two words, and percentages. Write out the word percent.

EXAMPLE On June 10, 1999, I met Jan at 41 East 329th Street in Apartment 3G. Her telephone number is 555-2121.

EXAMPLE Our class meets in Room 12; 55 percent of the students are girls.

EXAMPLE I found two dollars between page 250 and page 251 in this book. The book’s original price was $12.95.

   b. She was a Shoshone Indian and the only woman on the trip.

PRETEST  Adjective and Adverb Clauses

Combine the sentences in items 21–25 by changing the new information in the second sentence to an adjective clause and adding it to the first sentence. Begin your clause with the word in brackets. Add commas if they’re needed.

Combine the sentences in items 26–30 by changing the information in one sentence to an adverb clause and adding it to the other sentence. Begin your clause with the word in brackets. Add a comma if it’s needed.

21. a. Coach Wright will speak at the assembly.
   b. Jenna will introduce him. [whom]
   b. He was considered a brilliant scientist. [who]
23. a. We took Smithfield Trail to the top of the mountain.
   b. The trail was steep and rocky. [which]
24. a. Grandma has a large collection of bottles.

   b. You became stronger.
30. a. The crowd stood in silence.
   b. The soloist sang the anthem. [as]

13.1 COMPOUND SENTENCES

When you have written a few simple sentences that are closely related in meaning, try combining them to form compound sentences. A compound sentence often states your meaning more clearly than a group of simple sentences. By using some compound sentences, you can also vary the length of your sentences.

EXAMPLE

a. Sam had three sisters.
   b. Matt had only one. [but]

Sam had three sisters, but Matt had only one.

In this example, simple sentence a is joined to simple sentence b with the coordinating conjunction but. Note that a comma is used before the conjunction.

A compound sentence is made up of two or more simple sentences. You can combine two or more simple sentences in a compound sentence by using the conjunction and, but, or or.

PRACTICE Combining Simple Sentences

Combine the sentences in each numbered item by using a comma and a coordinating conjunction. For the first three items, use the coordinating conjunction shown in brackets at the end of the first sentence.

1. a. Jamaal may play trombone in the school band. [or]
   b. He may take private lessons instead.
2. a. The hurricane season has begun. [and]
   b. Fewer people are visiting Caribbean islands.
3. a. Ellen loves Mexican food. [but]
   b. Her twin sister, Liz, prefers Italian food.
4. a. My best friend walks to school with me.
   b. I walk home with my little sister.
5. a. The audience cheered wildly.
   b. The cast bowed to them.
6. a. The lawn needs mowing.
   b. The bird feeders should be filled.
7. a. For extra space, our school might buy portable classroom units.
   b. An addition might be built.
8. a. Romana opened a tortilla stand.
   b. Soon it grew into a big business.
   b. You should be cautious around strangers.
10. a. I might make spaghetti for dinner.
    b. I might order pizza.

13.2 COMPOUND ELEMENTS  CCSS L.6.3a

Sometimes several sentences share information—for example, the same subject or verb. By combining such sentences and using compound elements, you can avoid repeating words. Sentences with compound elements also add variety to your writing.

EXAMPLE  a. Helen wore a purple dress.
           b. She carried a red handbag. [and]

Helen wore a purple dress and carried a red handbag.

Sentences a and b share information about Helen. The combined version takes the new information from sentence b, carried a red handbag, and joins it to sentence a, using the coordinating conjunction and.

You can avoid repeating information by using compound elements. Join compound elements with the conjunctions and, but, or or.
Combining Sentences with Compound Elements

Combine the sentences in each numbered item by using a coordinating conjunction to form a compound element. Add the new information from the second sentence to the first sentence. For the first three items, the new information is in italics, and the conjunction you should use is shown in brackets at the end of the first sentence.

1. a. Our group picked up paper in the ditch. [and]
   b. We also picked up cans in the ditch.
2. a. I found the right glove. [but]
   b. I did not find the left one.
3. a. Conchita wanted to make jewelry. [or]
   b. She wanted to make greeting cards.
4. a. Mom’s new pin is made of carved wood.
   b. It is also made of seashells.
5. a. This morning we may visit the Empire State Building.
   b. We may visit the Statue of Liberty.
6. a. Mr. Takemoto has a passport.
   b. He does not have a driver’s license.
7. a. My room was now neat.
   b. It was clean.
8. a. Janice could wear the red shoes with that dress.
   b. She could wear the black shoes with that dress.
   b. Jean also graded papers for the teacher.
10. a. Mr. Hammerlink gave Pedro a hall pass.
    b. He also gave Winnie a hall pass.

13.3 PREPOSITIONAL PHRASES CCSS L.6.3a

Prepositional phrases are useful in sentence combining. Like adjectives and adverbs, they present more information about nouns and verbs. Because prepositional phrases show relationships, they can often express complicated ideas effectively.
EXAMPLE

a. The family took a trip.

b. It was a hot summer day. [on]

c. They went to the beach.

On a hot summer day, the family took a trip to the beach.

The new information in sentence b is added to sentence a as a prepositional phrase, and the new information in sentence c is moved to sentence a. In the new sentence, the prepositional phrase On a hot summer day modifies the verb, took. The phrase to the beach modifies the noun trip. Notice that a prepositional phrase that modifies a noun follows the noun it modifies. Prepositional phrases that modify verbs can occupy different positions in a sentence. (For a list of common prepositions, see page 174.)

A prepositional phrase is a group of words that begins with a preposition and ends with a noun or a pronoun. Prepositional phrases most often modify nouns and verbs.

PRACTICE

Combining Sentences with Prepositional Phrases

Combine the sentences in each numbered item by adding the prepositional phrase from the second sentence to the first sentence. For the first three items, the prepositional phrase in the second sentence is shown in italics. In the last item, you will need to combine three sentences.

1. a. The custard shop is very popular.
   b. The custard shop is in our town.

2. a. We found it hard to swim.
   b. We were swimming against the current.

3. a. Several wild horses were running.
   b. They were on the beach.

   b. She teaches at the YMCA.
5. a. My brother got his acceptance letter today.
   b. The letter was from Yale.
   b. She leapt onto the refrigerator.
7. a. The cross-country race was held Saturday.
   b. The race was at Annie’s Woods.
8. a. My best friend is moving.
   b. He is moving to Spokane, Washington.
9. a. There will be a surprise birthday party.
   b. The party is for Ahmed.
10. a. Here is an interesting article.
    b. It is about ice fishing.
    c. It is in the Tribune.

13.4 APPOSITIVES  CCSS L.6.3a

Appositives and appositive phrases identify or rename nouns. Using appositives is another way to vary the length and structure of sentences and to make writing more interesting.

EXAMPLE
   a. Maya Lin designed the Vietnam Veterans Memorial.
   b. She was an architecture student.

Maya Lin, an architecture student, designed the Vietnam Veterans Memorial.

The appositive phrase an architecture student identifies the noun Maya Lin. Note that the appositive phrase is set off with commas because it gives nonessential information about Maya Lin. If an appositive or an appositive phrase gives information that is essential for identifying a noun, it’s not set off with commas. (For more information about appositives, see pages 89–90.)

An appositive is a noun placed next to another noun to identify it or give additional information about it. An appositive phrase includes an appositive and other words that modify it.
Combine the sentences in each numbered item by changing the new information in the second sentence to an appositive or an appositive phrase and adding it to the first sentence. For the first three items, the appositive or appositive phrase in the second sentence is shown in italics. Add commas where they’re needed.

1. a. John F. Kennedy was killed by an assassin’s bullet in November 1963.
   b. He was the thirty-fifth U.S. president.
2. a. Bella Washington is running for city council.
   b. She is my favorite aunt.
3. a. Secretariat was one of the greatest racehorses ever.
   b. He was a powerful thoroughbred.
4. a. Chlorophyll allows a plant to make food.
   b. Chlorophyll is a green pigment in plant cells.
5. a. The Nile River runs through Egypt.
   b. It is the longest river in the world.
6. a. The gerbil is a popular pet.
   b. It is a burrowing desert rodent.
7. a. Our car is parked in row 3G.
   b. Our car is a deluxe sedan.
8. a. I have to find my lucky charm.
   b. It is a 1938 penny.
9. a. The Chicago Cubs play their home games at Wrigley Field.
   b. Wrigley Field is an open-air baseball park.
10. a. Julia has twelve years of experience.
    b. She is the news anchor for WBLR.

13.5 ADJECTIVE AND ADVERB CLAUSES
CCSS L.6.3a

When two sentences share information, one of the sentences can often be made into an adjective clause modifying a word in the other sentence.
EXAMPLE  a. Carla and Darla entered the dance contest.
   b. Carla and Darla are identical twins. [who . . .] Carla and Darla, who are identical twins, entered the dance contest.

The new information (in blue type) in sentence b becomes an adjective clause modifying Carla and Darla. Who now connects the clauses. Notice the commas in the new sentence. Adjective clauses that add nonessential information are set off with commas. Those that add essential information are not. (For more information about adjective clauses, see page 195.)

An adjective clause is a subordinate clause that modifies a noun or a pronoun in the main clause. A relative pronoun, such as who, whom, whose, which, or that, is used to tie the adjective clause to the main clause. The words where and when can also be used as connectors.

You can also use adverb clauses to combine sentences. Adverb clauses are especially effective in showing relationships between actions. For example, an adverb clause can show when one action takes place in relation to another.

EXAMPLE  a. Lee read a great deal as a boy.
   b. He was recovering from an accident. [while] Lee read a great deal as a boy while he was recovering from an accident.

In the new sentence, the adverb clause while he was recovering from an accident modifies the verb read. The adverb clause tells when Lee read a great deal. Note that the subordinating conjunction while makes the relationship between the two actions clear. An adverb clause may occupy different positions within a sentence. If it begins the sentence, it’s followed by a comma. (For more information about adverb clauses, see pages 198–199.)
An adverb clause is a subordinate clause that often modifies the verb in the main clause. Adverb clauses are introduced by subordinating conjunctions, such as after, although, as, because, before, if, since, unless, until, when, whenever, where, wherever, and while.

PRACTICE Combining Sentences with Adjective and Adverb Clauses

Combine the sentences in items 1–5 by changing the new information in the second sentence to an adjective clause and adding it to the first sentence. For items 1–3, the new information in the second sentence is shown in italics. Begin your clause with the word in brackets. Add commas if they’re needed.

Combine the sentences in items 6–10 by changing the information in one sentence to an adverb clause and adding it to the other sentence. Begin your clause with the word in brackets. Add a comma if it’s needed.

1. a. Leonardo da Vinci designed a flying device.
   b. The device was ingenious but impractical. [that]

14.1  SPELLING RULES  CCSS L.6.2b

English spelling often seems to make no sense. Usually there are historical reasons for the spellings we use today, but you don’t need to study the history of the English language to spell correctly. The rules in this section work most of the time, but there are exceptions to every rule. When you’re not sure how to spell a word, the best thing to do is check a dictionary.

Spelling ie and ei

An easy way to learn when to use ie and when to use ei is to memorize a simple rhyming rule. Then learn the common exceptions to the rule.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>RULE</th>
<th>EXAMPLES</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>WRITE / BEFORE E</td>
<td>achieve, believe, brief, chief, die, field, friend, grief, lie, niece, piece, pier, quiet, retrieve, tie, yield</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>EXCEPT AFTER C</td>
<td>ceiling, conceit, conceive, deceit, deceive, receipt, receive</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>OR WHEN SOUNDED LIKE A, AS IN NEIGHBOR AND WEIGH.</td>
<td>eight, eighty, freight, neigh, reign, sleigh, veil, vein, weigh, weight</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Some exceptions: caffeine, either, foreign, forfeit, height, heir, leisure, neither, protein, seize, species, their, weird; words ending in cient (ancient) and cience (conscience); plurals of nouns ending in cy (democracies); the third-person singular form of verbs ending in cy (fancies); words in which i and e follow c but represent separate sounds (science, society)

Words Ending in cede, ceed, and sede

The only English word ending in sede is supersede. Three words end in ceed: proceed, exceed, and succeed. You can remember these three words by thinking of the following sentence.

EXAMPLE If you proceed to exceed the speed limit, you will succeed in getting a ticket.

All other words ending with the “seed” sound are spelled with cede: precede, recede, sedcede.
Adding Prefixes

Adding prefixes is easy. Keep the spelling of the root word and add the prefix. If the last letter of the prefix is the same as the first letter of the word, keep both letters.

- un- + happy = unhappy
- dis- + appear = disappear
- re- + enlist = reenlist
- mis- + spell = misspell
- co- + operate = cooperate
- il- + legal = illegal
- un- + natural = unnatural
- im- + migrate = immigrate

Adding Suffixes

When you add a suffix beginning with a vowel, double the final consonant if the word ends in a single consonant following a single vowel and

- the word has one syllable
  - mud + -y = muddy
  - put + -ing = putting
  - sad + -er = sadder
  - stop + -ed = stopped
- the word is stressed on the last syllable and the stress remains on the same syllable after the suffix is added
  - occur + -ence = occurrence
  - regret + -able = regrettable
  - begin + -ing = beginning
  - repel + -ent = repellant
  - commit + -ed = committed
  - refer + -al = referral

Don’t double the final letter if the word ends in s, w, x, or y: buses, rowing, waxy, employer.
Don’t double the final consonant before the suffix -ist if the word has more than one syllable: druggist but violinist, guitarist.
Adding suffixes to words that end in \( y \) can cause spelling problems. Study these rules and note the exceptions.

When a word ends in a vowel and \( y \), keep the \( y \).

- play + -s = plays
- obey + -ed = obeyed
- buy + -ing = buying
- employ + -er = employer
- joy + -ful = joyful
- joy + -less = joyless

SOME EXCEPTIONS:
- gay + -ly = gaily, day + -ly = daily,
- pay + -d = paid, lay + -d = laid, say + -d = said

When a word ends in a consonant and \( y \), change the \( y \) to \( i \) before any suffix that doesn’t begin with \( i \). Keep the \( y \) before suffixes that begin with \( i \).

- carry + -es = carries
- dry + -ed = dried
- easy + -er = easier
- merry + -ly = merrily
- happy + -ness = happiness
- beauty + -ful = beautiful
- fury + -ous = furious
- defy + -ant = defiant
- vary + -ation = variation

- deny + -al = denial
- rely + -able = reliable
- mercy + -less = merciless
- likely + -hood = likelihood
- accompany + -ment =
- beauty + -ful = beautiful
- fury + -ous = furious
- defy + -ant = defiant
- vary + -ation = variation

SOME EXCEPTIONS:
- shy + -ly = shyly, dry + -ly = dryly, shy + -ness = shyness, dry + -ness = dryness, biology + -ist = biologist,
- economy + -ist = economist, baby + -hood = babyhood
Usually a final silent e is dropped before a suffix, but sometimes it’s kept. The following chart shows the basic rules for adding suffixes to words that end in silent e.

Adding Suffixes to Words That End in Silent e, continued

Rule Examples

Some exceptions
- awe + -ful = awful
- judge + -ment = judgment
- argue + -ment = argument
- true + -ly = truly
- due + -ly = duly
- whole + -ly = wholly

Drop le before the suffix -ly when the word ends with a consonant and le.
- possible + -ly = possibly
- sniffle + -ly = sniffly
- sparkle + -ly = sparkly
- gentle + -ly = gently

When a word ends in ll, drop one l when you add the suffix -ly.
- dull + -ly = dully
- chill + -ly = chilly
- full + -ly = fully
- hill + -ly = hilly

Compound Words

Keep the original spelling of both parts of a compound word.

Remember that some compounds are one word, some are two words, and some are hyphenated. Check a dictionary when in doubt.

- foot + lights = footlights
- busy + body = busybody
- book + case = bookcase
- light + house = lighthouse
- fish + hook = fishhook
- with + hold = withhold
- book + keeper = bookkeeper
- heart + throb = heartthrob

Spelling Plurals

A singular noun names one person, place, thing, or idea. A plural noun names more than one. To form the plural of most nouns, you simply add -s. The following chart shows other basic rules.
General Rules for Forming Plurals

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Nouns Ending In</th>
<th>To Form Plural</th>

</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| ch, s, sh, x, z | Add -es. | lunch → lunches
|                  |              | bus → buses
|                  |              | dish → dishes
|                  |              | box → boxes
|                  |              | buzz → buzzes |
| A vowel and y | Add -s. | boy → boys
|                  |              | turkey → turkeys |
| A consonant and y | Change y to i and add -es. | baby → babies
|                  |              | penny → pennies |
| A vowel and o | Add -s. | radio → radios
|                  |              | rodeo → rodeos |
| A consonant and o | Usually add -es. | potato → potatoes
|                  |              | tomato → tomatoes
|                  |              | hero → heroes
|                  |              | echo → echoes |
|                  | Sometimes add -s. | zero → zeros
|                  |              | photo → photos
|                  |              | piano → pianos |
| f or fe | Usually change f to v and add -s or -es. | wife → wives
|                  |              | knife → knives
|                  |              | life → lives
|                  |              | leaf → leaves
|                  |              | half → halves
|                  |              | shelf → shelves
|                  |              | wolf → wolves
|                  |              | thief → thieves |
|                  | Sometimes add -s. | roof → roofs
|                  |              | chief → chiefs
|                  |              | cliff → cliffs
|                  |              | giraffe → giraffes |
The plurals of proper names are formed by adding -es to names that end in ch, s, sh, x, or z.

EXAMPLE The Woodriches live on Elm Street.

EXAMPLE There are two Jonases in our class.

EXAMPLE Have you met your new neighbors, the Gomezes?

Just add -s to form the plural of all other proper names, including those that end in y.

EXAMPLE The Kennedys are a famous American family.

EXAMPLE I know three Marys.

EXAMPLE The last two Januarys have been especially cold.

To form the plural of a compound noun written as one word, follow the general rules for plurals. To form the plural of hyphenated compound nouns or compound nouns of more than one word, usually make the most important word plural.

EXAMPLE A dozen mailboxes stood in a row at the entrance to the housing development.

EXAMPLE The two women’s fathers-in-law have never met.

EXAMPLE The three post offices are made of brick.

Some nouns have irregular plural forms that don’t follow any rules.

- man → men
- woman → women
- child → children
- foot → feet
- tooth → teeth
- mouse → mice
- goose → geese
- ox → oxen
Some nouns have the same singular and plural forms. Most of these are the names of animals, and some of the plural forms may be spelled in more than one way.

dereer → deer sheep → sheep
head (cattle) → head Sioux → Sioux series → series species → species
fish → fish or fishes
antelope → antelope or antelopes buffalo → buffalo or buffaloes or buffalos

PRACTICE  Spelling Rules

Find the misspelled word in each group and write it correctly.

1. piece, ceiling, wierd
2. fastest, sitter, recurring
3. boxes, oxes, foxes
4. concede, recede, procede
5. obeyed, fryed, enjoyed
6. Februarys, Aldrichs, Sallys
7. shoveing, crying, poised
8. bedroom, handhold, lifline
9. brunchs, crannies, leaves
10. dissapoint, impossible, unnecessary

14.2 IMPROVING YOUR SPELLING  CCSS L.6.2b

You can improve your spelling by improving your study method. You can also improve your spelling by thoroughly learning certain common but frequently misspelled words.
HOW TO STUDY A WORD

By following a few simple steps, you can learn to spell new words. Pay attention to unfamiliar or hard-to-spell words in your reading. As you write, note words that you have trouble spelling. Then use the steps below to learn to spell those difficult words.

1. Say It
   Look at the word and say it aloud. Say it again, pronouncing each syllable clearly.

2. See It
   Close your eyes. Picture the word in your mind. Visualize the word letter by letter.

3. Write It
   Look at the word again and write it two or three times. Then write the word without looking at the printed spelling.

4. Check It
   Check your spelling. Did you spell the word correctly? If not, repeat each step until you can spell the word easily.

Get into the habit of using a dictionary to find the correct spelling of a word. How do you find a word if you can’t spell it? Write down letters and letter combinations that could stand for the sound you hear at the beginning of the word. Try these possible spellings as you look for the word in a dictionary.
SPELLING PROBLEM WORDS

The following words are often misspelled. Look for your problem words in the list. What words would you add to the list?

8. We usually pack a veriety of picnick items.
9. The traffic was incredably heavy last Wensday.
10. I did not recieve a receipt from the attendent.
14.3 USING CONTEXT CLUES

The surest way to learn the meaning of a new word is to use a dictionary. However, you won’t always have a dictionary handy. You can often figure out the meaning of an unfamiliar word by looking for clues in the words and sentences around it. These surrounding words and sentences are called the context.

USING SPECIFIC CONTEXT CLUES

Writers often give clues to the meaning of unfamiliar words. Sometimes they even tell you exactly what a word means. The following chart shows five types of specific context clues. It also gives examples of words that help you identify the type of context clue.

USING GENERAL CONTEXT

Sometimes there are no special clue words to help you understand an unfamiliar word. However, you can still use the general context. That is, you can use the details in the words or sentences around the unfamiliar word. Read the following sentences:

Joel was chosen student liaison to the faculty. Everyone hoped his appointment would improve communication between the students and the teachers.
The first sentence tells you that Joel is serving as a kind of connection between the students and the faculty. The word communication helps you figure out that being a liaison means acting as a line of communication between two groups.

PRACTICE Using Context Clues

Use context clues to figure out the meaning of the italicized word. Write the meaning. Then write definition, example, comparison, contrast, cause and effect, or general to tell what type of context clue you used to define the word.

1. Meredith was ecstatic about her performance; Milly, on the other hand, was bitterly disappointed.
2. Because clouds had obscured the sky all day, we feared we would not get to view the eclipse.
3. The police arrived to quiet down the clamor at the party across the street.
4. Like an over-inflated balloon, the obese pig waddled out of its pen.
5. The castaway had not shaved for two years; consequently, his beard was extremely scraggly.
6. The captain stood at the helm, which is the big wheel used for steering, as the tall ship left the harbor.
7. People had said that Miss Brill never cracked a smile, but we found her quite jovial.
8. Our club contributes money to benevolent causes, such as food programs, homeless shelters, hospitals, and international aid organizations.
9. He is so loquacious that you will be lucky to get a word in edgewise.
10. The driver of the car was angry and aggressive; the motorcyclist was similarly bellicose.
14.4 ROOTS, PREFIXES, AND SUFFIXES

You can often figure out the meaning of an unfamiliar word by dividing it into parts. The main part of the word is called the root, and it carries the word’s basic meaning. A root is often a word by itself. For example, read is a word. When a prefix or a suffix is added to it, read becomes a root, as in unreadable.

Prefixes and suffixes can be added to a root to change its meaning. A prefix is added to the beginning of a root. A suffix is added to the end of a root. A word can have both a prefix and a suffix: un + read + able = unreadable.

ROOTS

The root of a word carries the main meaning. Some roots, like read, can stand alone. Other roots may have parts added to make a complete word. For example, the root port (“carry”) by itself is a place to which ships carry goods. Combined with a prefix, it can become report, deport, or transport. Add a suffix and you can get reporter, deportment, or transportation.

Learning the meanings of common roots can help you figure out the meanings of many unfamiliar words. The following chart shows some common roots.

Prefixes

The following chart shows some prefixes and their meanings. Notice that some prefixes, such as dis-, in-, non-,, and un-, have the same or nearly the same meaning. A single prefix may have more than one meaning. The prefix in- for example, can mean “into,” as in inject, as well as “not” as in indirect. The prefix re- can mean “again” or “back.”

Note that il-, im-, in-,, and ir- are variations of the same prefix. Il- is used before roots that begin with l (illegal); im- is used before roots that begin with m (immature); and ir- is used before roots that begin with r (irregular). In- is used before all other letters.

Suffixes

A suffix added to a word can change the word’s part of speech as well as its meaning. For example, adding the suffix -er to read (a verb) makes reader (a noun). Adding -less to faith (a noun) makes faithless (an adjective).

The following chart shows some common suffixes and their meanings. Notice that some suffixes, such as -er, -or, and -ist, have the same or nearly the same meaning. A single suffix may have more than one meaning. The suffix -er, for example, can also mean “more,” as in bigger.

Notice that sometimes the spelling of a word changes when a suffix is added. For example, when -ous is added to fury, the y in fury changes to i. See pages 289–292 to learn more about spelling words with suffixes.

More than one suffix can be added to a single word. The following examples show how suffixes can change a single root word.

- peace [noun]
- peace + ful = peaceful [adjective]
- peace + ful + ly = peacefully [adverb]
- peace + ful + ness = peacefulness [noun]
PRACTICE  Roots, Prefixes, and Suffixes

Divide the following words. Write their parts in three columns headed prefix, root, and suffix. In a fourth column, write another word that has the same prefix or the same suffix or both. Then write a definition for each word.

2. predictable
3. interdental
4. ungrateful
5. biannual
6. submergible
7. coworker
8. misdirection
9. antidepressant

<th>Chapter 21</th>
<th>MLA Style Guide</th>

</table>

The time to begin writing an article is when you have finished it to your satisfaction. By that time you begin to clearly and logically perceive what it is you really want to say.

—Mark Twain
Look around you. Magazines, newspapers, books, posters, letters, e-mails, blogs, radio and television programs—almost anything you read, see, or hear can include persuasion. Persuasion is writing that tries to convince readers, listeners, or viewers to think, feel, or act in a certain way. An argument is a type of persuasive writing that uses logic and reasoning to do this.

Good persuasive writing fits the form of the genre, addresses your purpose, and catches and holds the attention of your audience.

- The genre is the writing mode, such as essay, story, poem, or play.
- Your purpose is your reason for writing. In a persuasive essay, your purpose is to convince your audience to think or act in a particular way.
- The audience includes the people who will read your essay. CCSS W.6.4

Often persuasive writing begins by stating the writer’s goal or purpose. Then the writer includes evidence—information to support that goal. Strong supporting evidence makes the reader think or feel a certain way. Finally, the writer usually includes a reminder of what the audience should do or think.
The instruction on the pages that follow will guide you through the process of writing a persuasive essay and meeting the Common Core State Standards for persuasive, or argumentative, writing. For a list of the writing and grammar Common Core State Standards, see pages 431–438. CCSS W.6.10

15.1 PLAN

Graphic Organizers

During the Plan stage, you will gather and organize writing ideas. To help you do this, you may wish to use a graphic organizer, such as the Persuasive Essay Map on page 373.

Identify Your Position

Write the topic or issue that you want readers of your persuasive essay to think about or act on. A topic is a general subject you wish to write about. An issue is a subject under discussion or consideration.

Next, think about your position on the topic or issue. Your position, or claim, is the opinion that you will try to persuade your audience to accept or the action you will try to persuade your audience to take.

The statement you make about your position will be the controlling idea, or thesis, of your essay. A controlling idea is usually stated in one or two sentences. Your controlling idea is related to your purpose and audience. Remember that your purpose is your reason for writing. Your audience includes the people who will read your essay.

To identify your position, ask yourself:

- What do I want my audience to think about the topic?
- What actions do I want my audience to take after reading my essay?

Write one or two sentences explaining your position on the topic. These sentences will be the controlling idea, or thesis, of your essay. CCSS W.6.1a

Chapter 15 Persuasive Essay 313
Gather Reasons and Evidence

One way to build an argument is to identify clear reasons and relevant evidence that you will use to support your controlling idea. Clear reasons explain why someone should accept your position, or claim. Relevant evidence addresses your claim through facts, expert opinions, and examples that are directly related to your argument.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>TYPE OF RELEVANT EVIDENCE</th>
<th>DEFINITION</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Fact</td>
<td>a statement that can be proved to be true</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Opinion</td>
<td>what someone believes, based on his or her personal viewpoint; opinions cannot be proven true or false</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Example</td>
<td>an instance that serves as an illustration or sample</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Begin by listing evidence you know from your own experience or background. Then gather more information from

- community newsletters
- newspaper and magazine articles
- credible Web sites
- interviews with experts

Make sure each source you use is credible. A credible source presents current, or up to date, information on the topic and is written by an authority or expert who knows a lot about the topic. A credible source presents information objectively and names other sources to back up information.

List your evidence clearly. Take notes about how your evidence supports your position and controlling idea. Then identify whether each piece of evidence is a fact, an opinion, or an example. CCSS W.6.1a, b

Composition
Consider Alternative Positions

In order to create strong arguments, writers of persuasive essays must anticipate, or make guesses about, opinions other than their own. Think about your topic, position, and audience. Then anticipate the views, concerns, and counter-arguments that others might have about your topic.

<table>

</tbody>
</table>

Take notes about how you would respond to your readers’ views, concerns, and counter-arguments. CCSS W.6.1a

15.2 DRAFT

Write the Introduction

Write your introductory, or opening, paragraph. Your introduction should

- grab your readers’ attention
- introduce your focus or topic
- state your controlling idea, or thesis
- briefly explain why your audience should care about the issue CCSS W.6.1a

Write the Body: Organize Your Ideas

Use your planning notes to write the body, or main paragraphs, of your essay. In the body, guide and inform your readers’ understanding of your main ideas. To show your understanding of the topic, relate each paragraph to your controlling idea. Be sure that each paragraph clearly expresses one main idea and only includes details that support the idea.

You will want to organize your ideas and evidence clearly and logically so readers can identify your claim, counterarguments, and supporting reasons and evidence. You might use one of the following organizational strategies:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STRATEGY</th>
<th>DEFINITION</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Order of importance</td>
<td>to put the most important information first or last</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cause and effect</td>
<td>to describe an event or action and what results from it</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Comparison and contrast</td>
<td>to describe similarities and differences between things or ideas</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The organizational strategy you use should create a focused and coherent essay. An essay is focused and coherent when each paragraph clearly expresses a main idea and supporting details that relate to the controlling idea, or thesis. CCSS W.6.1a, b

Writing Tip

As you write, be sure to use and maintain a formal style. In formal writing, you usually write from the third-person point of view and avoid using slang, contractions, and conversational language. CCSS W.6.1d
Write the Body: Link the Ideas

Use transitions to link the main idea and supporting details in a paragraph. Also use transitions to help the reader understand how each new paragraph relates to the argument. Transitions are words, phrases, and clauses that show how ideas, such as your claim and counter-arguments, and evidence, such as facts, opinions, and examples, are related. The chart that follows shows some transitions you can use to clearly link your ideas. CCSS W.6.1c

<table>
<thead>
<tr>

<td>as a result, consequently, for, so, so that, then, therefore, thus</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sequence</td>
<td>after, as, before, next, since, then, until, when, while</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Write the Conclusion

Write an effective conclusion to your essay. An effective conclusion follows from and supports the argument you are making. The conclusion should

- restate your controlling idea, or thesis
- summarize your main ideas
- encourage readers to agree with your position
- encourage readers to take action CCSS W.6.1e
15.3 REVISE

Introduction to Revision

The word revise means “to see again.” To revise your essay, you will look at it again to make sure that it is clear and well organized and that it accomplishes your goal. You will focus on the development, organization, and style of your writing by applying these four revision strategies:

- Add details to make your main point clearer.
- Delete unnecessary words or ideas.
- Replace boring or overused words with precise language that is more exact and strong.
- Rearrange or combine phrases and sentences so your ideas and supporting details are presented logically.

Use these revision strategies with the questions and checklists that follow. The questions will help you think about how well your essay addresses the genre as well as your purpose and audience. CCSS W.6.4, W.6.5

Focus and Coherence

Ask yourself:

✓ Does my essay have a clear focus?

✓ Does each paragraph relate to the controlling idea, or thesis?

✓ Do all parts work together so that my argument is clear and persuasive for readers?

Organization

Ask yourself:

✓ Does the introduction present my controlling idea, or thesis?

✓ Does the body follow a logical order?

✓ Does the conclusion follow from and support my argument? CCSS W.6.1a, b, e
Development of Ideas
Ask yourself:
✓ Does the essay show my understanding of the topic?
✓ Do my body paragraphs develop my claims and counter-arguments fairly?
✓ Does each paragraph give clear reasons and relevant evidence to support the paragraph’s claim or counter-argument?
✓ Are my reasons and evidence compiled from credible sources? CCSS W.6.1b

Voice—Word Choice
Ask yourself:
✓ Does my essay include precise language?
✓ Does my essay include transitions that clarify the relationships between ideas in sentences and paragraphs?
✓ Does my essay include formal language from beginning to end? CCSS W.6.1c, d

Voice—Sentence Fluency
Ask yourself:
✓ Does my essay include a mix of short sentences and long sentences that make the paragraphs interesting to read?
✓ Have I made my sentences more interesting by combining some of them, using prepositional phrases, appositive phrases, and adjective and adverb clauses?
✓ Does my writing include a consistent style and tone that make it flow smoothly? CCSS L.6.3a, b

Revising Tip
As you revise, use a thesaurus to find exactly the right words to communicate your ideas. Vary your words and sentences to avoid wordiness and redundancy, or words and sentences that say the same thing twice. CCSS L.6.3b
15.4 EDIT

Correct Errors in Grammar

Editing involves correcting errors in grammar, usage, mechanics, and spelling. Begin editing by taking a careful look at your sentences. Make sure that each sentence states a complete thought and is grammatically correct. Use the checklist below to edit your sentences. CCSS W.6.5, L.6.1

Sentence-Editing Checklist

Ask yourself:
✓ Have I avoided sentence fragments?
✓ Have I avoided run-on sentences?
✓ Do verbs agree with their subjects?
✓ Have I used verb tenses and forms correctly?
✓ Have I used pronouns in the proper case (subjective, objective, possessive)?
✓ Have I correctly used intensive pronouns (yourself, yourselves) for emphasis?
✓ Have I used adjectives and adverbs correctly?
✓ Are my sentences parallel so that elements that have the same function in a sentence are written in the same form or verb tense? CCSS L.6.1a, b
Correct Errors in Mechanics and Spelling

Next, check for and correct any errors in mechanics (punctuation and capitalization) and spelling. Use the proofreading checklist below to edit your essay. You should also use a dictionary to check and confirm spellings. CCSS L.6.2, b

Proofreading Checklist

Ask yourself:
✓ Have I used correct punctuation?
✓ Have I written possessives correctly?
✓ Have I spelled all words correctly?
✓ Have I used capital letters as needed?

Peer and Teacher Review

After you have revised and edited your essay yourself, you will revise it through peer review and teacher review. During peer review, you will share your writing with a partner or classmates. Then you will discuss how to improve your writing. During teacher review, you will give your essay to your teacher. Your teacher will read it and suggest how you can make your essay better. The ideas and opinions of your peers and teacher will tell you whether you’re achieving your goals.

You can use the Peer Review Guide on page 382 to respond to a classmate’s writing. CCSS W.6.5, L.6.1e
Now that you have written and polished your essay, you will publish and present it. This is the stage when you share your final essay with others. You may wish to consider the following publishing and presenting options. Some of these options require you to collaborate with your classmates and use technology:

- Submit your essay to your school newspaper.
- Send your essay as a letter to an appropriate Web site or online newspaper.
- Present your essay orally in a small group.
- Create a blog and use your essay to start an online class debate. CCSS W.6.6

Reflecting on, or thinking about, your own writing can help you improve your writing skills. Use the Reflection Guide on page 383 to reflect on the writing you did in this workshop.
The goal of expository writing is to explain or inform. There are many types of expository writing, such as essays, research reports, and magazine articles. A response essay is also a type of expository writing. In a response essay, you write a personal response that explains and defends your interpretation, or understanding, of something you have read.

Good expository writing fits the form of the genre, addresses your purpose, and catches and holds the attention of your audience.

- The genre is the writing mode, such as essay, story, poem, or play.
- The purpose is your reason for writing. In a response essay, your purpose is to explain and defend your interpretation of a literary or expository text.
- The audience includes the people who will read your essay. CCSS W.6.4

Writing a response essay involves careful thought, planning, and organization. The instruction on the pages that follow will guide you through the process of writing a response essay and meeting the Common Core State Standards for informative/explanatory writing. For a list of the writing and grammar Common Core State Standards, see pages 431–438. CCSS W.6.10
16.1 PLAN

Graphic Organizers
During the Plan stage, you will gather and organize writing ideas. To do this, you may wish to use a graphic organizer, such as the Evidence Chart on page 374.

Identify Your Controlling Idea
Choose a literary or expository selection that you would like to respond to in an essay. Think about the text, your reaction to it, and the topic you wish to discuss. The topic is the general subject you wish to write about. The main point you want to make about the topic will be the controlling idea, or thesis, of your essay. Sum up the controlling idea in one or two sentences. When you draft your essay, you will give details and examples from the text to support your controlling idea. CCSS W.6.2a

Writing Tip
In the Plan stage, your controlling idea is a starting point. As you gather evidence and draft your essay, you can narrow or broaden your controlling idea. CCSS W.6.2a

Gather Evidence
Look in the selection for evidence that supports your controlling idea. Evidence includes facts, definitions, details, quotations, examples, and other information that provide proof in support of your main point. For example, if you are analyzing the author’s style, you might look for sentences that help create a specific tone. Style is a writer’s personal way of using language. The tone expresses the writer’s feelings and attitude toward a topic or theme.

With your controlling idea in mind, write evidence from the text that you will include in your response. Explain how the evidence supports your controlling idea. CCSS W.6.2b, W.6.9a, b
Synthesize Ideas

When you synthesize ideas, you combine ideas to create a new idea or reach a new understanding. You may synthesize ideas from several sources in order to support your controlling idea and key points. Sources may include

- personal experience
- books, stories, essays, and articles
- Web sites

Continue recording evidence. Take notes about the related ideas from your sources. Then synthesize these ideas with details from the text. After you synthesize, you may need to revise your controlling idea. CCSS W.6.2b, W.6.9a, b

16.2 DRAFT

Write the Introduction

When you write your draft, your goal is to organize the evidence you have gathered into unified paragraphs. The introduction is the opening paragraph of your essay. An effective introduction grabs the readers’ attention and tells what your essay is about. It also states your controlling idea and sets the tone.

The art of communicating your thoughts and feelings effectively through words is called rhetoric. You might begin your response essay with a rhetorical element to grab your readers’ attention from the start. The chart on the next page describes various rhetorical elements you might use.
ELEMENT | DEFINITION
--- | ---
Quotation | well-chosen words from the selection
Description | words that describe a setting, character, person, or event by appealing to the senses
Rhetorical question | a question to which no answer is expected
Anecdote | a brief story based on an interesting or amusing event from a person’s life
Analogy | a comparison between two things that may not be similar
Parallelism | the use of a series of words, phrases, or sentences that have similar grammatical structure
Repetition | the repeated use of a word, phrase, sound, or other part of a text

Write your introduction. You might freewrite several introductions using different rhetorical elements before deciding on the best introduction. Freewriting means just what it says: writing freely without worrying about grammar, punctuation, spelling, logic, or anything. You just write what comes to your mind. Choose a rhetorical element and set a time limit for freewriting your introduction. Then just start writing ideas as they come to you. CCSS W.6.2a

Write the Body Paragraphs

In the body, or main paragraphs, of your essay, you guide and inform your readers’ understanding of your key ideas. Each paragraph includes a topic sentence that states the key idea of the paragraph. The rest of the paragraph includes facts, definitions, concrete details, quotations, examples, and other information that support the topic sentence. Similarly, each topic sentence should support the controlling idea of the paper.

Writing Tip

An essay is focused and coherent when each paragraph clearly relates to the controlling idea, or thesis. Make sure the key idea and supporting facts and details you include in each paragraph relate to your controlling idea. CCSS W.6.2b, W.6.9a, b

After you write the body paragraphs, organize them using a logical structure. You may use one of the strategies in the following chart. CCSS W.6.2a, b

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STRATEGY</th>
<th>DEFINITION</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Order of importance</td>
<td>to explain the most important ideas first or last</td>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cause and effect</td>
<td>to describe an event and what results from it</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sequence of events</td>
<td>to discuss events in the order that they happened</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Maintain a Formal Style

Throughout your essay, use vocabulary and precise words that are specific to your topic. Be sure to use and maintain a formal style. In formal writing, you usually write from the third-person point of view and avoid using slang, contractions, and conversational language. CCSS W.6.2d, e
Use Transitions

To make your writing flow smoothly, use transitions to link the ideas in sentences and paragraphs. Transitions are words, phrases, and clauses that show the relationship between ideas or events. Use some of the following transitions to clearly link the ideas or events described in your sentences and paragraphs. CCSS W.6.2c

<table>
<thead>

Write the Conclusion

Write an effective conclusion that follows from the information or explanation you presented in your response. Your conclusion should

- restate your controlling idea
- summarize your key points
- give your readers something further to think about

CCSS W.6.2f
Introduction to Revision
The word revise means “to see again.” To revise your response essay, you will look at it again to make sure that it is clear and well organized and that it accomplishes your goal. You will focus on the development, organization, and style of your writing by applying all or some of these four revision strategies:

- Add details and information to make your main point clearer.
- Delete unnecessary words or ideas.
- Replace boring or overused words with precise language that is more exact and strong.
- Rearrange or combine phrases and sentences so your ideas and supporting details are presented logically.

Use these revision strategies with the questions and checklists that follow. The questions will help you think about how well your essay addresses the genre as well as your purpose and audience. CCSS W.6.4, W.6.5

Focus and Coherence
Ask yourself:

- ✔ Does my essay have a clear focus?
- ✔ Does each paragraph relate to the controlling idea, or thesis?
- ✔ Do all parts work together so that my main point is explained and well supported? CCSS W.6.2a, b

Organization
Ask yourself:

- ✔ Does the introduction present my controlling idea, or thesis?
- ✔ Do the body paragraphs follow a logical order?
✓ Does the conclusion follow from and support the information or explanation that I presented?

CCSS W.6.2a, b, f

Development of Ideas

Ask yourself:

✓ Does each paragraph express a key idea about the controlling idea, or thesis?

✓ Is each key idea supported by appropriate evidence?

CCSS W.6.2b, W.6.9a, b

Voice—Word Choice

Ask yourself:

✓ Does my essay include precise words and vocabulary that are specific to my topic?

✓ Does my essay include transitions that link the ideas in sentences and paragraphs?

✓ Does my essay include formal language from beginning to end? CCSS W.6.2c–e

Voice—Sentence Fluency

Ask yourself:

✓ Does my essay include a mix of short sentences and long sentences that make the paragraphs interesting to read?

✓ Have I made my sentences more interesting by combining some of them, using prepositional phrases, appositive phrases, and adjective and adverb clauses?

✓ Does my writing include a consistent style and tone that make it flow smoothly? CCSS L.6.3a, b
16.4 EDIT

Correct Errors in Grammar

Editing involves correcting errors in grammar, usage, mechanics, and spelling. Begin editing by taking a careful look at your sentences. Make sure that each sentence expresses a complete thought and is grammatically correct. Use the checklist below to edit your sentences.

CCSS W.6.5, L.6.1

Sentence-Editing Checklist

Ask yourself:

✔ Have I avoided sentence fragments?
✔ Have I avoided run-on sentences?
✔ Do verbs agree with their subjects?
✔ Have I used verb tenses and forms correctly?
✔ Have I used pronouns in the proper case (subjective, objective, possessive)?
✔ Have I correctly used intensive pronouns (myself, ourselves) for emphasis?
✔ Have I used adjectives and adverbs correctly?
✔ Are my sentences parallel so that elements that have the same function in a sentence are written in the same form or verb tense? CCSS L.6.1a, b
Correct Errors in Mechanics and Spelling

Next, check for and correct any errors in mechanics (punctuation and capitalization) and spelling. Use the checklist below to edit your essay. You should also use a dictionary to check spellings. CCSS L.6.2, b

Proofreading Checklist

Ask yourself:
✓ Have I used correct punctuation?
✓ Have I written possessives correctly?
✓ Have I spelled all words correctly?
✓ Have I used capital letters as needed?

Peer and Teacher Review

After you have revised and edited your essay yourself, you will revise it through peer review and teacher review. During peer review, you will share your writing with a partner or classmates. Then you will discuss how you can each improve your writing. During teacher review, you will give your essay to your teacher. Your teacher will read it and suggest how to improve your response essay. The ideas and opinions of your peers and teacher will tell you whether you’re achieving your goals.

You can use the Peer Review Guide on page 382 to respond to a classmate’s writing. CCSS W.6.5; L.6.1e
16.5 PUBLISH

After you have written and revised your essay, you will publish and present it. This is the stage when you share your final essay with others. You may wish to consider the following publishing and presenting options. Some of these options require you to collaborate with your classmates and use technology:

• Create a class collection of response essays.
• Enter your essay into a writing contest.
• Share your essay in a small group.
• Post your essay on your school or class Web site.
• Publish your essay as a blog entry and invite other students to comment on it. CCSS W.6.6

Reflecting on, or thinking about, your own writing can help you improve your writing skills. Use the Reflection Guide on page 383 to reflect on the writing you did in this workshop.
The goal of expository writing is to explain or inform. There are many types of expository writing, including essays, research reports, and magazine articles. Since all good essays include introductory, body, and concluding paragraphs, all good essays are multi-paragraph, or made of more than one paragraph. Good expository writing fits the form of the genre, addresses your purpose, and catches and holds the attention of your audience.

- The genre is the writing mode, such as essay, story, poem, or play.
- The purpose is your reason for writing. In a multi-paragraph essay, your purpose is to explain and inform.
- The audience includes the people who will read your essay. CCSS W.6.4

The instruction on the pages that follow will guide you through the process of writing an expository multi-paragraph essay while meeting the Common Core State Standards for informative/explanatory writing. For a list of the writing and grammar Common Core State Standards, see pages 431–438. CCSS W.6.10
17.1 PLAN

Graphic Organizers
During the Plan stage, you will gather and organize writing ideas. To do this, you may wish to draw and use a graphic organizer, such as the Evidence Chart on page 375.

Identify Your Controlling Idea
Write down the topic of your essay. The topic is the general subject you wish to write about. The main point you want to make about the topic will be the controlling idea, or thesis, of your multi-paragraph essay. You usually sum up the controlling idea in one or two sentences. In this Plan stage, your controlling idea is a starting point. As you gather evidence and draft your paper, you may narrow or broaden your controlling idea. CCSS W.6.2a

Gather Evidence
Now that you have identified your controlling idea, you need to get information, or evidence, to support it. Evidence includes facts, definitions, details, quotations, examples, and other information. You can begin the process of gathering evidence with one or more of the following activities: asking questions, doing research, observing, and interviewing. You may find that you’ll want to use all four of these methods to gather evidence.

Write down evidence related to your controlling idea that you know from your own experience or background. Explain how the evidence supports your controlling idea. Then do research to find more evidence. You may look for information in

- reference books, such as encyclopedias
- magazine or newspaper articles
- Web sites that are trustworthy, objective, and up to date
Analyze the research and take notes about how the evidence supports your controlling idea. CCSS W.6.2b

Writing Tip

Do not plagiarize information, or take ideas from someone else and present them as your own. Plagiarizing is against the law. Always credit the source of the information with an in-text citation. See pages 384–387 for information about citing sources. CCSS W.6.8

Synthesize Ideas

When you synthesize ideas, you combine ideas to create a new idea or reach a new understanding. You may synthesize ideas from several sources in order to support your controlling idea and key points. Sources may include

- personal experience
- background knowledge
- books, essays, and articles
- Web sites

Continue recording evidence. Take notes about the related ideas from your sources. Then synthesize the ideas from your experience and background and from your research. After you synthesize, you may need to revise your controlling idea. CCSS W.6.2b, W.6.9b

17.2 DRAFT

Write the Introduction

When you write your draft, your goal is to organize the evidence you have gathered into unified paragraphs. The introduction is the opening paragraph of a multi-paragraph essay. An effective introduction grabs the readers’ attention and introduces the topic. It also states your controlling idea.
The art of communicating your thoughts and feelings effectively through words is called rhetoric. The chart below describes different rhetorical elements.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>ELEMENT</th>
<th>DEFINITION</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Quotation</td>
<td>well-chosen words from the selection</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Interesting fact</td>
<td>a statement that can be proven as true</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rhetorical question</td>
<td>a question to which no answer is expected</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anecdote</td>
<td>a brief story based on an interesting or amusing event from a person’s life</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Analogy</td>
<td>a comparison between two things that may not be similar</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Parallelism</td>
<td>the use of a series of words, phrases, or sentences that have similar grammatical structure</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Repetition</td>
<td>the repeated use of a word, phrase, sound, or other part of a text</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

In your introduction, you might include a rhetorical element to grab your readers’ attention from the start.
CCSS W.6.2a

Writing Tip

If you are stuck, just start writing. Your first attempt will not be perfect. You might freewrite more than one introduction before deciding on the best one.
CCSS W.6.2a

Write the Body Paragraphs

In the body, or main paragraphs, of your essay, you guide and inform your readers’ understanding of your key ideas. Each paragraph includes a topic sentence that states the key idea of the paragraph. The rest of the paragraph includes facts, definitions, concrete details, quotations, examples, and other information that support the topic sentence. Similarly, each topic sentence should support the controlling idea of the paper.

Write the body of your essay so it is focused and coherent. An essay is focused and coherent when each paragraph clearly relates to the controlling idea, or thesis. Make sure the key idea and supporting evidence in each paragraph relate to your controlling idea.

Now organize the body paragraphs using a logical structure. You may organize the paragraphs using one of the strategies in the following chart.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STRATEGY</th>
<th>DEFINITION</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Definition</td>
<td>to explain technical or specialized vocabulary and terms related to specific areas of study or work</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Classification</td>
<td>to group information by type</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Comparison and contrast</td>
<td>to describe similarities and differences between things</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Process</td>
<td>to explain the order of an action or an event</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cause and effect</td>
<td>to describe an event and what results from it</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sequence of events</td>
<td>to discuss events in the order that they happened</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Maintain a Formal Style

Throughout your essay, use precise language and vocabulary that is specific to your topic. Be sure to use and maintain a formal style. In formal writing, you usually write from the third-person point of view and avoid using slang, contractions, and conversational language.

CCSS W.6.2a, b, W.6.9a, b
Use Transitions
To make your writing flow smoothly, use transitions to link the ideas in sentences and paragraphs. Transitions are words, phrases, and clauses that show the relationship between ideas or events. Use some of the following transitions to clearly link the ideas or events described in your sentences and paragraphs. CCSS W.6.2c

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>RELATIONSHIP</th>
<th>EXAMPLES OF TRANSITIONS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Addition</td>
<td>also, and, besides, both . . . and, furthermore, in addition</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Contrast</td>
<td>but, however, instead, nevertheless, on the contrary, on the other hand, still, yet</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Importance</td>
<td>first, last, mainly, most important, most of all</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cause and effect</td>
<td>as a result, consequently, for, so, so that, then, therefore, thus</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sequence</td>
<td>after, as, before, next, since, then, until, when, while</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Include Visual Elements
To help readers better understand the ideas in your essay, you may wish to include

- graphics, such as images, maps, and charts
- formatting, such as heads and subheads
- multimedia elements, such as links to video clips

CCSS W.6.2a

Write the Conclusion
Write an effective conclusion that follows from the information or explanation you presented in the introduction and body. Your conclusion will be effective if it clearly and concisely does the following:

- restates your controlling idea
- summarizes your key points
- gives your readers something further to think about

CCSS W.6.2f

17.3 REVISE

Introduction to Revision

The word revise means “to see again.” To revise your multi-paragraph essay, you will look at it again to make sure that it is clear and well organized and that it accomplishes your goal. You will focus on the development, organization, and style of your writing by applying all or some of these four revision strategies:

- Add details and information to clarify your main point.
- Delete unnecessary words or ideas.
- Replace boring or overused words with precise language that is more exact and strong.
- Rearrange or combine phrases and sentences so your ideas and supporting details are presented logically.

Use these revision strategies with the questions and checklists on the following pages. The questions will help you think about how well your essay addresses the genre as well as your purpose and audience. CCSS W.6.4, W.6.5

Focus and Coherence

Ask yourself:

✓ Does my essay have a clear focus?
✓ Does each paragraph relate to the controlling idea, or thesis?
✓ Do all parts work together so that my main point is explained and well supported? CCSS W.6.2a, b
Organization
Ask yourself:
✓ Does the introduction present my controlling idea, or thesis?
✓ Do the body paragraphs follow a logical order?
✓ Does the conclusion follow from and support the information or explanation that I presented?
CCSS W.6.2a, b, f

Development of Ideas
Ask yourself:
✓ Does each paragraph express a key idea about the controlling idea, or thesis?
✓ Is each key idea supported by appropriate evidence?
CCSS W.6.2b, W.6.9a, b

Voice—Word Choice
Ask yourself:
✓ Does my essay include precise words and vocabulary that are specific to my topic?
✓ Does my essay include transitions that link the ideas in sentences and paragraphs?
✓ Does my essay include formal language from beginning to end? CCSS W.6.2c–e

Voice—Sentence Fluency
Ask yourself:
✓ Does my essay include a mix of short sentences and long sentences that make the paragraphs interesting to read?
✓ Have I made my sentences more interesting by combining some of them, using prepositional phrases, appositive phrases, and adjective and adverb clauses?
✓ Does my writing include a consistent style and tone that make it flow smoothly? CCSS L.6.3a, b
17.4 EDIT

Correct Errors in Grammar

Editing involves correcting errors in grammar, usage, mechanics, and spelling. Begin the editing stage by taking a careful look at your sentences. Make sure that each sentence expresses a complete thought and is grammatically correct. Use the checklist that follows to edit your sentences.

CCSS W.6.5, L.6.1

Sentence-Editing Checklist

Ask yourself:

- Have I avoided sentence fragments?
- Have I avoided run-on sentences?
- Do verbs agree with their subjects?
- Have I used verb tenses and forms correctly?
- Have I used pronouns in the proper case (subjective, objective, possessive)?
- Have I correctly used intensive pronouns (himself, themselves) for emphasis?
- Have I used adjectives and adverbs correctly?
- Are my sentences parallel so that elements that have the same function in a sentence are written in the same form or verb tense? CCSS L.6.1a, b
Correct Errors in Mechanics and Spelling

Next check for and correct any errors in mechanics (punctuation and capitalization) and spelling. Use the checklist below to edit your essay. You should also use a dictionary to check spellings. CCSS L.6.2, b

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Proofreading Checklist</th>

Peer and Teacher Review

After you have revised and edited your essay yourself, you will revise it through peer review and teacher review. During peer review, you will share your writing with a partner or classmates. Then you will discuss how to improve your writing. During teacher review, you will give your essay to your teacher. Your teacher will read it and suggest how you can make your essay better. The ideas and opinions of your peers and teacher will tell you whether you’re achieving your goals.

You can use the Peer Review Guide on page 382 to respond to a classmate’s writing. CCSS W.6.5, L.6.1e
After you have written and polished your essay, you will publish and present it. This is the stage when you share your final essay with others. You may wish to consider the following publishing and presenting options. Some of these options require you to collaborate with your classmates and use technology:

- Create a class collection of essays.
- Enter your essay into a writing contest.
- Share your essay in a small group.
- Post your essay on your school or class Web site.
- Publish your essay on the Internet. CCSS W.6.6

Reflecting on, or thinking about, your own writing can help you improve your writing skills. You can use the Reflection Guide on page 383 to reflect on the writing you did in this workshop.
When you write a research report, you investigate a topic and present information about the topic to your readers. You’ve probably seen reports in newspapers and magazines. Journalists write these reports to investigate such topics as politics, environmental issues, and business concerns. They use a variety of sources to find information, and then they present this information to their readers.

To write a report, you should

• choose a topic that interests you
• decide on a purpose for your report
• gather information from sources
• take notes, organize your notes, and write an outline
• explain your purpose and main idea in a written thesis statement
• present the information about your topic to your readers in your own words
• prepare a list of your sources
The instruction on the pages that follow will guide you through the process of writing a research report and meeting the Common Core State Standards for research as well as for informative/explanatory writing. For a list of the writing and grammar Common Core State Standards, see pages 431–438. CCSS W.6.10

18.1 PLAN

Graphic Organizers
During the Plan stage, you will gather and organize writing ideas. To do this, you may wish to draw and use graphic organizers, such as the Main Idea Map, Source Card, and Note Card on pages 376–378.

Do Preliminary Research
Write down the topic of your research report. The topic is the general subject you wish to write about. Then do some preliminary, or beginning, research. Look up your topic in a reference work, such as an encyclopedia, to find general information. Then find more information by using a search engine. CCSS W.6.7

Write Research Questions
Write questions about your topic that you may want to answer in your report. Good questions begin with the words who, what, when, where, why, and how.

From your list of questions, choose one question to be your major research question. You may also combine related questions to form the major research question. Write down the major research question that you will answer through further research. CCSS W.6.7
Write a Research Plan

Now that you have your major research question, write a research plan. Your plan should list

- other information that you need
- the types of sources you will use, including both print and digital sources
- any questions you want to answer through further research and investigation CCSS W.6.7

Gather Sources

Follow your research plan to gather sources through the Internet and from your school and local libraries or media centers. Remember to search for a wide variety of print and digital sources. When possible, search for a mix of primary and secondary sources. CCSS W.6.8

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>TYPE OF SOURCE</th>
<th>DEFINITION AND EXAMPLES</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Primary source</td>
<td>• written by people who actually experienced the events they write about</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>• original documents (diaries, autobiographies, speeches, letters, interviews, news film</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>footage), creative works (poems, dramas, novels, music, art), and artifacts</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>(buildings, clothing, furniture, pottery)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Secondary source</td>
<td>• based on information gathered from primary sources and others</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>• publications (magazine and newspaper articles, biographies, textbooks, encyclopedias,</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>books, critical reviews)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Evaluate Sources

You should use only valid and reliable print and digital sources. Valid sources are related to your topic and contain information that can be verified in another source. Reliable sources are credible, or trustworthy, such as encyclopedias or quotations from experts in the field. Reliable sources also are objective and current, or up to date.

To evaluate the quality of your sources, ask yourself the questions in the following chart:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>EVALUATION TERM</th>
<th>QUESTIONS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Relevant</td>
<td>Is the information related to my topic? Does it help answer my questions about the topic?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Accurate</td>
<td>Can I verify the information in another source?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Credible</td>
<td>Is the information written by an author or organization with a good reputation? Is the author considered an expert?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Objective</td>
<td>Is the information a fact or an opinion? Is the source biased, or show favoritism toward or against something?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Current</td>
<td>Is the information current or out of date?</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

As you evaluate your sources, get rid of any sources that you don’t think are valid or reliable. When you decide not to use a source, think about why you are dropping it. Then search for a source that will be more useful.
Create Source Cards

Once you have evaluated your sources, create a source card for each source you will use. Make sure you write down information about each source using a standard format. On each source card, include the following information:

- author
- title
- publication information (For books, include the city in which the source was published, name of publisher, and year of publication. For magazines, also include the issue number and volume number.)
- date on which you accessed the Web site
- location of the source (for example, the name of the library or Web site where you found the source)
- library call number or Web site URL

Number each source card in the upper right-hand corner. Your first source will be number 1, your second source will be number 2, and so on. You will use these cards when you write your Works Cited list. CCSS W.6.8

Create Note Cards

After you have created source cards, skim and scan the sources for relevant information. Relevant information includes facts, definitions, concrete details, quotations, examples, and other information related to your major research question.

Take notes on a note card for each piece of relevant information you find. On the note card, write a key word or phrase that describes the information. Then, write a summary or a paraphrase of the information, or record a quotation from the source. See the chart on the next page for an explanation of each type of note.
Next, note whether the information is fact or opinion. Write down the page number or the URL of the Web site page so you can find the information again, if you need to. Finally, refer to your source cards for the source numbers and record the appropriate source number in the upper right-hand corner of each note card. CCSS W.6.7, W.6.8

Write Your Thesis Statement

Take another look at your major research question. Ask yourself:

- Will I have enough to write about? If not, your major research question is too narrow. You should revise your research question to be broader.
- Will I have too much to write about? If so, your major research question is too broad. You should revise your research question to be more specific.
When your major research question is not too narrow or too broad, write your answer to the research question in one or two sentences. Make sure that your answer includes a clear statement of your viewpoint on the research topic. Your answer will be the thesis statement, or main point of the research report.

Organize Information

Now that you have your thesis statement, you need to make an organizational plan for the main ideas and details that you want to present in your report. To identify the main ideas of your report, look again at the note cards you wrote. Use the key word or phrase on each card to sort the cards into categories, or groups. Sorting the cards into categories will help you see the main ideas in the information you gathered. Write down one main idea about the details in each category of cards. Be sure that the main ideas support your thesis statement.

Next, organize the main ideas in a logical order. This will be the order in which you write the body paragraphs of your report.

Now go back to your groups of note cards and organize the groups according to the order you listed for your main ideas. The note cards in each group contain the details that you will use to support the main idea of the group. You may organize the details using one of the strategies defined on the next page.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STRATEGY</th>
<th>DEFINITION</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Definition</td>
<td>to explain technical or specialized vocabulary and terms related to specific areas of study or work</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Classification</td>
<td>to group information by type</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Comparison and contrast</td>
<td>to describe similarities and differences among things or ideas</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Process</td>
<td>to explain the order of an action or an event</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cause and effect</td>
<td>to describe an event and what results from it</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sequence of events</td>
<td>to discuss events in the order that they happened</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Finally, use your organized groups of cards to create an outline using the structure shown below.

I.
   A.
   B.
   C.

II.
   A.
   B.
   C.
List your main ideas in order using Roman numerals I, II, III, IV, and so on. Beneath each main idea, list the appropriate supporting details in order using capital letters A, B, C, and so on. You will follow the order of main ideas and details in your outline when you write the body paragraphs of your research report.

CCSS W.6.2a

18.2 DRAFT

Write the Introduction
When you write a draft, your goal is to organize the information you have gathered into unified paragraphs. The introduction is the opening paragraph of your research report. An effective introduction introduces your topic and presents your thesis statement. The introduction should also grab your readers’ attention, possibly by including

- an interesting anecdote, or brief story
- a surprising fact, or
- a thought-provoking question CCSS W.6.2a

Write Topic Sentences
Follow your outline to write the body paragraphs of your research report. Each paragraph should contain a topic sentence that states the main idea of the paragraph. Be sure that each main idea supports your thesis statement.

Present Findings
Next, develop the body paragraphs by presenting a summary, a paraphrase, or a quotation of the information from your sources. The facts, definitions, details, quotations, and examples you include in each paragraph should focus on and either explain or expand upon the topic sentence. Organize the topic sentence and supporting details of each paragraph in a way that best develops your thesis.
Do not copy information word for word and present it as your own. This is called plagiarism. Plagiarizing is against the law. Always credit the source of the information with an in-text citation, as described below.

- Write the author’s last name and the page number(s) on which you found the information in parentheses. Place this information at the end of the last sentence or idea taken from the author’s work.
- If the source is a Web site that does not include page numbers, do not write a page number in your citation.
- If the source does not list the author’s name, use a shortened form of the work’s title instead. If you mention the title and author in the paragraph, include only the page number in parentheses.

After you present information from your sources, draw a conclusion about the information in your paragraph. A conclusion is a general statement based on specific ideas. CCSS W.6.2b, W.6.8

Writing Tip

Don’t worry about punctuation, spelling, or grammar as you write your draft. You can fix those later. The important thing when you draft is to state your ideas in a clear, organized way.

Maintain a Formal Style

Throughout your report, use precise language and vocabulary that is specific to your topic. Be sure to use and maintain a formal style. In formal writing, you usually write from the third-person point of view and avoid using slang, contractions, and conversational language. CCSS W.6.2d, e

Use Transitions

To make your writing flow smoothly, use transitions to link the ideas in sentences and paragraphs. Transitions are words, phrases, and clauses that show the relationship between ideas or events. Some of the following transitions may help you to clearly link the ideas presented in the sentences and paragraphs of your report. CCSS W.6.2c

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>RELATIONSHIP</th>
<th>EXAMPLES OF TRANSITIONS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Addition</td>
<td>also, and, besides, both . . . and, furthermore, in addition</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Contrast</td>
<td>but, however, instead, nevertheless, on the contrary, on the other hand, still, yet</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Importance</td>
<td>first, last, mainly, most important, most of all</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cause and effect</td>
<td>as a result, consequently, for, so, so that, then, therefore, thus</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sequence</td>
<td>after, as, before, next, since, then, until, when, while</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Include Visual Elements

To help readers better understand the ideas in your report, you may wish to include

- graphics, such as images, maps, and charts
- formatting, such as heads and subheads
- multimedia elements, such links to video clips CCSS W.6.2a

Write the Conclusion

Finally, write the conclusion to your research report. The conclusion should state your thesis statement in a different way. It should also follow from and support the information in your report by summarizing the main points you made. End your conclusion with a strong closing statement that leaves a lasting impression. CCSS W.6.2f
Create a Works Cited List

At the end of your report, list all the sources of information cited in your report. Alphabetize the sources by the author’s last name. If there is no author, then alphabetize the source by the first word in the title. CCSS W.6.8

For help with citing sources and creating a Works Cited list, see pages 384–389.

18.3 REVISE

Introduction to Revision

The word revise means “to see again.” To revise your report, you will look at it again to make sure that it is clear and well organized and that it accomplishes your goal. You will focus on the development, organization, and style of your writing by applying these four revision strategies:

• Add details and information to make your main point clearer.
• Delete unnecessary words or ideas.
• Replace boring or overused words with precise language that is more exact and strong.
• Rearrange or combine phrases and sentences so your ideas and supporting details are presented logically.

Use these revision strategies with the questions and checklists that follow. The questions will help you think about how well your research report addresses the genre as well as your purpose and audience.

• The genre is the writing mode, such as research report, story, poem, or play.
• Your purpose is your reason for writing. In a research report, your purpose is to explain and inform.
• The audience includes the people who will read your report. CCSS W.6.4
Focus and Coherence
Ask yourself:
✓ Does my research report have a clear focus?
✓ Does each paragraph relate to the thesis, or controlling idea?
✓ Do all parts work together so that my main point is explained and well supported? CCSS W.6.2a, b

Organization
Ask yourself:
✓ Does the introduction present my thesis, or controlling idea?
✓ Does each body paragraph present the main idea and details in a way that best develops the thesis?
✓ Are the body paragraphs ordered logically?
✓ Does the conclusion follow from and support the information or explanation that I presented? CCSS W.6.2a, b, f

Development of Ideas
Ask yourself:
✓ Does each paragraph express a main idea about the thesis, or controlling idea?
✓ Is each main idea supported by appropriate evidence? CCSS W.6.2b, W.6.9a, b

Voice—Word Choice
Ask yourself:
✓ Does my report include vocabulary and precise words that are specific to my topic?
✓ Does my report include transitions that link the ideas in sentences and paragraphs?
✓ Does my report include formal language from beginning to end? CCSS W.6.2c–e
Voice—Sentence Fluency

Ask yourself:

✓ Does my report include a mix of short sentences and long sentences that make the paragraphs interesting to read?

✓ Have I made my sentences more interesting by combining some of them, using prepositional phrases, appositive phrases, and adjective and adverb clauses?

✓ Does my writing include a consistent style and tone that make it flow smoothly? CCSS L.6.3a, b

---

Revising Tip

As you revise, use a thesaurus to find exactly the right words to communicate your ideas. Vary your words and sentences to avoid wordiness and redundancy, or words and sentences that say the same thing. CCSS L.6.3b

---

18.4 EDIT

Correct Errors in Grammar

Editing involves correcting errors in grammar, usage, mechanics, and spelling. Begin editing by taking a careful look at your sentences. Make sure that each sentence expresses a complete thought and is grammatically correct. Use the checklist on the next page to edit your sentences. CCSS W.6.5, L.6.1
Correct Errors in Mechanics and Spelling

Next check for and correct any errors in mechanics (punctuation and capitalization) and spelling. Use the checklist below to edit your report. You should also use a dictionary to check spellings. CCSS L.6.2, b

Sentence-Editing Checklist

Ask yourself:
- ✓ Have I avoided sentence fragments?
- ✓ Have I avoided run-on sentences?
- ✓ Do verbs agree with their subjects?
- ✓ Have I used verb tenses and forms correctly?
- ✓ Have I used pronouns in the proper case (subjective, objective, possessive)?
- ✓ Have I correctly used intensive pronouns (herself, themselves) for emphasis?
- ✓ Have I used adjectives and adverbs correctly?
- ✓ Are my sentences parallel so that elements that have the same function in a sentence are written in the same form or verb tense? CCSS L.6.1a, b

Proofreading Checklist

Ask yourself:
- ✓ Have I used correct punctuation?
- ✓ Have I written possessives correctly?
- ✓ Have I spelled all words correctly?
- ✓ Have I used capital letters as needed?
Peer and Teacher Review

After you have revised and edited your report yourself, you will revise it through peer review and teacher review. During peer review, you will share your writing with a partner or classmates. Then you will discuss how to improve your writing. During teacher review, you will give your report to your teacher. Your teacher will read it and suggest how you can make your report better. The ideas and opinions of your peers and teacher will tell you whether you’re achieving your goals.

You can use the Peer Review Guide on page 382 to respond to a classmate’s writing. CCSS W.6.5, L.6.1e

18.5 PUBLISH

After you have written and polished your research report, you will publish and present it. This is the stage when you share your final research report with others. You may wish to consider the following publishing and presenting options. Some of these options require you to collaborate with your classmates and use technology:

• Create a class collection of research reports.
• Enter your report into a writing contest.
• Give an oral presentation of your report to classmates.
• E-mail your report to an organization associated with your topic.
• Publish a multimedia version of your report online with images and video clips. CCSS W.6.6

Reflecting on, or thinking about, your own writing can help you improve your writing skills. You can use the Reflection Guide on page 383 to reflect on the writing you did in this workshop.
A narrative is a story or an account of an event. There are historical narratives, fictional narratives, and real-life narratives. When you write a story, or narrative, you answer the question What happened? Your story will need a beginning, a middle, and an end. It will also need a setting, a conflict and resolution, characters, and dialogue.

The basic elements of a narrative are defined below.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>ELEMENT</th>
<th>DEFINITION</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Setting</td>
<td>the time and place in which the events of a narrative occur</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mood</td>
<td>the general feeling of a narrative</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Characters</td>
<td>the people or animals in a literary work</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Plot</td>
<td>the sequence of events</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Conflict</td>
<td>a problem that the character(s) must face</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Resolution</td>
<td>the outcome of the conflict</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Theme</td>
<td>the overall message about life presented in the narrative</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
The instruction on the pages that follow will guide you through the process of writing a narrative while meeting the Common Core State Standards for narrative writing. For a list of the writing and grammar Common Core State Standards, see pages 431–438. CCSS W.6.10

19.1 PLAN

Graphic Organizers

During the Plan stage, you will gather and organize writing ideas. To do this, you may wish to use graphic organizers, such as the Story Map, Character Chart, and Setting and Mood Diagram on pages 379–381.

Identify Key Elements

Write the topic of your story. The topic of most good stories is a problem faced by a character. Examples of story topics are “an unusual babysitting experience” and “the drama of a science fair project.”

Now write a possible theme for your story. The theme is the central message about life that a writer expresses. For example, if your story is about an unusual babysitting experience, your theme might be “It takes a calm manner and clear thinking to deal with a babysitting crisis.” You can revise your theme as you draft, if you want to.

Writing down some details about the important story elements can ease you into writing. Think about the characters and events and how the setting affects them. Write down the names of your characters and identify the setting of your story. The setting is the time and place in which the events of the narrative occur. The setting often helps create the mood, or atmosphere.

In narrative writing, the point of view is important. Point of view is the perspective, or standpoint, from which a story is told. The chart on the next page describes the two main points of view for a narrative. Read the chart and then identify your story’s point of view. CCSS W.6.3a
Develop Interesting Characters

Look at your list of characters. Decide which of the characters is a main character and which are minor characters. A main character is central to the story and is usually fully developed. A minor character has few personality traits and is used to help move the plot along. For each character, give examples of

- the way the character looks
- what the character thinks, feels, and says
- how the character acts and interacts with others
- what the narrator or other characters think and say about the character

Write precise words or phrases about each character. Then think of descriptive details that help develop each word or phrase. Good descriptive details include specific nouns, vivid verbs, and exact adjectives. Make sure the details are related to the story. CCSS W.6.3a, b, d
Create the Main Events

To develop your plot, or sequence of events, of your story, identify the main conflict and resolution. The conflict is the central struggle or problem that the main character faces. The resolution is the outcome of the conflict.

Next, write down the events of your narrative. Chronological order is an effective way to organize a story so the events unfold naturally and logically. Chronological order is the time order in which events happen. When you use chronological order, you tell what happens first, second, and so on. Include well-paced action to keep your readers engaged in the story.

Transitions will help your readers follow your story. Transitions are words, phrases, and clauses that help show the relationship between events or ideas. Some examples of transitions are before, after, next, first, later, afterward, nearby, in the distance, finally, and while. Write down three transitions that you can use to clarify the sequence of events in your narrative. Then write down three transitions that you can use to signal shifts from one time frame or setting to another. CCSS W.6.3a, c

Describe the Setting

Writers use descriptive details and sensory language to create specific, believable settings. Sensory language describes how people and things look, sound, feel, smell, or taste. The setting helps create the mood, or atmosphere, of a story. For example, a writer might create a frightening mood by describing a dark, stormy night booming with loud claps of thunder.

Write notes about the setting and mood of your story. Then write precise words and phrases, descriptive details, and sensory language that describe the setting. Make sure that your sensory details help create the mood. CCSS W.6.3b, d
Use Literary Strategies and Narrative Techniques

Writers use literary strategies and narrative techniques to develop experiences, events, characters, style, and tone. These strategies and techniques include foreshadowing, dialogue, pacing, and description, which are defined below.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STRATEGY OR TECHNIQUE</th>
<th>DEFINITION</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Foreshadowing</td>
<td>the writer’s use of clues to prepare the audience for events that will happen later in the story</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dialogue</td>
<td>the conversation between characters in a literary work</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pacing</td>
<td>the speed in which the plot events and action unfold</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Description</td>
<td>vivid writing that helps readers visualize, or see in their minds, the characters, settings, events, and experiences</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Identify literary strategies and narrative techniques that you can use in your story. Describe how you will use them. Then explain how they will help develop the experiences, events, characters, style, and tone. CCSS W.6.3b, d

19.2 DRAFT

Write the Opening

Begin your draft by writing the opening, or beginning, to your story. Your opening should grab your readers’ attention so they want to keep reading. In the opening, you should

- introduce the main character
- introduce the conflict that drives the plot, or story line
• include descriptive details and sensory language that help create the setting

Include interesting details about your main character from your planning notes. Choose sensory details from your planning notes that will help create the setting. CCSS W.6.3a, b, d

Writing Tip
If you can’t decide how to begin your story, just get your ideas on paper. After you have written the first draft of your opening, you can revise it as many times as needed until you are satisfied with it.

Write Dialogue
Choose a place in your story where you can use dialogue. Dialogue is a conversation between characters in a literary work. Dialogue can serve many purposes. For example, it can be used to introduce the conflict and move along the plot. It can also be used to develop characters and events. What characters say—and how they say it—will often reveal what they’re like.

Identify the purpose of the dialogue. Then think of the language you will use to show the ages, personalities, thoughts, and feelings of the characters that are speaking. Your dialogue will sound natural if your characters talk the way real people talk. You can use slang, sentence fragments, and contractions in dialogue. Begin a new paragraph each time the speaker changes. CCSS W.6.3b

Writing Tip
Use quotation marks and tag lines so that it is clear which character is speaking. Tag lines are the words that identify the speaker, such as “said Charlie.” However, do not use the word said too often in tag lines. Instead use more descriptive words, such as questioned, cried, or whispered.
Write the Body
Next, use your planning notes to write the body, or middle, of your story. Include action and details that will keep readers engaged. Remember to

- follow the plot you created
- include a well-paced sequence of events related to the conflict, with events unfolding naturally and logically
- use transition words, phrases, and clauses to show sequence and to signal shifts from one time frame or setting to another
- use descriptive details to create interesting characters
- use sensory language to create a specific, believable setting and mood
- include literary strategies and narrative techniques to develop experiences, events, characters, style, and tone

CCSS W.6.3a–d

Write the Ending
Finally, write the ending, or conclusion, of your story. Make sure that your ending follows from the narrated experiences or events by presenting the resolution to the conflict and relating to the theme of your story. The conclusion should give your audience the feeling that the story is complete. CCSS W.6.3e

19.3 REVISE

Introduction to Revision
The word revise means “to see again.” To revise your narrative, you will look at it again to make sure that it is clear and well organized and that it accomplishes your goal. You will focus on the development, organization, and style of your writing.
Apply one or more of the four revision strategies that follow to revise your narrative:

- Add details and information to make the theme, or message about life, clearer.
- Delete unnecessary words or ideas.
- Replace boring or overused words with precise language that is more exact and strong.
- Rearrange or combine phrases and sentences to be sure readers can understand the theme.

Use these revision strategies with the questions and checklists that follow. The questions will help you think about how well your narrative addresses the genre as well as your purpose and audience.

- The genre is the writing mode, such as story, poem, play, or essay.
- Your purpose is your reason for writing. Your purpose might be to describe, explain, narrate, amuse, or persuade. In this workshop, your purpose is to narrate a story.
- The audience includes the people who will read your story. CCSS W.6.4, W.6.5

Focus and Coherence

Ask yourself:

- ✔ Does the story have a clear purpose and focus?
- ✔ Does the story use the same point of view from beginning to end?
- ✔ Does the story engage my readers? CCSS W.6.3a

Organization

Ask yourself:

- ✔ Does the opening introduce the main character and conflict?
Does the body, or middle, present events in chronological order, with events unfolding naturally and logically?

Does the ending offer a clear resolution to the conflict?

Development of Ideas

Ask yourself:

- Can the readers easily identify the narrator and point of view?
- Is the main character fully developed, interesting, and believable?
- Does my story include literary strategies and narrative techniques to develop experiences, events, and ideas?

Voice—Word Choice

Ask yourself:

- Does my writing include precise words and phrases, descriptive details, and sensory language so that readers can visualize characters, setting, and events?
- Does my writing include transitions that link the events and signal shifts in time or setting?

Voice—Sentence Fluency

Ask yourself:

- Does my story include a mix of short sentences and long sentences that make the events and characters seem real?
- Have I made my sentences more interesting by combining some of them, using prepositional phrases, appositive phrases, and adjective and adverb clauses?
19.4 EDIT

Correct Errors in Grammar

Editing involves correcting errors in grammar, usage, mechanics, and spelling. Begin the editing stage by taking a careful look at your sentences. Make sure that each sentence expresses a complete thought and is grammatically correct. Use the checklist below to edit your sentences. CCSS W.6.5, L.6.1

Sentence-Editing Checklist

✓ Have I avoided sentence fragments?
✓ Have I avoided run-on sentences?
✓ Do verbs agree with their subjects?
✓ Have I used verb tenses and forms correctly?
✓ Have I used pronouns in the proper case (subjective, objective, possessive)?
✓ Have I correctly used intensive pronouns (myself, ourselves) for emphasis?
✓ Have I used adjectives and adverbs correctly?
✓ Are my sentences parallel so that elements that have the same function in a sentence are written in the same form or verb tense? CCSS L.6.1a, b

Correct Errors in Mechanics and Spelling

Next, check for and correct any errors in mechanics (punctuation and capitalization) and spelling. Use the checklist on the next page to edit your narrative. You should also use a dictionary to check and confirm spellings. CCSS L.6.2, b
Peer and Teacher Review

In addition to revising and editing your own story, you will revise your work through peer review and teacher review. During peer review, you will share your writing with a partner or classmates in a writing group. Then you will discuss how to improve your writing. During teacher review, you will give your story to your teacher. Your teacher will also suggest ways to make your story better.

You can use the Peer Review Guide on page 382 to respond to a classmate’s writing. CCSS W.6.5, L.6.1e

---

19.5 PUBLISH

After you have written and polished your story, you will publish and present it. This is the stage when you share your final narrative with others. You may wish to consider the following options, some of which require you to collaborate with your classmates and use technology:

- Enter your story into a writing contest.
- Create a class collection of stories.
- Perform your story as Readers Theater.
- Publish a multimedia version of your story online with images and video clips. CCSS W.6.6

Reflecting on your own writing can help you improve your writing skills. You can use the Reflection Guide on page 383 to reflect on the writing you did in this workshop.
The graphic organizers on the following pages will help you plan your writing as you complete the workshops on pages 312–371. The chart below shows which graphic organizers go with which workshops.

CITING SOURCES

When you write an informative, explanatory, or persuasive text, you should cite, or name, the sources of the information you present. You need to cite sources for all ideas, statements, quotations, and facts that are not common knowledge. One reason for citing your sources is to allow your readers to check a source and judge how believable or important a piece of information is.

Another reason to cite your sources is to avoid plagiarism. Plagiarism is the act of taking an author’s words or ideas and presenting them as your own. Plagiarism is against the law. You must cite a source not only for words you quote directly but also for facts or ideas you take from it.

IN-TEXT CITATIONS

In-text citations are sources that you cite within the body of your paper. You should include in-text citations for sources from which you use information in your paper. Insert the author’s last name or the title of the work (if the author’s last name is not available) and a page reference in parentheses after the information. For online sources without page numbers, use the title of the Web site. Always put the period outside the parentheses. See the example of an in-text citation on the next page.
Every in-text citation must connect to one of the entries in your Works Cited list. This connection should be by the author’s last name or the title of the work—whichever is listed first in the entry in parentheses. For example, the in-text citation shown below in parentheses refers to the author’s last name and the page number where the information was found; the Works Cited entry for that source begins with the author’s last name. This connection helps readers easily locate sources in a Works Cited list.

In-Text Citation:
Sundiata would later be known by such titles as “Lord Lion,” “Lion of Mali,” and “Father of the Bright Country” (Koslow 12).

Works Cited:

The chart on the next two pages explains how to cite different sources within the body of your paper, as recommended by the Modern Language Association of America (MLA). These guidelines relate to both print and digital sources.

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
More than one work by the same author
Use the author’s last name, the title or a shortened version of the title, and the page number.

After Sundiata’s death, Mali lacked strong leadership for several decades. (McKissack, The Royal Kingdoms 56).

More than one source at a time
Include both sources and their page numbers, separated by a semicolon.

Much of what we know about Sundiata comes from griots, the African storytellers (Koslow 12; Eisner 3).

WORKS CITED LIST

Use your source cards and note cards to document, or record, the publishing information about your sources in a Works Cited list. This list will appear at the end of your paper. The list should be alphabetized by the authors’ last names. If a work has no author, alphabetize it by the title.

Technology Tip

There are online programs that can help you build your Works Cited list. Enter “Works Cited generator” in your search engine to find such a program.

The chart on the following pages shows the proper style to use for different types of sources in a Works Cited list or bibliography, as recommended by the MLA.

Knowledge is of two kinds: we know a subject ourselves, or we know where we can find information on it. —Samuel Johnson
Although you’ve probably been in a library, you might not realize how many print, digital, and media resources that the library has to offer or how to find them. This chapter will guide you through the library and help you understand how and where to find what you need.

CARD SERVICES, HELP DESKS, AND CHECKOUT

The staff of librarians and library workers can direct you to resources on any subject you’re interested in. Workers at a desk in card services can help you obtain or renew a library card, which you’ll need in order to check out books and other materials. Librarians at the help desks can answer your questions about library resources or the research you are doing. The library also has a checkout desk or a self-checkout station where you can use your library card to check out library books and other materials and to pay fines.

CATALOGS

Catalogs tell you which books and materials are available and where to find them. A computer or card catalog will tell you about books and materials that are available in your particular library. An online catalog will tell you about books and materials that are available through a network of libraries in your city or state. You’ll learn more about using catalogs in Chapter 23.
AREAS FOR ADULTS, TEENS, AND KIDS

Many libraries are divided into separate areas for adults, teens (sometimes called the “young adults area”), and children. Although it’s called the “adult area,” you don’t have to be an adult to use these books and materials. All three areas usually contain similar sections and materials, such as fiction and nonfiction books, DVDs and CDs, reference materials, and computers. The areas for teens and children may also include chapter books, textbooks, leveled readers for beginning readers, and picture books for very young readers.

STACKS

The stacks are rows of bookshelves in the library. The stacks are often divided into these sections:

- fiction (novels, short stories, mysteries, and science fiction)
- nonfiction (biographies and subjects such as sports, history, and science)

REFERENCE SECTION

The reference section often includes both print and digital encyclopedias, dictionaries, almanacs, atlases, and other materials. The areas for teens and children might also include textbooks for subject areas such as literature, math, science, and social studies. Books and digital materials in the reference section can be used only in the library. By not allowing people to check out these materials, the library helps to ensure that they are always available when someone needs to consult them.
NEWSPAPERS AND MAGAZINES

In the section of newspapers and magazines (sometimes called the “periodicals” section), you can read local newspapers as well as papers from major cities in the United States and perhaps from other countries. You can also look through magazines and journals. You may not be able to check out the current issues, but you can usually take older issues home to read. You’ll learn more about finding articles in newspapers and magazines in Chapter 23.

DVDs AND CDs

The DVDs and CDs section of the library may also be called the audio-visual section. This section may contain audiobooks, eBooks, computer games, movies, videos, and music that you can check out and enjoy at home.

COMPUTERS

The areas for adults, teens, and children may have computer sections of laptops and desktop computers with high-speed Internet access. You may be able to use these computers for research or to check e-mail. The computers may also contain software programs that you can use to write reports, résumés, and letters or to create spreadsheets and presentations. For a small fee per page, you can usually print the articles you’ve found online or in the library’s databases or the papers you’ve written.

STUDY AREAS

Most libraries have quiet areas containing desks that are set aside for people who want to read or study individually. Some libraries also have group study rooms in which students and other people can gather for group study or discussions. You might need to reserve the group study rooms ahead of time.
SPECIAL COLLECTIONS AND STACKS

Some libraries set aside a special room or section for collections of rare books, manuscripts, and items of local interest, including works by local students and artists. Libraries may also have a “popular topics” section of stacks. These stacks are organized so readers can find books by popular topics such as cooking, finance, gardening, green living, sports, and jobs and careers.
In the course of doing research for a report, you will look at print and digital books as well as magazines, also known as periodicals. Books are tremendous sources because they give you access to information and opinions from the past. Magazines and journals are good sources of current information and opinions because they are published more often than books. In this chapter, you’ll learn about some of the different kinds of print and digital resources available to you.

23.1 UNDERSTANDING CATALOGING SYSTEMS

Maybe you’re looking for information on a particular subject. Maybe you want to see books by a certain author, or you want to check out a specific book. The library’s catalog will help you find what you’re looking for. The catalog will be either an online computer catalog or a paper card catalog. If it’s an online catalog, you might be able to access it from your home computer as well as in the library.
COMPUTER CATALOGS

Each computer catalog is different. Before you use one for the first time, read the instructions. They might be printed on the screen or posted beside the computer. If you need help, ask a library worker.

Using Search Techniques

Most catalog programs allow you to search by subject using a keyword or by title or author. Computer catalogs may also allow you to do advanced keyword searches. Read the computer screen carefully to be sure the catalog is set for the type of search you want to do. For example, the screen below shows that the catalog will search for a subject by keyword. If you wanted to search this catalog by title or author or if you wanted to do an advanced keyword search, you would click on the Title, Author, or Advanced tab to change the setting.

Keyword Search

For a subject search, you will type the keyword(s) for the subject. A keyword is a word or phrase that names or describes your topic. Whenever you search a computer database, including the Internet, the keyword you use will greatly affect the results you get.
Be specific. A general keyword, such as experiments, will get you a long list of sources, sometimes called hits or matches. Although these sources will relate in some way to your keyword, few of them are likely to focus on your specific subject. To save time, choose a keyword that better names or describes your topic, such as cloning. You will get a much shorter list of sources, but more of the sources will be useful to you.

Advanced Keyword Search If the simple keyword search lists too many sources for your subject, you can narrow the list by doing an advanced keyword search. An advanced search allows you to set field limits so the computer searches for only the keywords and fields you have specified. For example, the screen on the next page shows that the user wants the computer to search for the keywords cloning and animals but not the word dogs. The user also wants the computer to limit the search to the following fields: sources that are “on shelf” in the library, or not checked out; sources located in any library that is listed instead of one specific library; sources in any format, such as book, CD, and DVD, instead of one specific format; sources in English instead of another language; and sources published between the years 2000 and 2011. The user chose not to limit the search to a specific publisher.
Chapter 23  Using Print and Digital Resources 399
Use Boolean Operators. You can combine keywords with connecting words called operators. The three basic Boolean operators are and, or, and not.

- And: Use and between two keywords to narrow a search to every source that contains both keywords. For example, cloning and animals directs the computer to search only for sources that contain both of the words cloning and animals.

- Not: Use not to narrow a search by excluding terms that you do not want. For example, cloning and not dogs directs the computer to search only for sources that contain the word cloning but not the word dogs.

- Or: Use or between two keywords to broaden, or widen, a search to every source that contains either keyword. For example, cloning or twins tells the computer to conduct two searches at the same time—one search for sources that contain the word cloning and another search for sources that contain the word twins.

Use Proximity Operators. You can direct the computer to search for sources that contain keywords that are near or close to each other. The main proximity operators are near, before, after, and adjacent.

- Near: Use near between two keywords to narrow a search to every source that contains both keywords when they are close to each other, in any order. For example, cloning near animals directs the computer to search only for sources that... contain the words cloning and animals, in either order, when the words are near each other.

- Before or After: Use before or after between two keywords to narrow a search to every source that contains one keyword before (or after) another keyword. For example, cloning before sheep directs the computer to search only for sources that contain the word cloning when it appears before the word sheep. Cloning after sheep directs the computer to search only for sources that contain the word cloning when it appears after the word sheep.

- Adj: Use adj between two keywords to narrow a search to every source that contains both keywords when they are adjacent, or next to each other, in the exact order they were entered in the search box. For example, cloning adj sheep tells the computer to search only for sources that contain the word cloning when it appears before and next to the word sheep.

  Note: Some computer databases use adjacency as the default setting, so cloning sheep will produce the same search results as cloning adj sheep.

Use Wildcards. You can expand a search, but in a focused way, using one or more asterisks (*) to truncate, or shorten, your keyword. Then the computer will search for all words that begin with the letters before the asterisk.

- One asterisk (*): Type an asterisk after the first key letters of a word to direct the computer to search for sources that contain the first key letters followed by 1–5 other characters. For example, clon tells the computer to search for sources that contain clon followed by 1 to 5 other letters, such as in clone, clones, cloned, and cloning.

  You can also use this technique when you aren’t sure how to spell a word. For example, you could use Doll if you weren’t sure whether the first cloned sheep was named Dollie or Dolly.
• Two asterisks (): Type two asterisks after the first key letters of a word to direct the computer to conduct an open-ended search. For example, *clon tells the computer to search for sources that contain clon followed by any number of letters and characters. The sources will include the words clone, clones, cloned, and cloning, as well as such terms as clone wars, cloning: the science of, cloning pets, clone codes, and clone saga epic.

• Question mark (?): Use a question mark (?) anywhere in a keyword to replace one letter or character. Using a question mark is helpful when you want to search for various spellings of a word. For example, a search for wom?n will produce sources that contain both woman and women.

Title Search  For a title search, you will enter the title, starting with the first two or three important words in the title. Ignore A, An, and The at the beginning of a title. For example, for the book The Digital Age: 1947–Present Day, you would type the following:

Digital Age

Author Search  For an author search, you will enter the author’s last name first, followed by a comma and the first name. For example, for author Charlie Samuels, you would type the following:

Samuels, Charlie

When you enter titles and names, be sure the words you type are spelled correctly. A computer catalog can’t recognize misspelled words. It will search for exactly what you type.

If you need help with the computer catalog of your library, you can always ask a librarian for help. Many libraries also offer classes on how to use the library’s computer catalog and other databases.
Understanding Search Results

After you enter the keyword(s) of a subject, the title, or the author’s name, the screen will show you a list of related sources that are available at the library or libraries you selected. Let’s say you’re doing research on cloning and you’ve started a subject search by typing in the keyword cloning. The screen will show you a list similar to the one that follows.

The first row in the screen on page 403 shows that the computer found 21 sources about the keyword cloning. The screen shows entries for five of those sources. The title in each entry appears in blue and is underlined to show that it is a link. You can click on the link to see more information. If the source is in a format other than a book, the title line identifies the format in brackets. For example, the entry for the Star Wars entry shows [videorecording] after the title and a DVD icon in the last column to indicate the format.

Beneath the title line in each entry is the author and/or publishing information. The entry may also include the number of pages in a book; the size of a book; whether it has illustrations, an index, a glossary, or a bibliography; the number of discs in a video or sound recording; and the run time of each disc, indicated by the number of minutes.

To find facts about cloning, you will want to look for nonfiction sources. Because only the title, author, format, and publishing information appear on this screen, you should click on the title link to see a more detailed description of the source. The screen on the next page shows the detailed description that appears when the link Genetics in medicine / Andrew Solway is clicked.
Author: Solway, Andrew.
Title: Genetics in medicine

Contents:
- What is genetics? -- From genes to characteristics
- Genetic engineering
- Genetic disorders
- Cloning
- Combating aging
- The future of genetic engineering.

Subject: Medical genetics -- Juvenile literature.
Standard #: 9780836878653 (lib. bdg.)
0836878655 (lib. bdg.)
The detailed description may include a list of libraries that contain the source, as well as the call numbers for that source and a description of its availability. (Call numbers are numbers and letters used to classify books. They’re explained on pages 407–411.) If the source isn’t marked “fiction,” then you know that it is nonfiction. Library catalogs often use the word juvenile to indicate books that are suitable for teens and children. If the word juvenile or the letters JUV or J don’t appear, then you know that the source is meant for adults. For example, the screen on page 405 shows that the nonfiction book Genetics in Medicine is available on the shelf in juvenile literature at the ten libraries listed.

The detailed description may also include links to other sources related to your subject or author. For example, the screen on page 405 shows that the author’s name, Solway, Andrew, is a link. You would click on that link to see other books and materials written by Andrew Solway. The screen also shows that Cutting edge medicine and Medical genetics — Juvenile literature are links to other sources on these subjects.

Either print out or write down the call numbers for the sources you want. Then go to the location in the library, such as the teens (or young adults) nonfiction section, and find the shelf with call numbers for the source you want. For example, for a book with call number J 616.042 SOL, you would find the shelf with call numbers between 610 and 620. Then look down the rows for the book marked 616.042 SOL. The books are in numerical and alphabetical order, so it’s easy to find the one you’re looking for. Glance through the table of contents or index to be sure this book will help you learn more about cloning.
CARD CATALOGS

Some libraries have card catalogs instead of online computer catalogs. The cards list the same information as found in the computer catalog. However, they don’t tell you whether someone has checked out the book.

Card catalogs are stored in long, narrow drawers. The drawers hold two or more small cards for every book in the library. The cards are arranged in alphabetical order. Fiction books have two cards each. One lists the book by its author, and one lists the book by its title. Nonfiction books have at least three cards each. These cards list the book by its author, its title, and its subject or subjects.

A library may separate its card catalog into two categories: subject cards in one category and author and title cards in another. Often cards are cross-referenced, listing other available sources on the same subject or a related topic. A card catalog might also have separate cross-reference cards, filed alphabetically and listing related topics.

23.2 LOCATING BOOKS

The purpose of call numbers is to help you locate books. Most school and community libraries use call numbers based on the Dewey decimal system. Many college and university libraries use call numbers based on the Library of Congress system.

DEWEY DECIMAL SYSTEM

The Dewey decimal system was created in 1876 by a librarian named Melvil Dewey. This system divides nonfiction books into ten categories. The Dewey categories are described in the chart on the next page.
Let’s say you want to know more about author James Thurber. You’d begin by entering his last name as a keyword in a computer catalog or by looking under T in a card catalog.

The library might have many books by Thurber and about Thurber. One book might be My Life and Hard Times, a book by James Thurber. This book is placed in the 800 category, literature. Literature is broken into subcategories; for example, 810 is American literature, and 820 is English literature. James Thurber was an American author, so My Life and Hard Times has a call number in the 810s: 817 THU.
Some subcategories of the Dewey system contain hundreds of books. To make sure each book has its own call number, a decimal point and more numbers (and sometimes letters) are added to the number of the subcategory. For example, the book about genetics by Andrew Solway has a call number of 616.042 SOL. Many libraries add the first three letters of the author’s last name to the call number, such as SOL for Solway or THU for Thurber.

Library Tip

Two librarians may assign the same book to different Dewey categories. That’s why books in your library may have different call numbers than those noted here.

Our imaginary library has another book, a biography called Remember Laughter: A Life of James Thurber, by Neil A. Grauer. Its call number is B Thurber James. The B (or BIOG or BIOGRAPHY) at the beginning of a Dewey decimal call number identifies the book as biography. Some libraries group their biographies together in a separate section of the library. Often there is a biography section in the adult stacks as well as in the teens and children sections. Biographies are shelved alphabetically according to the subject of the book. James Thurber is the subject of the book Remember Laughter: A Life of James Thurber. So the book is located in the T section of the biographies.

The library also has a book called Thurber: A Biography, by Burton Bernstein. It, too, has a call number of B Thurber James. Two biographies with the same call number but different authors are shelved alphabetically by the last name of the author. That puts Bernstein’s book before Grauer’s book in the T section of the biographies.
One book of short stories by James Thurber, 92 Stories, is located in the fiction section. Most libraries using the Dewey system identify fiction in the call number with the letters F, Fic, or Fiction. The call number also includes the first three letters of the author’s last name or the author’s entire last name. For example, the call number of 92 Stories is Fic Thurber.

Fiction is shelved alphabetically by the authors’ last names. Books by the same author are shelved by the first important word in each title, ignoring A, An, and The. (The book 92 Stories is shelved as if the number were spelled out: Ninety-two.)

Reference books, such as encyclopedias, have an R or Ref in their call numbers. When you see R or Ref, remember that you cannot check out these sources. You must use them in the library.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS SYSTEM

The Library of Congress system divides books into twenty-one categories. Each category is represented by a letter as shown in the chart on the next page. Like the Dewey decimal system, the Library of Congress system has subcategories identified by a second letter. For example, N is the category for fine arts. You would look under NA for books about architecture, NB for sculpture, ND for painting, and so on. Numbers added to the letter combinations identify more specific categories.
In one library using the Library of Congress system, Neil A. Grauer’s book, Remember Laughter: A Life of James Thurber, has a call number of PS 3539.H94. The P stands for the general category of Literature, while S indicates a work by an American author. The next letter and numbers, .H94, are a code that stands for the author and the specific book.

Note that in the Library of Congress system, biographies are not filed separately but with the other books. Therefore, the call numbers of the biographies for Thurber begin with PS, indicating an American author.

FINDING INFORMATION IN NONFICTION BOOKS

Nonfiction books contain various sections that you can use to decide whether a source will be useful to you. Not every book contains all the sections described below.

Information About a Book

To find information about a book, check the following parts:

The title page contains the book title, the author’s name, and usually the publisher.

The copyright page gives the publication or copyright date. This page is usually printed on the back of the title page. Check the copyright date to see how current, or up to date, the information in the book is.

The table of contents lists the main topics covered in the book. This section may help you decide whether the book has the information you’re looking for.

The foreword, introduction, or preface is written by the author or an expert on the topic or subject. This section may explain the purpose of the book or the author’s outlook on the subject.

Information in a Book

To find information in a book, check the sections below:

The index lists the people, places, events, and other important topics mentioned in the book in alphabetical order. The pages in the book where you can find references to these topics are listed after each topic.

The glossary lists terms in the book in alphabetical order and defines them.

The bibliography suggests additional research sources that you might use. It may also include the sources for information found in the book itself.

The appendix contains additional information related to the book, such as maps, charts, illustrations, and graphs.

The afterword or epilogue is used by some authors to make a final statement about the book or offer additional findings.
23.3 LOCATING ARTICLES IN NEWSPAPERS AND MAGAZINES

You can find the latest information on a topic in newspapers, magazines, and journals. The two tools described below will make your search easier.

COMPUTER DATABASES

Many libraries have computers in a reference section that you can use for online references. These computers contain databases holding collections of magazine, journal, and newspaper articles. Most of these databases allow you to search by topic, by type of publication, or by specific publication. Some programs allow you to select the years you want to search, so you can see only the magazines or newspapers within that period of time. You usually can narrow your search to a specific magazine or newspaper, such as the New York Times. Some databases may allow you to review the table of contents of one issue of a magazine and read any of the articles that interest you.

To search for information in a database, begin by entering a keyword. The database will then list articles about that topic. The listing usually includes the title, the author, the publication, the date, and a sentence or two about the article. You can select any articles that seem useful. Then the database will allow you to read either a brief summary or the whole article on the computer screen. Usually for a small fee, you can print a copy of the article.

READERS’ GUIDE TO PERIODICAL LITERATURE

In addition to computer databases, some libraries may have the print edition of the Readers’ Guide to Periodical Literature. This guide includes titles of articles from about two hundred magazines and journals. Both subjects and authors are listed alphabetically and cross-referenced.
An update of the print edition of Readers’ Guide is published every two weeks. Information about all the articles published that year is reprinted in a hardbound book at the end of the year. The guide is also available online so you can search using a computer.

Libraries often keep issues for the current year in their newspapers and magazines area. Issues from the previous one to five years may be stored in a different area. Older issues may be on microfilm (a roll or reel of film) or microfiche (a sheet of film). Both types of film must be inserted into special projectors that enlarge the pages so that you can read them easily. Many libraries have converted their microfilm and microfiche collections to digital microform versions that can be viewed on computers. Usually for a small fee, you can print copies of articles from microfilm, microfiche, and microform to take home.

Evaluating Tip

Not every book in the library or article in library databases offers current, reliable information. The tips below will help you avoid sources that have outdated information or biased opinions.

1. Evaluate the author of each source of information. Look for information about the author’s background. Consider whether this person is an expert or just someone with many opinions.
2. Make sure the information is directly related to your topic. If you try to include facts that are slightly off your topic, your report will seem unorganized.
3. Check the publication date. You may use older sources for information that’s not likely to change, such as facts about the battles of World War II. However, your sources must be as recent as possible for topics that are in today’s headlines.
4. Evaluate the author’s thinking. Are the “facts” in a source really facts, or are they just opinions? Can they be proved or disproved? Does the author offer evidence to support his or her ideas?

5. Gather information on the same topic from several sources. By doing this, you’ll discover different opinions on the issue or topic, but the facts should remain the same.

23.4 USING OTHER REFERENCE SOURCES

GENERAL REFERENCE SOURCES

General reference sources are easy to use and provide information on thousands of topics. Many general reference sources are available in both print and digital formats. The chart that follows describes some excellent general references.

PLANNING LIBRARY RESEARCH

You might use the guidelines below to plan your research.

1. Start early. If you wait, other students may have checked out the sources you want to use.

2. Begin with the general reference sources rather than those that deal with specific fields or topics. A general source will offer an overview of your topic. It may provide all the information you need, or it may guide you to additional sources.

3. List the sources you want to check and mark each one off your list after you’ve examined it so you won’t check the same source twice.

4. Take careful notes and include the title, author, publisher, publication date, and page number of each source. (See pages 349–350 for more information about compiling source cards and note cards.)

5. Talk with the librarian about your project, its purpose, its length, and the kinds of sources you have been asked to use. Describe what you’ve done so far and be ready with specific questions you’d like answered. Librarians can often suggest valuable references you haven’t considered and perhaps help you locate them.

23.5 MAKING THE MOST OF WORD RESOURCES

A dictionary and a thesaurus can help you put more words on the tip of your tongue and at the tip of your pencil. Both references are essential tools for writers, and both are available in print and digital formats.

KINDS OF DICTIONARIES

You may not know that there are many kinds of dictionaries. Most of the dictionaries you’ve seen in school, in public libraries, and online are general dictionaries that include words from general English for a general reader. There also are specialized dictionaries that define only words used in a particular field, profession, art, or craft.

General Dictionaries

General dictionaries fall into the following categories:

- School dictionaries contain fewer than 90,000 entries. They focus on common words and offer easy-to-understand definitions.

- College dictionaries have about 150,000 entries. These references are used in homes, schools, and businesses. They answer most questions about spelling, and they offer a variety of definitions.

- Unabridged dictionaries contain more than 250,000 entries and often fill several volumes. They are generally located in libraries and include extensive definitions and word histories.

- Digital dictionaries often contain millions of definitions and meanings that you can use your computer to access online at no cost. In addition to definitions, these online dictionaries often provide audio pronunciations, example sentences, and word origins.

Specialized Dictionaries

Specialized dictionaries list words used in a particular field. Following are some examples of the many kinds of specialized dictionaries.

- Dictionary of Art Terms
- Dictionary of Dog Terms
- Dictionary of Inventions and Discoveries
- Dictionary of Sports Idioms
- Dictionary of Symbolism
- Facts on File Dictionary of Allusions

WORD ENTRIES IN GENERAL DICTIONARIES

General print dictionaries contain entries in alphabetical order. Digital dictionaries usually present only the entry for the word you searched. An entry is a single word or term along with its pronunciation, definition, and other information. When you look up a word in a dictionary, you are looking for its word entry.

Finding Words in a Print Dictionary

The guide words at the top of each dictionary page can help you find words quickly. Guide words are the first and last words on the page. If the word you’re looking for falls between these words alphabetically, it will be on that page.

For example, let’s say the guide words on a page are lintel and lisp. You’ll find the words lioness, lip-synch, and liquid on this page. However, linguistic comes before lintel, so it will be on an earlier page. Lithium comes after lisp, so it will be on a later page.

If you’re looking for a phrase beginning with St., the abbreviation will be spelled out: Saint. Look for Saint Bernard, not St. Bernard.

Search Tip

When you can’t find the word you’re looking for, consider these possibilities:

1. The word might have silent consonants, such as the k in knight, the b in doubt, or the gh in blight.

2. A consonant in the word might have an unusual spelling. For example, the k sound can be spelled with k (kindness), c (contract, lecture), ck (mackerel), or ch (chrysanthemum, chrome).

3. A vowel in the word might have an unusual spelling, such as the first vowel sound in beautiful.

4. Your dictionary might not contain enough entries. An unusual word might not be listed in a school dictionary, for example.
Understanding Dictionary Entries

Let’s analyze a dictionary entry to see what kinds of information it offers.

1. The Entry Word: The entry word itself shows the correct spelling of the word. A raised dot or a blank space within the entry word shows where the word may be divided at the end of a line of writing. The entry word will also show you when a compound word should be written as one solid word (as in landfill), when it should be hyphenated (as in land-poor), and when it should be written as two words (as in land mine).

2. The Respelling: The respelling, or pronunciation, is shown immediately after the entry word. An accent mark follows the second syllable in infer to show that the second syllable should be stressed when pronouncing the word. So that you can check the pronunciation of the letters and symbols in the respelling, a pronunciation key is shown on every page or every other page in most dictionaries.

3. Part of Speech Label: An abbreviation in italic type gives the part of speech of the entry word. The abbreviation v. stands for verb; adj. stands for adjective; and n. stands for noun.

4. Inflected Forms: Inflected forms include plurals of nouns, principal parts of verbs (past, past participle, and present participle), and comparative and superlative forms of adjectives and adverbs. These forms are included in a dictionary entry only when they have irregular spellings. When the past and the past participle of a verb are the same, only one form is shown for both. The sample entry shows that inferred is the past form and the past participle of infer, and inferring is the present participle. These forms are considered irregular because the final consonant is doubled when the ending is added.

   This part of a dictionary entry can help you spell irregular plural forms, such as quizzes for quiz and rodeos for rodeo. This section will also show you when to double a final consonant (stop, stopping; sad, sadder), when to drop a final e (dine, dining), and when to change a final y to i (easy, easiest) before adding an ending.

5. Definitions: Definitions are the heart—and the longest part—of a dictionary entry. If an entry word has more than one meaning, each definition is numbered. Example sentences are often included to make meanings clearer.

6. Run-on Entries: Definitions in a dictionary entry may be followed by one or more run-on entries. A run-on entry is a form of the entry word to which a suffix has been added. In the sample dictionary entry, inferable and inferrer are run-on entries. Each run-on entry is preceded by a dash and followed by its pronunciation and its part of speech. The meanings of these words can be inferred by combining the meaning of the entry word and the meaning of the suffix. (See the list of suffixes and their meanings on pages 307–308.)

7. Etymology: Many dictionary entries include the etymology, or origin or history of the word. The entry for infer explains that this word is based on a Middle French word. The Middle French word was based on a Latin word with a literal meaning of “to carry or bring into.” When you infer, you carry or bring your knowledge into a new situation. You use what you know to reach a conclusion. You can see that the Middle French and Latin versions of the word are both similar to the English spelling.

8. Synonyms: Some dictionary entries list synonyms, or words with the same or nearly the same meanings. Understanding small differences in meaning will help you use the right word in the right place. Some dictionaries also include antonyms, words with opposite meanings.

Some words have more than one meaning or word history; some may be used as more than one part of speech. In such cases, a dictionary may have multiple entries for a word. Let’s look at three entries for the word rest:

1. rest (rest) n.
   1. repose, sleep
   2. freedom from activity or disturbance
   3. something that acts as a stand or a support
   4. a place for resting or lodging
   5. Music. a silence between musical notes
   6. a brief pause in reading [Middle English, from Old English; akin to Old High German rasta “rest”]

2. rest v.
   1. to get rest by lying down or stopping activity
   2. to lie dead
   3. Farming. to remain idle or without a crop

3. rest n. something that remains over; remainder: Jada ate the rest of the fruit salad. [Middle English, from Middle French reste, from rester “to remain,” from Latin restare, from re- + stare “to stand”]

Numbered Entries Notice the small raised numeral to the left of each entry word in the preceding dictionary sample. This number indicates there is more than one entry for the word. Some dictionaries show separate entries for each part of speech. Some show separate entries for each meaning that has a different word history, or etymology.

In the first and second entries, the meanings have to do with pausing, sleeping, or remaining idle, but the entry words are different parts of speech. The third entry word is the same part of speech as the first, but the word’s meaning and its etymology are different.

Cross-References Synonyms within an entry are sometimes printed in small capital letters. In the entries for rest, the words repose, sleep, and remainder are synonyms for specific meanings of rest. You can learn more about these meanings of rest by looking up the words in small capital letters.

Subject Labels Some dictionary entries include subject labels. A subject label preceding a definition indicates that the definition applies to the subject named. In the sample entries for rest, there are three subject labels. In rest definition 5 applies to music. In rest definition 3 applies to farming, and definition 4 applies to law.

The chart on the next page gives examples of other kinds of information you may find in a dictionary entry.

OTHER KINDS OF INFORMATION IN GENERAL DICTIONARIES

You can find other kinds of information in the back of some dictionaries. Following is a list of some of the kinds of information you may find in a dictionary.

Biographical Names

Do you remember James Thurber? Who was he? When was he born? When did he die? A section of biographical names gives the spelling and pronunciation of thousands of people’s names, from Berenice Abbott (an American photographer who lived from 1898 to 1991) to Stefan Zweig (an Austrian writer who was born in 1881 and died in 1942).

Geographical Names

How do you pronounce Kilimanjaro? What is it, and where is it? In a section of geographical names, you can find the correct spelling, pronunciation, and location of countries, cities, mountains, lakes, rivers, and other geographical features. Entries range from Lake Abitibi, in Ontario, Canada, to Zimbabwe, a country in southern Africa.

Abbreviations, Signs, and Symbols

Is the postal abbreviation for Maine MA, MN, or ME? A dictionary may include lists of abbreviations, signs, and symbols. Check this section if you can’t remember, for example, what NOAA stands for (National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration) or what the symbol & means (and).

Style Handbook

Some dictionaries include a style guide. This section may include rules for spelling, punctuation, and capitalization. It may also include other matters of writing style. Investigate your dictionary to find out what it has to offer.

Thesauruses

A thesaurus lists synonyms, or words with the same or nearly the same meanings. Thesauruses are available in both print and digital formats. A print thesaurus may be organized in dictionary style or traditional style. A digital thesaurus may present entries in alphabetical order.

Print Format

A thesaurus in print, or book, format will be organized in either dictionary style or traditional style.
Traditional Style  Let’s say you’ve used the word continue several times in a report, and you want to find a synonym. To use a traditional thesaurus, begin by looking in the index. There you might find these choices:

- continue endure 110.6
- protract 110.9
- go on 143.3
- extend 201.9
- persevere 623.2

Let’s say that extend seems like a good word to replace continue in your report. You could use extend, or you could look in the front of the book under 201.9 for more choices. Guide numbers at the top of each page help you find the number you want quickly. They’re similar to a dictionary’s guide words.

On the page with the guide numbers 201.3–203.7, you find paragraph 201.9, a group of synonyms for extend. The most commonly used words are printed in bold type.

VERBS 9. lengthen, prolong, prolongate, elongate, extend, produce [geom.], protract, continue, lengthen out, let out, draw out, string out [coll., U.S.], spin out; stretch, draw; tense, strain.

A page in the back of the thesaurus explains that geom. stands for geometry and coll. stands for colloquial, or informal.

Dictionary Style  A dictionary-style thesaurus is organized much like a dictionary. Using the guide words at the top of the page, locate the word continue. Checking the front of the book, you learn that an asterisk (*) indicates that a term is colloquial or slang.

CONTINUE

*Verb. 1. [To persist] persevere, carry forward, maintain, carry or roll or keep or go or run or live on, never stop, sustain, remain, press onward, make headway, move ahead, leave no stone unturned; see also ADVANCE.

Antonyms: cease, end, give up
2. [To resume] begin again, renew, begin or carry over, return to, take up again, begin where one left off, be reinstated or restored; see also resume.

_Antonyms:_ discontinue, halt, postpone

Digital Format

A digital thesaurus requires you to type into a search box the word for which you want a synonym. Although each thesaurus program presents synonym entries a little differently, most will display entries by definition with synonyms for that meaning listed alphabetically. Each entry identifies the part of speech, one or more definitions, and a list of synonyms with similar meanings. Some or all of the synonyms may link to other words. Linked words may be underlined or a different color. You can click on linked words to see additional entries for the word you clicked.

Let’s say you’ve typed _continue_ into the thesaurus search box. You might see the following entries:

When you’re looking for up-to-date information, digital resources can provide an excellent starting point. The Internet is an increasingly important source of information for people of all ages around the world. CDs, DVDs, and other digital resources that are not connected to the Internet also offer vast amounts of information.

The Internet is a computer-based, worldwide information network. The World Wide Web, or WWW, is software that determines what is displayed on the Internet. Working together, the Internet and the World Wide Web allow you to gather information without leaving your home, school, or library.

UNDERSTANDING ADDRESSES

The information on the Internet is organized by locations, or sites. Each site has its own address. An address is also called a Uniform Resource Locator, or URL.

Most addresses begin with http://, which stands for “hypertext transfer protocol.” The http identifies a way in which information is exchanged among computers that are connected by the Internet. The last part of an address, or its suffix, indicates the type of site it is. The chart on the next page identifies some of the suffixes in use.
ACCESSING WEB SITES

Let’s say you’re connected to the Internet, and you want to view the information at a certain site or address. You can enter the address on the computer screen and be connected to the site.

You can also access specific reference sources, such as the New York Times or Encyclopaedia Britannica, in this way. Some of these sources are free. For others you must subscribe and perhaps pay a fee. A screen will explain any extra charges that are required. Then you can choose whether to continue.

The Evaluating Tip on the next page will help you decide whether the digital sources you find on the Internet are credible, or trustworthy.
No one oversees Web sites to make sure they offer accurate information. You must evaluate each site yourself. First, review the “Evaluating Tip” on pages 414–415. The tips listed there also apply to Internet sources. The following tips will also help you evaluate Internet sources.

1. Determine whether a Web site actually relates to your topic. A search engine will use every possible meaning of your keyword to produce its list of sites.

2. Check the source of the information on a Web site. (You may have to press the “move back” key several times to identify a source.) Many Web sites are personal pages. Just because you find information on the Web doesn’t mean the information is true or accurate.

3. Evaluate the accuracy and fairness of the information on a Web site. Is it based on more than one source? Are differing opinions included? After doing some of your own research elsewhere, are you aware of important information that was omitted from the site? Does the site include a bibliography and links to other sites? The answers to these questions can help you decide whether to use that source.
